Marilyn Maxwell as an "atom" dancer has some interesting lines—but when she isn't behind the atoms she seems pretty bored with goings on; and when she wasn't dancing, things were pretty boring.

In fact, almost all the cast acts as if it wishes it were connected with something else; everybody, that is, except Gable, who seems to be enjoying himself immensely.

Lewis Stone and James Gleason act roles they've been acting for years, and which are funny only under special circumstances; and the late Frank Morgan is an Irish firechief, not the type of a role that he is best in.

"Key to the City" was probably meant as light, diverting spring entertainment. But you can do much better almost any Wednesday night at Chapman, for free. Tonight, for example, Chapman will show "The Late George Apley," a delightful comedy with Ronald Coleman and Peggy Cummins.

Federal Exams Set for Apr. 22

Examinations for jobs as council reporter or legal stenographer with the Portland Civil Service will be held Apr. 22 in Portland.

The jobs are permanent, and provision is made for salary increases and sick leave privileges. The only requirement is graduation from a four-year high school or sufficient college or business experience.

Pay for a council reporter ranges from $225 to $260 and for legal stenographer, $220 to $250. The examinations will consist of demonstration tests involving transcription or typing, and a clerical test. Candidates are required to furnish their own pencils and stenographic notebooks.

Applications must be filed by Apr. 19 at room D, Municipal Auditorium. The examinations on Apr. 22 will be given at 8:30 a. m. at Behnke-Walker Business College, 1017 S. W. Washington.

Northwestern Choir Raising Kane Appears Today

The Northwestern School A Cappella Choir is scheduled to appear in Eugene on Wednesday, Apr. 12. The group will appear at the First Baptist Church at 868 High St. at 8 p. m.

The choir, under the direction of William B. Bernsten, is on its fourth annual concert. They have sang throughout the Midwest, East, and Canada.

The program will be strictly vocal added the concert features. The group has won the acclaim of the critics wherever they have appeared and have been praised with an abundance of journalistic adjectives.

n't I once tell you that lawyers only argue what the law is, and that the law is what judges say it is?"

"Yes."

"Didn't I also say that judges often decide what the law should be in order to do justice, then find reasons to back up their decision?"

"Yes."

Can the gentle reader guess the decision of the court? It was for the little old sand and gravel company.

G-2 Positions Open For Enlisted Men

Enlisted men interested in military intelligence may apply to Ralph Ottenbacher, 104 Friendly Hall, for one of two openings in the Organized Reserve Corps announced recently by the department of military science.

Previous experience in the intelligence division is not required, although it is desired. One of the two positions is to be filled immediately, the other at a later date.

monetary fines from students and, if it has that power, whether it can be delegated (as to a student court), McKenzie stated that he plans to join the other students in presenting their question of constitutionality to the Judiciary Committee.

One of the members of the Judiciary Committee, recently appointed by ASUO President Art Johnson and University President Harry K. Newburn, is Morrie Galen, one of the students accompanying Caldwell.

Parking Rules Unobtainable

Galen, however, made no comment on the constitutionality issue. This matter will be taken up by the committee in its next meeting.

Caldwell also complained that he had been unable to procure a copy of the parking regulations at the Office of Student Affairs.

Student Court Chairman Dick Neeley expressed regret at this situation and stated that he would look into the matter immediately.

The court heard a total of seven cases Tuesday night. Three students were fined $1 each; two were postponed until next week because of incomplete evidence; and the two law students posted bail until further decision. One student forfeited bail at the Office of Student Affairs.

Grand Opera Starts

and the aria "M'appari" (Martha, Martha). In addition the melodious production features two popular quartettes—the Spinning Wheel Quartet and the Good Night Quartet.

"Martha" is laid in England, during the period of Queen Anne. It relates the story of a bored noblewoman and her maid who attend a country fair in disguise. There they meet two farmers who hire the ladies as servants. Martha becomes disturbed at the situation in which she finds herself and returns to court life, even though one of the farmers has fallen in love with her.

Though the lovers become separated, the story is happily resolved when Lionel proves his noble blood.

WSSF works because students in foreign countries know the desperate need for trained people—in medicine, law, engineering, and all the professions.
