Officers' Training Deadline Extended

Application deadline for Naval Reserve Officer Candidate summer training classes has been extended until further notice, according to Commander R. E. Kerr Jr., local Naval Reserve commander.

The deadline was previously announced as Apr. 1.

Summer classes for men will convene July 10 at Newport, R. I., and San Diego, Calif. Women candidates will report to the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. the first week of July.

College reservists are eligible provided they have at least two summers remaining before completing studies for either baccalaureate or an advanced degree.

Information is available at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 1520 W. 13th st.

New SU to Include Facilities for Culture

(This is the third of eight articles on the Erb Memorial Union. Next Monday's article will cover the student offices that will be found in the new union building.)

By GENE ROSE
If it's culture you want the Erb Memorial Union has it.

A complete library browsing room, an art gallery, two phonograph listening rooms, and a piano practice room are the cultural features of the new student union building. All of these facilities are on the upper floors.

At the North end of the building and facing the infirmary is the Adelaide Church Memorial Room presently found in the campus library. When this room is ready for occupancy the entire furnishings and collection of the browsing room will be transferred to the student union. The rooms are identical in size and construction.

Art Gallery
Near the center of the building and facing University Street is the art gallery, which will be easily reached by the Memorial's stairs. The gallery has been designed with emphasis on simplicity of decoration and design. The lighting has been arranged to afford the best display of exhibited articles.

Exhibits for the gallery will include both traveling and student works in arts and crafts.

Phonograph Rooms
The two phonograph listening rooms are designed in a living room style with custom made players which will play all types and sizes of records. It will be possible to broadcast the recording throughout the building or in the browsing room alone. Records for the rooms will be supplied by the Student Union.

A piano practicing room, which is almost soundproof, will be found next to the west side listening room. A new Baldwin piano has been purchased for the room, which has been finished in a pastel blue.

No charge will be made for the use of any cultural facilities.

Ladies' Day

By JO MORTON
Shorts-clad home-run specialists are not a Hollywood monopoly. Those in doubt need only take a stroll by the Gerlinger Softball field between 4:50 and 5:50 any night of the week.

There the great American game is played in style by co-eds from every women's living organization on campus. Today will end practices, and Monday will see the beginning of a hard fought double elimination tournament.

Tennis practices are also underway (on days when they're not under water.) A consolation tournament is scheduled to start Monday. Two tournaments, for beginning and advanced players, will be played.

Tuesdays and Thursdays a host of both new and experienced Hockey players turn out for Spring practice. All interested women are urged to come and learn the game. It isn't nearly so rugged a sport as it looks—those wicked looking sticks are used only for hitting the BALL, say those who play.

The Outing "Callouses and Corns" Club will start Spring term Sunday with a bicycle ride to Coburg hills. A sign-up sheet will be posted in Gerlinger Thursday for all interested.

A house athletic managers meeting will be held in 121 Gerlinger at 6:45 tonight to discuss tennis and softball tournaments.

Census Takers Ask Cooperation

Census takers working the University area are having difficulty in completing the census because of failure of "sample" students to fill out and return forms given them.

That's the word of Ray Feves, district supervisor of Southwestern Oregon, U. S. Census Bureau, who has requested students to cooperate in returning the forms to the living organization president, who in turn will give the forms to the census taker.

Information on the census forms is strictly confidential, Feves pointed out. This is the first time that University students have been counted in the town in which they attend school, previously they were considered residents of their "home" town.

Census takers on the campus are all University students: Charles Dimon, sophomore in business; John Adams, freshman in liberal arts; Irving Steinbock, senior in speech; Donn Hopkins, fifth year student in architecture and allied arts; and Dick Reum.

French Table Today

Informal French conversation will be conducted at the French Table to be held at noon today at the Anchorage. The gathering is held every Thursday for those who enjoy speaking French.

Rushing Signup Deadline Friday

Women wishing to participate in the two-week spring rush period, starting April 24, may apply at the Office of Student Affairs until noon Friday, according to Joan White, Panhellenic president.

Miss White said that no girl may be pledged unless her name is on the official rushing list, which includes only those women registered with the Office of Student Affairs.

An orientation meeting for rush-ees will be held Friday at 4 p.m., in the office.

Pledging will take place May 8, and members may move into the houses next fall. A $5 rushing fee will be charged.

Phi Theta Petitions Deadline 5 Today

Petitions for membership to Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary, are due Thursday at 5 p.m.

They may be turned in to Ruth Landry, Alpha Phi, or to Leslie Tooze Kappa Alpha Theta.

Applications for the Phi Theta scholarships may be submitted to the Office of Women's affairs until May 1. The honorary is offering scholarships to sophomore women on the basis of grades and need.

First Faculty-Student Fireside Follows Plan of Other Colleges

Designed to improve faculty-student relationships on the campus, the first in a series of Faculty-Student Firesides was held last night at the home of F. E. Dart, professor of physics.

Twenty students attended the fireside and discussed informally both national and local problems.

"I would be willing to bet that not over two per cent of the Oregon student body has expressed its wishes or ideas to other students, let alone to any of the government officials who are responsible for the good and bad in government," Prof. Dart replied in response to what good the fireside program might accomplish.

"Public intelligence is greatly improved by people's getting together and talking about issues by which they are affected," the professor explained.

A YMCA-YWCA committee, headed by Bob Biggs and Sue Bachelder, co-chairmen, has organized the fireside program, known as "Bull Sessions," in an attempt to fill the need for a closer student-faculty relationship which has been expressed by numerous campus groups.

This type of program has been successfully carried out in nearly all of the Western schools and was decided to be advisable here after committee investigation, Biggs explained.

"Students and faculty get to know each other outside of the lecture room, and can let down their hair and talk frankly about issues concerning both. Such a relationship is otherwise almost impossible," Biggs said.

The next in the series of firesides will again be held at the Dart home April 27. A new and larger group will attend, including another faculty member and his wife.

Modernistic furniture seems to be all about these days—but most people don't know what.
