

Faculty Senate To Deliberate Former Motions

Four motions will be discussed and recommendations made by the Faculty Senate in their Wednesday meeting. The faculty will act on the motions at its meeting May 10.

The first three motions were made by C. F. Weigle, chairman of the special committee for the study of academic requirements.

The first would change residence requirements for the bachelor's degree from 45 hours (normally the last 45) to 45 term hours of the last 60 presented for the degree.

This would make it possible to take up to 15 hours of the last 60 off-campus without petitioning the Academic Requirements Committee, Weigle explained.

The second motion would make uniform requirements for all students by requiring a minimum of 62 hours in upper-division courses for the bachelor's degree. In the past, only 45 such hours have been required for majors in the professional schools.

Concerning the second bachelor's degree, the third motion states that "a second bachelor's degree may be granted, but an additional 36 term hours of credit shall be earned in residence beyond the requirements for the first degree."

"This would be putting into legislation procedure that has been followed previously, but was not an official rule," Weigle stated.

The final motion, to be presented by R. T. Ellickson, chairman of the committee for faculty organization and procedure, would decree that any faculty member holding the title of dean shall be ineligible for election to the Advisory Council.

Missing in Action: 'Queen of Siberia'

If you see "Gloria, Queen of Siberia," around the campus, Victor C. Strash, professor of Slavic languages, would like to know about it.

"Gloria" is a poster that used to adorn the south hall of the first floor of Friendly. Mr. Strash said it turned up missing recently. He'd like to take a picture of it before it's destroyed.

Sociology Professor Gets Work Grant

Dr. John James, University instructor in sociology, has been awarded a $1,000 research work grant by the Permanent Science fund of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

A comparative study of small group size in the informal and formal organization of an industry will be Dr. James' project. He will begin work next fall.

You've read that passage wrong, Miss Adams—it's "all men are created equal"—not "all men are made the same way."

SU Board Candidates Referred to Schools

Petitions of 31 candidates for membership in the Student Union Board will be referred to the deans of their respective schools today for recommendation.

Deans of the Schools of Journalism, Education, Business Administration, and the College of Liberal Arts will consider the petitions and make recommendations to a joint committee of the Executive Council and the SU Board.

Each of the professional schools and the College of Liberal Arts will nominate one representative to the Board.

The joint committee, consisting of four members of the present Student Union Board and four members of the Executive Council, will review the petitions and interview approved candidates. Recommendations will then be referred to President Newburn around May 18 for final approval.

The system of review by the joint committee is in keeping with the Board's new perpetuation plan.

Prior to this year, recommendations of the deans were turned over to Student Union Director Dick Williams and the president and first vice-president of the ASUO. They in turn made final approval, subject to confirmation by President Newburn.

In accordance with the plan, the Student Union Board will consist of eight student representatives—one from each of the six professional schools and two from the College of Liberal Arts. These members will serve for two years. The Law School and Graduate School will also each have one seat on the Board, these members serving for one year.

"Hip boots."

Six Nominated For Co-op Board

Nominations were made for new Co-op Board members at a meeting of the board Friday. Voting will take place in conjunction with ASUO elections later this month.

Merle Davis, freshman in business administration, and Merwin Gumpert, freshman in liberal arts, were nominated for the positions of sophomore representative. The representative will serve for one year.

Sophomores nominated for the two junior representative positions were Kay Kuckenbergl, sophomore in liberal arts; Lyle Dybdahl, sophomore in business administration; Lloyd Neal, and Bill Marshall, sophomores in law. The two elected will serve for a two-year period.

Only Co-op members will be allowed to vote in the board election.

A report of the Co-op's activities for the year included a $150 contribution to the Eugene Community Chest drive and a $50 donation to the Red Cross.

The Co-op has also given $20 book scholarships each term to five foreign students. These students were selected on the basis of need and scholastic ability.

New Petition Claims ASUO Constitution Acceptance Possible

Junior Class President Barry Mountain Sunday presented a petition addressed to the Judiciary Committee to Emerald Editor Don Smith, asserting that even if Thursday and Friday's constitution election votes are declared invalid, the document could still be accepted.

The extension of the election, originally announced Wednesday, is being contested by the law school student body in a petition filed Thursday.

Mountain based his petition on the grounds that according to the old constitution, only undergraduate students are members of the ASUO (Article III). He feels that the judiciary committee could rule that the approximately 2100 students who voted Wednesday constitute one-half of the registered undergraduate students.

The petition was intended as an open letter to the Judiciary Committee.

Little Opposition

The petition also states that substantial compliance with the 50 per cent rule is enough to make the election valid if it be shown that there was no appreciable opposition to the new constitution. Mountain stated that as many students voted Wednesday as have ever voted in any similar election.

Furthermore, Mountain continued, the Judiciary Committee is not bound by statutes such as affect cities and counties, since there are no such statutes respecting the ASUO.

Plea to Committee

"There are compelling reasons of policy why your committee should not declare the election Wednesday to be invalid. The constitution is the product of extended study by many students. It is agreed by all campus groups to be a great improvement over the old basic document.

"There was no appreciable opposition to the new constitution except in the School of Law where a number of students protested, not the constitution, but the manner in which the election was extended over three days.

"Admitting the serious doubt that this procedure casts on the election, it is believed that this constitution, which is the product of many months of hard work by interested students, can be saved," Mountain said.

The petition has not yet been filed with the Judiciary committee, and does not contain the sworn affidavits of five witnesses as did the petition of a person.

Today Last Chance For Kwama Petitions

Today is the deadline for petitions for membership in Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary.

Petitions must be turned in to President Lorna Larson at Chi Omega by 5 p.m.

Any freshman woman with a GPA of 2.00, both cumulative and last term, is eligible to petition. A clear snapshot or photograph must accompany each application.

Membership is based on activities and scholarship. New members will be tapped at the Mortar Board Ball, May 27.

NOTICE

After receiving All-American ratings for many years, the Emerald this year received first class rating for fall term from the Associated Collegiate Press.

The ACP annually rates college papers on news writing and coverage, editing, and makeup of the pages.

Emeralds have been entered in the second semester rating period. Results will be announced in October.

The possible ratings are: All American (superior), first class (excellent), second class (good), third class (fair), and fourth class (no honors).
