

Library Day Contest Winners Get Books

Books worth $150 were awarded student winners in the Library Day Prize contest Saturday.

Awards were made by C. W. Hintz, head librarian, at the Library Day dinner, held in Carson Hall Saturday evening.

Winners in the undergraduate specialized library were Hiroto Zakoji, senior in anthropology; first prize, Lester Pederson, senior in law; second prize, Vic Slack, junior in painting; third prize, Richard Hansen, sophomore in liberal arts, honorable mention.

Undergraduate general library prizes were awarded to James Albertson, freshman in liberal arts first; Bob Briggs, sophomore in liberal arts second; William Williams, junior in psychology third; and Harold Bauman, senior in general science honorable mention.

Herbert Carlin, history, placed first in the graduate students library division. Second place went to James Harrison, political science; third place to Horace Manning, psychology; and honorable mention to Shyun Daw Shaw, political science.

Seventy-two libraries were entered in the annual contest.
