cated as next choice. A "continuing candidate" is one not yet elected or defeated.

If this transfer of the "defeated candidate's" ballots raises the total of another candidate's votes over the "quota" he will be pronounced elected. After this has been done, if there are positions yet to be filled, again the one with the lowest number of votes will be considered defeated, and his ballots will be transferred to the "continuing candidates." This procedure of defeating the lowest candidate and giving his votes to the others who are still in the running will be continued until the election is ended.

with children, having spent six weeks as a counselor at Camp Namanu, girls' summer camp, after her freshman year.

"I was a counselor in a cabin of eight-and nine-year-old girls," she explains. "It was wonderful experience—I've never seen anybody ask so many questions!"

This summer Miss Chamberlain plans to spend as a waitress at Suttle Lake, combining dining room duties with helping in a program for the entertainment of children staying with their parents at the resort. The proposed program would include nature hikes and similar recreation.

"The only trouble is I probably won't get home at all to speak of this summer," the finalist says. She plans to attend the national Theta convention in Swampscott, Miss., immediately after the close of school.

Miss Chamberlain is no newcomer to the ranks of Oregon contestants—she was a finalist for Homecoming Hostess in 1948. She's familiar with the members of this year's battery of Junior Weekend finalists, too—Finalists Mary Knox, Toinette Rosenberg, and Mary Lou Bittman were her classmates at Portland's Grant High School.

"Fishing's one of my favorite sports," she comments, explaining that her father is quite an angling enthusiast and that the family makes an annual pilgrimage to the Astoria fishing regatta.

Choral Show Set for Tonight

The old and the new will be blended in a choral program to be presented at 6:15 p.m. today over KOAC.

The University Singers under the direction of Donald Allton, professor of organ and theory, will offer madrigal arrangements of compositions ranging from the work of Johann Sebastian Bach to "Mighty Oregon."

Among the works listed for the program are "Sheep and Lambs May Safely Graze" by Bach, and "Psalm 150" by Cesar Franck. The madrigal arrangements are a more elaborate form than the glee, and are in four or five parts. They are usually set to a pastoral lyric. One of the features of the program will be a spiritual, "De Lawd God A'-Mighty's On His Throne," composed by Mitchell B. Southal.

Anne Hoppe and Madelon Adler will provide piano accompaniment for the singers.

At 6:45, Dr. Alburey Castell will review "Farewell Sermon" by Ralph Waldo Emerson on his weekly "Invitation to Read" session.

A wave of prosperity always makes a lot of swells.

Gloria

through the countryside.

Pets a Hobby

Pets have always been Gloria's hobby. And she's had quite an assortment—goats, chickens, dogs, guinea hen, and horses, of course. "Jet," a "very large" black Labrador retriever, is one of her special favorites.

A visit to Japan after graduation is one of Gloria's dreams. She'd like to work "for a year or two" in Japan, perhaps as a school teacher.

Far East curriculum is her major in the University, although she's taking educational psychology, Russian conversation, and oriental art on the side. She is secretary of the University Russian Arts Club.

Summer Plans

Her plans for next summer are already made. She's going to work with the Pacific University Summer Theater in Forest Grove and Newport, spending five weeks in each town. She hasn't appeared in any University drama productions, but was active in high school dramatics.

Sketching is another of Gloria's pastimes, but she does it "just around the farm" and only for fun.

A girl who likes to do all her studying in the morning and afternoon, Gloria loves to spend her spare time "just soshing with the girls" in her sorority house—Alpha Chi Omega.

Wesley Foundation Plans Coast Trip

Wesley Foundation, student religious center sponsored by the Methodist Church, will meet representatives from other Oregon colleges at a conference at Camp Magruder this week-end, Apr. 21-23.

More than 250 students are expected at the coast retreat. Students interested can register at Wesley House, 1347 Onyx St.

Guest leaders will be Miss Dorothy Nyland, personnel secretary of the Methodist Board of Missions and Church Extension, and Dr. Heil D. Bollinger, executive secretary of the Methodist Department of University Religious Work. Dr. Bollinger will also be on campus Thursday, speaking at Wesley House at 7 p.m. All students are invited.

Lecture Series to Meet

Walt Whitman and his "Out of The Cradle Endlessly Rocking" is the topic set for tonight's Lecture-Forum Series in the library browsing room at 7:30.

Dr. H. H. Hoeltje, professor of English, will talk on Whitman and Dr. Carlisle Moore, professor of English, will lead the discussion period.

Pat

High event centered around Portland's Rose Festival.

Activities

Besides her nomination as queen of the University's most gala weekend, Pat's activities have also included staff work for the Emerald and Old Oregon.

To Pat, spring term means something more than Junior Weekend, although that is most important to her. But balmy May days mean picnics and swimming, and swimming happens to be this comely, 5-foot, 6-inch coed's favorite sport.

Pat has the advantage of being able to swim right in her backyard. Her home is on the shore of Lake Oswego near Portland, and when she isn't swimming, Pat also enjoys canoeing and motorboating.

An Anthro Major

Although the 124-pound junior expects to get a degree in anthropology next year, she doesn't plan to go into that field after graduation.

"I do enjoy anthro and that's why I'm majoring in it," she said, "but I'll probably go into some kind of secretarial work after I'm through school."

Miss Lakin realizes the span between an anthropologist and a secretary. Her added comment:

"I wonder what the anthro department would think about a potential secretary studying the history of mankind?"

BA School Holds 'Business Clinic'

The University School of Business Administration, with the cooperation of the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce, held a "Business Clinic" in Roseburg last Monday.

Topics for discussion were "Tax Problems in Relation to Business," and "Industrial Development of Roseburg and the State of Oregon."

Representatives from the University were professors C. F. Ziebarth, W. C. Ballaine, A. L. Lomax, W. D. Richins, and J. H. Gilbert.

The "Business Clinic" is the first of a series to be held in different Oregon communities.

Professor Writes Economics Book

R. D. Millican, professor of advertising, has written a book entitled "Principles of Consumer Economics" which will be off the press next year.

The Richard D. Irwin Company of Chicago will publish the book, a college-level text dealing with income, changes in price level, consumer legislation, effective taxation, and other elements of consumer economics.

Comp Department Adds Major Course

Creative writing will be offered as a major course in the University beginning next fall, according to P. W. Souers, head of the English Department.

Director of the new program will be Robeson Bailey, professor of English.

Addition of the new major will bring to three the number of majors offered in the English department. The other two are English literature and American literature.

Changes Planned

Some changes will be made in the present writing courses, although freshmen with "demonstrated" talent—those who make an "A" or "B" average in first- and second-term composition courses—will continue to be excused from third-term composition to take advanced writing during spring term.

Sophomores will be offered a general course in writing, including both short story fiction and non-fictional forms.

Variety Offered

A greater variety of courses will be offered upper division students, including courses in advanced short story and novel writing. All courses, except versification, will carry three hours of credit beginning next fall term.

Seniors in creative writing will be required to write a novel, biography, play, long poem, or other work, before receiving a degree in the field.

YWCA Sponsors Dance

The first young-adult ballroom dance, sponsored by the Y-Center dance committee of the YWCA, will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the Eugene Y-Center.

Admission will be 35 cents per person, 50 cents per couple. All students may attend the dance, the committee announced.

FACTS ABOUT EUGENE'S WATER & ELECTRIC UTILITIES

In April, 1911, the Eugene Water & Electric Board had just one electric customer—the Eugene Planing Mill.

This year—39 years later—the Eugene Planing Mill is still a customer. And there are 17,000 other customers now—all receiving ample electricity at rates among the lowest in the U. S.
