YW Continues Emblem Contest

The search for a YWCA caricature to be used as a permanent emblem of the University YWCA will continue through this week, Lois Greenwood, executive director of the Y, stated Thursday.

Lacking an official emblem, the organization is sponsoring a contest for the most original, appropriate caricature to represent the YWCA on the campus. Winner of the contest will be awarded two tickets to the University Theater production, "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Similar emblems maintained by other Universities include "Winnie the Y Girl" at the University of Washington, and "Rosie the Riveter" for industrial YWCA women.

The contest is being sponsored in conjunction with National YWCA week, which ended Saturday, Saturday.
