Daytime Assemblies Sought for Next Year

By MARJORY BUSH
 President's office, and the ASUO Fixecutive Council.

Tuesday the Assembly Committee decided that due to poor student attendance at night assemblies, it would not contract for any speakers for the school year of 1950-51, Dick Williams, secretary, said.
The committee is now petition ing the Board of Deans for daytime assemblies.
It also decided that in case daytime assemblies are granted, it would ask the Student Union Board and the ASUO Council to work with the committee in pro moting these assemblies, and in making the student body more conscious of them.
The Exec Council has been working on the possibility of this switch throughout the year, President Art Johnson, stated Wednesday.

Offer Rallies, Speakers
The revised program would not only offer four or five prominent speakers during the year, but also weekly student body meetings for rallies and programs.
"Football rallies, introduction of candidates during elections, and short skits could be included,' Johnson said. "This would help a great deal in promotion of school pirit by its unifying effect on the whole campus," he beliect on the
Before the war the
Before the war, the University maintained a day-time assembly program, when speakers, and stud weekly.
"The greatest thing hindering the adoption of day-time assemblies is the class schedule," Lyle M. Nelson, director of information, reported.

Possible Time Given
The most probable hour seem o be $1 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. on Tuesciay or Thursday, Nelson said. The administration is now in the process of determining the effect such a change would have on classes.

Enrollment Drops

 As Vets Leave,
Says Constance

A steadily decreasing number of veterans is responsible for a decline in University enrollment, according to Clifford L. Constance, egistrar.
The 4956 students now enrolled for spring term is 348 students less than that of the same time last ear. The Registrar's Office exects a further decrease of 10 per ent in 1950-51.
"Four years ago, veterans boostd the number of incoming students 104 per cent, and now that the bulk of vets are graduating he enrollment is expected to drop to pre-
He said that this drop was still ar in the future, as the registraion figures are remaining above he pre-war peak of 3705. Approxmately $5000-5500$ students are expected to enroll next fall.
Constance blamed a regular rend of reduction from fall to pring for the loss of 625 students ince fall term.
"A large number of students uit school each spring, and this yar's decline was less than wo had anticipated," he said.
