Building Expansion Program Slates Revamping of Commerce, Oregon

Additions to the journalism building and Commerce Hall are in line with the University's expansion program in the next few years, as well as complete rehabilitation of Commerce, Oregon, and the old Journalism building, if funds are appropriated by the next legislature.

Planning is being done in conjunction with the General Service Administration, which grants funds for the planning of such projects, with the appropriation to be returned if the project goes through.

Number one on the list is the $700,000 project on Commerce and Oregon, which includes a 40,000 square foot addition to the Business Administration School and remodeling of both buildings. It has received approval by the federal government and planning has started.

The other project includes the tearing down of McClure Hall and building of a new $400,000 Journalism building, including $30,000 in special journalistic equipment. The structure will be four stories high and cover 25,000 square feet.

The same project will provide $100,000 for renovation of the old Journalism building. Federal approval for the planning of this project is expected in the near future. Both projects must receive appropriations from the next legislature.

The new Journalism building should be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1952.

ROTC to March In Armed Forces Annual Parade

The University's Reserve Officers Training Corps troops will make up the largest outfit in Saturday's Armed Forces Day parade, the military science department said Thursday.

Six companies and six flights—totaling over 800 ROTC students—will march in the number two spot in the parade, part of the observance of National Defense Week.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. and travel south on Willamette St. from 5th to 15th St. Three flights of aircraft are scheduled to pass over the route during the march.

Because of unification, Armed Forces Day has replaced individual celebrations, such as Army Day and Navy Day. Top brass for the event will be Lt. Gen. Claude A. Larkin, U.S.M.C., Ret., who will speak to the Chamber of Commerce Friday.

Latest weapons and equipment will be on display in Eugene stores and the City Park.

The Military Ball for reserve officers and friends at 9 p.m. in the Veterans' Memorial Hall will climax the day's events. Members of Scabbard and Blade have been invited to attend.

Frosh Orientation Discussed by AWS

Plans for the orientation of freshman women for next fall was the primary business of the first meeting of the Associated Women Students' Congress Wednesday in Gerlinger Hall.

The congress is composed of one representative from each of the campus women's living organizations. Eve Overback, AWS vice-president, is in charge of the group, which is a coordinate body between the AWS Cabinet and women's living organizations.

Reports from the presidents and housemothers of the living organizations on the evaluation of Duck Preview Weekend were discussed. AWS will be in charge of the Preview Weekend next year, Miss Overback stated.

BA Professors Talk in Roseburg

Three professors from the School of Business Administration took part in an open forum Tuesday night with the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce.

The faculty members, A. L. Lomax, W. W. Pyle, and C. F. Ziebarth, sat in on the forum, which discussed the city's business and community problems.

The meeting was part of the BA school's program to offer services to Oregon chambers of commerce in solving community problems.

Cosmopolitans To Elect Today

The Cosmopolitan Club will elect permanent officers for the coming year tonight. The club will meet at 8 p.m. at the University YMCA on Kincaid St.

Nominations for officers will be made from the floor at the meeting. All active members of the club are urged by acting President Carolyn Oleman to attend.

According to the constitution of the Cosmopolitan club, the president, vice-president, and secretary will be elected for the full school year. The offices of social chairman and publicity chairman will be filled for the fall term only.

Following the elections there will be an entertainment program, which will include social dancing.

Present members of the Cosmopolitan club have been invited by the Oregon State Cosmopolitan club to attend an exchange meeting Saturday at Corvallis. Those who wish to go should contact acting President, Carolyn Oleman as soon as possible.

F. E. Dart, professor of physics, will show slides on his trip through Western Europe last year.

Nominees to Submit List of Radio Work

Students in the radio department who have been nominated for radio awards must submit a complete list of their contributions to radio during the year to the Speech Department office, by Saturday noon.

Presentation will be made to the winners at the radio awards banquet next Wednesday at the Anchorage. Five leading students in University radio work will be presented trophies by Eugene radio stations and the Richfield Reporter.
