

Special Traditions; Punishment On Agenda for Picnic Today

Three special traditions will be enforced by Order of "O" today at the All-Campus Picnic, and unpunished violators from during the past week will be tracked down and punished during the picnic.

Traditions to be enforced are, (1) women will not speak to men from the picnic's start until the queen has been seated, about 12:30; (2), no white shoes or saddles are to be worn to the picnic; (3), no ties may be worn by men.

Traditions Chairman Ed Chrobot has requested that each men's living organization send two freshmen to Villard hall at 10 this morning for cleaning of the Oregon seal and trophy-polishing!

Roving patrols of "O" men will spot new violators at the picnic today and track down the following past violators:

Orchesis Dance Program To Feature Solo Numbers

Four solo dances are on the 13-number program for Orchesis' annual modern dance concert, to be held in the University Theater Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Judie Strain, Joyce Everson, and Beverly Bennett will perform in dances worked around the theme "Women of The States," stressing action and emotions of the women in the history of the United States.

Frontiers

"To The West," by Miss Strain, depicts the call of the frontiers as opposed to the pull of memories of established homes. Miss Strain attempts to communicate to the audience the visits of the plains, the toils of pushing back the frontier, and the loving acceptance of making a new life in a new land.

"The Sheltered Lady," choreographed and danced by Miss Everson, includes three different movements, prayer, lullaby, and minuet.

Writes Two Numbers

Miss Bennett has composed two numbers. Her first is "The Extremist," which adds comedy to the program by showing the flapper, the sophisticate and the country bumpkin who tries to be both. Her second number, "The Jitter," shows the influence of the jitterbug era.

Tickets costing 50 cents are on sale by members of Junior and Senior Orchesis, in the women's physical education office in Gerlinger, and in the main office of the School of Health and Physical Education.
