

ND Golfers Meet Today In Corvallis

Captain Dom Provost, Ron Clark, John Prince, and Al Riebel will represent the University of Oregon in the 15th annual Northern Division Golf Tournament today and tomorrow at Corvallis.

The Ducks will tour the Corvallis course today in order to become better acquainted with the conditions there.

Unless Oregon enters the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament, which will be held at Albuquerque, New Mexico, the meet tomorrow will be the final collegiate clash for Provost, Prince, and Riebel, who are seniors.

Clark, par-busting teammate, is a sophomore and should be back next year.

Oregon Favored

Although they were upset 14-13 by Oregon State at Eugene last Saturday, the Ducks will be favored to capture their sixth Northern Division Meet championship in fifteen years. The Ducks have defeated every N.D. opponent on their 1950 schedule, winning their eighth N.D. dual meet crown, their second dual meet title in two years.

Oregon State is rated as the strongest contender, since the Beavers defeated Oregon last Saturday and finished in second place in the dual meet standings. However, the Ducks easily defeated OSC early in the season, and the Beavers also suffered a loss at the hands of the Washington Huskies, who then absorbed a 21½ to 5½ drubbing from the Ducks on the following day.

Many Former Champs

Four golfers from each team will play 36 holes of golf, and their four scores will be added to determine the winner. Ron Clark, Oregon Open champion in 1949, will be favored to win the individual championship, which has been won by the Webfoots in 1935, 1939, 1942, 1947, and 1948.

Leonard Anderson captured the title in 1935 with a 36-hole score of 146. Ben Hughes of Oregon took first place in 1939 by carding a five-under-par 139, a new Northern Division Meet record.

Three years later, in 1942, the Ducks returned to the scene when Dick Hanen carded a score of 140 and finished first. Another meet record was set in 1947, when Webfoot Lou Stafford recorded a brilliant 135, nine under par, and won the individual crown. Stafford repeated in 1948 as he finished with a score of 140.

Oregon has furnished more individual titlists than any other school has done, and Clark has a good chance to add to the Webfoot record.

ND Track Meet Tomorrow; Duck-OSC Baseball Today

Howe Field Site Of Game Today; Corvallis Next

The "back alley" battles between Oregon and Oregon State continue today at Howe field, with the cellar of the Northern Division as the fate of the loser.

Game time is 3 o'clock under what the weatherman calls cloudy skies.

It will be a battle of aces, as Mel Krause is scheduled to hurl for Oregon, and Don White is listed for the Beavers. Last Friday White coasted behind a 22 hit attack to a 20-2 triumph, and on Saturday a couple of bad breaks earned Krause a 6-3 defeat.

Oregon will probably go with the same team that went down to a double drubbing last weekend. Ray Stratton will be the left fielder, Daryle Nelson will be at second base, Don Kimball will go to third, right field.

Dick Salter or Dewayne "Mouse" Owens will be the centerfielder, Phil Settecase will be the first baseman, Ray Coley, starting to hit, will play shortstop, and rifle armed Jack Smith will don the catcher's tools.

Beavers Hit by Illness

The Beavers showed little ill effects from the loss of two of their key infielders. Bill Harper, who wielded a big stick last Friday up in Corvallis, was out of action Saturday with a head injury. He is expected to be back in action today at third base. Bob Christianson, the acrobatic first baseman was confined to a sickbed last week, but is expected to be ready for the twin tussles today and Saturday. He will find it a little difficult to work his way back into the lineup, since his replacement, Don Taylor hit Krause for a single and a double worth two runs here Saturday.

The rest of the Beavers will probably be Pete Goodbrod in center field, Don Fawcett at second base, Gene Tanselli at shortstop, and Ray Snyder in right field. Ray Krafve will be the left fielder, Bobo Clingman or Cub Houk will catch, and Leon Akers will be third baseman if the bandages are still on Harper's head.

Win, lose, or draw, there will be a repeat performance at Corvallis on Saturday, with DeWayne Johnson scheduled to send up his left handed slants in an effort to save Oregon from the cellar.

Frosh Swamp Rooks In Track, But Drop Ball Game With No Hits

Win...

Oregon's Frosh track team swamped the Oregon State Rooks, 80 1/3 to 49 2/3 yesterday, in a dual meet on Hayward Field.

The Ducklings won nine first places, and also swept the mile relay. The Baby Beavers went home with five first places.

Outstanding performances turned in by Oregon freshmen were:

The pole vault, won by Duckling Bill Lewallen at 12 feet, 3 inches.

The high jump, won by Emery Barnes, at 6 feet, 2 inches.

The two-mile run, won by Pat Dignan with a time of 10 minutes, 39.3 seconds, good considering that it is the first time Dignan has run the two-mile race this year.

The mile run, won by Frosh Fred Turner, with a time of 4 minutes, 30 seconds.

Don McClure, Duckling broad-jumper, was edged out by OSC's Don Nelson, who jumped 22 feet, 4 inches, just 4 inches farther than McClure's best effort.

Jerry Mock of Oregon won the 100-yard dash in a time of 10.2 seconds and the 220-yard dash in 23 seconds. Big Chet Noe came through in the shot-put, with a heave of 42 feet, 7½ inches. He also won the discus event with a throw of 108 feet, 10 inches. Jack Loftis won the 880-yard run for Oregon in 2 minutes. The Frosh mile-relay team won with a time of 3 minutes, 34.6 seconds.

Art School Displays Indian Collections

On display now at the Little Art Gallery of the art school is a collection of costumes, percussion instruments, and totemic carvings used by Northwest coast Indians.

Lose...

Len Mohler, a curve-balling righthander, warmed the soul of old Ralph Coleman as he pitched the Oregon State Rooks to a 5-0 no hit victory over the Oregon Frosh.

With the poise of a veteran, Mohler sent the Ducklings down with nine zeroes, displaying a good assortment of curves and control. Ten men went down on strikes and three bases on balls were the only flaws of an excellent yearling performance.

Curt Barclay, the number one moundsman for the Ducklings was the victim of two big innings. The L'il Beavers salted the ball game away in the first inning, with a hit and an error. Barclay almost saw daylight as he struck out the next two hitters, but a double inside the third base line drove home enough runs to get Mohler the victory.

The Beaverlings added a three-run insurance cushion in the fifth on three hits, one a triple.

Bill Lehrer led the Rook attack with two hits in four attempts.

18-Man Squad Going by Plane For Seattle Fight

Gunning for the first Oregon Northern Division track title since 1934, Coach Bill Bowerman's 18-man squad will fly to Seattle tomorrow morning to compete in the meet scheduled for Saturday on the Washington cinders.

The favored Webfoots are picked to win at least five events, and with points collected in other events, should finish ahead of the six-team field.

Duck first place probables include the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the pole vault, the quarter-mile, and the javelin, with a possible mile win if Jack Hutchins' ailing leg does not hamper him.

Bullet Bill Fell is favored to annex both dashes for the Ducks, while George Rasmussen should win his fourth straight ND pole vault title. Dave Henthorne in the 440 and Chuck Missfeldt in the javelin are the other probable Duck winners.

Strongest threat to the Oregon squad should come from the Washington Huskies, who will be paced by probable-double winner Jack Burke in the hurdles.

Here is the 18 man traveling team, as announced by Bowerman:

Sprints, Bill Fell, Dave Henthorne, Mitch Cleary, Al Bullier, and Jack Countryman; half-mile, Walt McClure; mile, Jack Hutchins and Art Backlund; two-mile, Pete Mundle; hurdles, Jack Doyle, Dennis Sullivan, and Jack Smith; weights, Bob Anderson; javelin, Chuck Missfeldt; and jumps, Woodley Lewis, George Rasmussen, Lloyd Hickok, and Don Pickens. Manager Jack Gamet will accompany the squad.

Weather . . .

Partly cloudy today and Saturday with a few scattered light showers this morning. Little change in temperature. High today 65; low, 40.

Netmen Head North For Division Matches

Coach Robeson Bailey's varsity tennis squad will finish its season at Pullman today and tomorrow as it engages in the northern division championship playoffs on the Washington State College courts.

Oregon State's Beavers and the Washington Huskies, both of whom ended the regular campaign undefeated, are co-favorites to win the crown. The Huskies, defending champions, have captured the title every year but 1938, when the Beavers won.

Dual meet competition this year saw the Beavers, with a 5-0 record, edge Washington, which wound up with a 3-0 conference mark.

Oregon, with a 1-4 slate, was able to finish ahead of winless Idaho and took fifth place behind Washington State.

Bailey's four-man squad which is making the trip includes Tom MacDonald, Bob Mensor, Cameron Thom, and Dan Cudahy. Only four players from each school can compete.

Oregon's best chance for a winner rests with MacDonald, the sophomore from Grant High of Portland.

He could possibly annex the singles crown if he plays as he did during the season, when he was beaten only by Montana's Wayne Cuming in a three-set struggle.

The two-day playoffs are grueling affairs, which last all day. Netters who win their matches usually play at least twice a day. Eliminations continue until the finals Saturday afternoon.

The Duck doubles teams will probably consist of MacDonald-Mensor and Thom-Cudahy. The Webfoots are not given much of a chance in the doubles play.

Last year's singles winner, Washington's nationally-known Jim Brink, is no longer in school, which leaves the race wide open.
