

Exec Council Formulates Procedure for Elections

Definite procedures were established at Monday night's ASUO Executive Council meeting for the ASUO general elections, to be held Monday, and for the constitutional election, scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Six polling booths will be located at Gerlinger Hall, the library, Education building, and on 13th street between Fenton and Friendly, between Oregon and Commerce, and between the Co-op and Condon.

The council decided to cut the number of polling booths to three for the last two days of the constitution election. Booths scheduled to remain are those in the library, on 13th between Fenton and Friendly, and between the Co-op and Condon.

Booths to be Cut

According to Ed Anderson, ASUO first vice-president, who is in charge of elections, ballot counting and management of polling booths will be the same as in previous elections.

The officers election will be held from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday only.

Separate Ballots

Separate ballots will be used for the constitutional and officers elections. The same poll books will be used for both elections, but names will be marked with a different color pencil in the Tuesday and Wednesday constitution balloting.

This marks the second chance for the proposed constitution, which was passed in a three-day election Apr. 26, 27, and 28. The election, however, was declared illegal because it was extended after the polls had already opened.

Bill Kirkpatrick was named to head the promotion committee for the constitution.

Pigger's Guide Jobs Open for Petitions

Petitions for editor and business manager of the 1950-51 Student Directory must be submitted by Saturday noon.

The petitions for the Student Directory, otherwise known as Pigger's Guide, should be turned in to the Student Union Office in the SU building.

The University Publications Board will convene May 24 to consider candidates for the two positions. The Board will make final selections.

Sophomores Schedule Picnic at Swimmer's

The Sophomore Picnic, open to all University students, is set for 1 p.m. Saturday at Swimmers' Delight, rain or shine.

Featured entertainment will be a softball game between Kwama and Skull and Dagger, sophomore class honoraries, and a violin and ukelele duet by Con Sheffer and Jerry Crary.

General Chairman Merv Hampton has stressed the informality of the occasion, which he says will be more of an all-University get-together than a planned picnic.

Student body cards will be the only identification needed for admission, which will be free.

Two softball diamonds, the picnic grounds, swimming area, and floats will be available to students attending the picnic. Soft drinks will be sold by the class of '51.

Picnic committee chairmen and class officers decided Monday to pair living groups for transportation. The results of the drawing appear on page seven.

Weather . . .

Partly cloudy today and Thursday.

Lower than Tuesday's high of 75, the temperature is expected to reach 67 today.

USA Speakers Talk to Houses Upon Request

Speakers representing the USA party will be available throughout the week to speak to interested organizations regarding policy developments in that party.

Organizations may contact Virginia Wright, executive committee member, at the Alpha Xi Delta House any time.

"The USA will be glad to discuss any questions concerning party policies to any interested students or groups," Miss Wright said.

Speakers will be sent on request at any time.

Law School Elects Hafey In Run Off

Jim Hafey was elected president of the law school student body in a run-off election, held Friday, which fell short of the expected law student turnout at the polls.

Friday's election was the result of a tie vote in an election earlier last week, in which Hafey tied with Bill Tassock.

Tassock automatically becomes vice-president of the law school student body.

The election committee, in a statement issued last week after the tie vote, predicted a 100 per cent turnout of voters after 98.1 per cent had cast their ballots in the first election. Only 94.3 per cent—100 out of 106 students—cast ballots in the run-off election.

Patricia Young is the secretary-treasurer of the group.

SU Job Petitions Due on Thursday

Thursday is the last day to submit petitions for next year's Student Union standing committee chairmanships.

Petitions may be turned into the Student Union office in the Union.

Chairmanships open to petitioners are Interview and Referell Committee, House Committee, Publicity Committee, Cultural Area committee, Recreational committee, and Ballroom area committee.

Chairmanships are open to anyone who will be in the University next year. Chairman Les Jones of the Student Union Board emphasized that petitioners should be able to give as much time and talent to the positions as necessary.

The chairmen will be selected by the Student Union Board.

ASUO Candidates Speak In Mac Court at 4 p.m.

AGS

Gerry Smith and Joanne Fitzmaurice will lead the AGS party slate of the ASUO nominations today, seeking the number one and two ASUO positions in next week's elections.

Slated on the AGS ticket for senior class officers are Steve Church, president; Florence Hansen, secretary, and Will Urban, senior representative.

Heading the AGS ticket for junior officers will be Vernon Beard for president, Shirley Hillard, secretary, and Dick McLaughlin, representative.

Joe Kaiser will be the bloc nominee for sophomore president, running with Mary Gilham, secretary, and Herb Cook, representative.

Jerry Kinnersley won the nod for yell king nomination, while Kay Kuckenber, Merwin Gumpert, and Merle Davis will seek Co-op board positions.

Judiciary Group Meets to Clarify Graduates' Vote

The ASUO Judiciary Committee will meet today to clarify the position of graduate students in regard to voting in ASUO elections—if all judiciary members can be contacted—according to K. J. O'Connell, professor of law and acting committee chairman.

Professor O'Connell has been reappointed by Permanent Chairman Orlando Hollis, dean of the Law School, to act as chairman for the decision. He also presided over the recent committee hearings on the extension of the constitutional election.

Warren C. Price, professor of journalism and a committee member, was out of town Tuesday and could not be reached for approval of a meeting time today. When the committee meets, it will attempt to determine which students are undergraduates according to Article III of the present constitution.

The document states in one section that only undergraduate members of the ASUO, but in another that any student who has paid his educational activities fee may vote. Graduate students also pay educational activities fees.

Panhel Scholarship Forms Due May 20

Two scholarships, for $100 and $75, are being offered by Panhellenic to women students this term.

Deadline for applications is May 20. Special blanks are available at the Office of Women's Affairs, Emerald Hall.

The scholarships, which are open to all University women, will be awarded on the basis of scholarship and financial need.

USA

Leading the USA slate of candidates for number one and two ASUO positions at ASUO nominations today will be Barry Mountain and Eve Overback, both nominated on the first ballot at Friday's USA primaries.

Nominated on the coalition ticket for senior officers are Bob Pearce, president; Anne Goodman, secretary, and Don Smith, representative.

Getting the nod for junior officer candidates were Willie Dodds, president; Donna Buse, secretary, and Virginia Wright, representative.

Helen Jackson won the nomination for sophomore president with Dolores Parrish for secretary, and Don Paillette for representative.

Annual Handout Continues Today

Oreganas will be distributed from the Student Union office beginning at 10 a.m. today.

The office is now located in the new Erb Memorial building across from the infirmary.

Approximately 15 copies of the book are still available for students who failed to place orders, Business Manager Jim Sanders, said Tuesday.

The copies were made available by the cancellation of double orders made inadvertently by several students, Sanders explained.

Questions on Oregana payments may be given to members of the Student Union office staff for referral to Sanders, who will investigate the matter and contact the students involved.

ASUO Candidates Mountain, Smith Give Views on Political Situation

Student spirit is low, and it is due directly to the clash of campus political parties, Larry Mountain, United Students Association candidate for student body president, declared Tuesday.

Much of the trouble, he explained, is caused by a "pressure group" in the Greek party.

"Candidates should be chosen for their merits and qualifications. But the Greek bloc uses underhanded methods to get their candidates nominated, regardless of qualifications," he said.

He maintains that University spirit is also sagging because students lack the incentive to take part in campus politics, because of the political "pressure" set-up.

"My aim, if I'm elected, will be to clean up the whole political situation," he said.

Mountain, a graduate of Grant high in Portland, has served as president of Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary; president of the Junior class; general chairman of this year's Junior Weekend; was a member of Druids, junior men's honorary; and is now a member of Friars, senior men's honorary.

Official nominations for both AGS and USA candidates in next week's campus elections will be made at the ASUO nominating assembly today at 4 p.m. in McArthur Court.

Campaign platforms will be revealed by candidates for number one and two positions in each party. Each party slate will be introduced by ASUO Vice President Ed Anderson, who will preside at the meeting.

Speeches by candidates for number one position will be limited to seven minutes, with introductions set at five minutes. Speeches and introductions for number two candidates will be five minutes each. Class officers and yell king addresses will be three minutes, with introductions at two minutes.

Candidates for Executive Council representatives will be introduced, but only students seeking the sophomore representative spot will speak, since a bi-partisan candidate will be on the ballot, Peterson said.

Nominations of bi-partisan candidates may be made from the floor at the assembly.

Seniors Urged To Check Hours

Seniors who have not checked their records in the visible files at the Registrar's Office must do so immediately, according to Mrs. William Rohlffs, secretary.

Mrs. Rohlffs reported that in a recent check by the office many students have been found to lack necessary credits for graduation which should have been earned this term.

Houses which bolt the Greek bloc in favor of the Independent students' party are interested only in their own political ambitions, Gerry Smith, Associated Greek Students candidate for student body president, said Tuesday.

"The Independents certainly don't gain anything by the Greek's membership. The rebel houses are the only ones that benefit, and that is all they are interested in," he declared.

"Independents and Greeks represent two different interest groups, and the only way for them to benefit, is for them both to remain in their respective parties," he said.

Smith said that this party split is responsible for much of the trouble in the campus political situation.

A graduate of Portland's Grant high school, Smith is a member of Friars, senior men's honorary; was a member of Druids, junior men's honorary; was chairman of this year's Dad's Day, Homecoming dance, and Junior Prom, and was last year's King of Hearts.

He is also vice-president of his living organization, Phi Gamma Delta.
