

'Ham 'n Eggs' Operas Set For Saturday

"Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," the twins of grand opera to be presented at 8 Saturday night in McArthur court, have been nicknamed "ham and eggs" by the music world.

The two operas have become a perennial double bill. Abounding in familiar melodies, they are among the most popular operatic productions in America.

Both deal with the lives, loves, and deaths of simple Italian peasants. Both were presented nearly 60 years ago by the same company.

Sicilian Love Story

"Cavalleria Rusticana" is a one-act melodrama by G. Targioni-Tozzetti and G. Menasci set to music by Pietro Mascagni.

It is the story of the Sicilian peasant girl Santuzza, who becomes the mistress of a soldier who returns to his village and finds Lola, his sweetheart, married to someone else.

Marguerite Lamb will sing the part of Santuzza. Turiddu, the ex-soldier, will be played by Jon Crain. Margaret Roggero will play Lucia, his mother. Frank Cappelli will sing the role of Alfio, the teamster. Grace Hoffman will portray Lola.

"The Players"

"I Pagliacci"—translated "The Players"—is a two act drama by Ruggiero Leoncavallo. The plot is based on a tragedy within a traveling troupe of players.

Canio, chief of the comedy troupe, discovers that his wife, Nedda, has been unfaithful to him. When Nedda refuses to tell the name of her lover, Silvio, Canio plans his revenge—a performance based on the actual circumstances.

Tragic Ending

During the "comedy," Canio suddenly stops acting and rushes at Nedda demanding the name of her lover. Frightened, Nedda calls to Silvio as Canio thrusts his dagger through her breast.

Silvio hurries to the stage, where he too is stabbed. Canio turns to the village audience and announces "The comedy is ended."

So is the opera.

Cast Listed

Ernest McChesney will play Canio; Constanza Pillori, his wife Nedda; Richard Torigi, Tonio; Byron Steele, Beppo; and Thomas Perkins, Silvio.

The production will be directed by Paul Breisach. Stage director will be Desire Defrere.

Sponsored by the Civic Music Association, the opera is open to members and to University students.

Youth Control School Studies Crime Problems

Since 80 per cent of all juvenile cases come first to the attention of the police, the work of the police department in prevention of juvenile delinquency is of prime importance, Laurence R. Kirvan, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, stated Wednesday.

Kirvan, who is supervising a five-day Juvenile Control School being held in Johnson Hall this week, emphasized that prevention should be a cooperative effort of all community agencies.

65 Attend School

Approximately 65 law enforcement and probation officers, school officials, and judges have been attending the school. Discussion subjects have included crime prevention problems, the role of the police, the psychology of the youthful offender, causative factors, gangs, sex offenders, juvenile courts, and new trends in treatment.

Topics for today and Friday will center on juvenile bureaus, junior police, and the school, church, and community in the field of juvenile control.

Eugene Participants

Among Eugene men participating in the school program are Circuit Court Judge William East; Lloyd Gillett, director of special education in Eugene; Paul Potter, dean of boys, Eugene High School; Father Francis Leipzig, St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church; and Dr. Wesley G. Nicholson, Congregational Church.

The Portland office of the FBI is sponsoring the school, assisted by the Oregon Association of City Police Officers and the League of Oregon Cities.

Yearbook Sale Continues Today

Sale of the remaining copies of the 1950 Oregonian will continue today and tomorrow at the Co-op, Business Manager Jim Sanders said yesterday.

One-hundred copies were placed sale Wednesday; the supply has since dwindled. Students must make the full payment of $6 at this time.

Any student who has already reserved a book for $4 will be guaranteed his copy. However, if the buyer wishes to pay the other $2 rather than having it deducted from his breakage fee, he is asked to make this payment anytime before May 15 at the Student Union Office or when the books are distributed.

Graduation Planners Picked

A faculty committee to plan the 1950 commencement program was appointed last week by President H. K. Newburn. Clifford L. Constance, registrar, heads the committee.

Members include; Lyle Nelson, programs; G. S. Jette, microphone and radio; J. S. Carlson, head marshal; E. R. Knollin, marshal of faculty procession; P. R. Washke, marshal of platform party; R. D. Clark, reading names of degree candidates; Les Anderson, alumni events; J. D. Kline, awards booklet; and J. O. Lindstrom, gifts booklet.

Szigeti Featured For Violin Concert

The Civic Music Association will present a violin concert by Joseph Szigeti at 3 p. m. Apr. 23 in McArthur court.

The violinist had scheduled a concert in Eugene winter term, but was prevented from reaching the city because of snow.

Hungarian-born Szigeti has made two concert tours around the world. Since his 1925 American debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra, he has made annual coast-to-coast concert appearances.

Last year the Musical America poll of the 600 leading American and Canadian music critics named the artist "one of the dominating violin personalities of the year."

Also in 1949 a nationwide poll of critics named his Brahms Violin Concerto with the Philadelphia Orchestra as the best concerto recording of the year.

His concert here will include selections by Corelli, Bach, Beethoven, Mompou-Szigeti, Szymanowski, Cowell, and Stravinsky-Dushkin.
