

North Atlantic Pact Illegal, Kelsen Believes

By WALT GRAYDON

The North Atlantic Pact is either illegal or worthless, according to contradictory interpretations of the Charter of the United Nations.

This legalistic view was advanced by Dr. Hans Kelsen, professor of political science at the University of California, in a lecture Friday in Fenton Hall. Dr. Kelsen has held important posts with the Austrian government and was the first professor to be fired by Adolph Hitler.

Dr. Kelsen explained that if the Atlantic Pact is considered to be a "regional arrangement" for "collective self-defense" as sanctioned by the U.N. charter, then the pact members must also report their activities for defense to the Security Council of the U.N.

Against USSR

"We know that the pact was primarily drafted as protection against Soviet Russia," he said. "Soviet Russia is one of the members of the Security Council. Thus you make defenses against your enemy and then go and tell him exactly what you have done."

The California professor said that if the pact is not covered by the foregoing provision, then the U.N. members that have signed the treaty have violated the U.N. charter.

"Another paradox arises by other conflicting interpretations of the U.N. charter," he said. "Members cannot give armed assistance to non-members, and this virtually outlaws former enemy states by denying them membership. Portugal and Italy are not U.N. members, but they are signatories of the Atlantic Pact which pledges mutual defense."

Confusion Noted

"However," he continued, "the pact says that members must respect all of their obligations. The result would be, if Italy or Portugal were attacked, that the pact members who also belonged to the U.N. could not help her because they are pledged to respect their obligations, one being the provision of the U.N. charter that says members cannot help non-members."

Dr. Kelsen said that this was the interpretation taken from the literal aspect of the two documents.

Pursuing this line of reasoning one step further, he said that if the Atlantic Pact is considered legal by the U.N., then the pact members would have to abide by the other rules of the U.N.

"Thus some countries would have to follow all of the rules, but they couldn't join the U.N.," he reasoned. "Or maybe they would be considered U.N. members because they are members of a member organization."

SU Committee Interviews Set For Wednesday

Interviews of 44 students who petitioned for chairmanships of six Student Union standing committees are being scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, according to Les Jones, Student Union Board chairman.

Of the 44 candidates seeking committee chairmanships, 11 petitioned for publicity, six for recreation and referral, six for recreation area, three for house area, nine for ballroom area, and nine for cultural area.

The six committee heads, selected for one-year terms, will assume their positions fall term. They will make up a body to be officially known as Directorate of the Student Union.

Members of each of the committees will be chosen from among other petitioners by the Directorate.

The Student Union Board will meet this afternoon at 4:30 to decide on times for the interviews. Selections will be made Thursday afternoon.

Radio Banquet To Honor Five For Service

Five outstanding students in University radio work will be awarded achievement trophies Wednesday, at the radio awards presentation banquet.

Only a limited number of tickets remain for the banquet, scheduled at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Anchorage. Tickets, at $1.50, are available at the speech department office, the Anchorage, and at Fennell's, according to Chairman Alan Hicks.

Twenty-three students were nominated for the awards, winners will be chosen and awards presented by Eugene radio stations and the Richfield Reporter, sponsors of the contest. The five trophies are now on display at the Co-op.

Luke Roberts, education director for station KOIN in Portland, will be guest speaker at the banquet. Jim Morris, KOAC program director, will act as master of ceremonies.

The award for the outstanding female performer of the year will be made by KORE. KERG will honor the outstanding male performer. The leading writer will be honored by KASH, and KUGN will make the award to the outstanding student in radio production. The Richfield Reporter is sponsoring the outstanding achievement award.

Student Directory Interviews Set

The Student Publication Board will meet Wednesday at 7:30 in 103 Journalism to interview candidates for editor and business manager of next year's Student Directory.

Four students petitioned for the two positions. Richard A. Davis and Bruce Wallace will be interviewed in that order for business manager.

Petitions for editor of the Directory, otherwise known as Piggers' Guide, were accepted from Jean Gould and Virginia Wright. They will be interviewed in that order following Davis and Wallace.

The song of the careless motorist is full of sharp turns and flats.

Holmes, Thompson Named To Head Emerald in '50-'51

By BILL FRYE

Oregon Daily Emerald leadership will be vested next year in the hands of Anita Holmes and Don Thompson.

They were selected editor and business manager respectively in a recent meeting of the University Publications Board.

Miss Holmes, who will be a second-term junior next year, was chosen for the position from a group of seven candidates. Thompson, now finishing his junior year, was the only student to petition for business manager.

The pair will step into the offices vacated by this year's top bosses, Editor Don Smith and Business Manager Joan Mimnaugh.

ANITA HOLMES

Now in Washington

When Anita Holmes won the recognition of the Publications Board she was more than 3,000 miles away in Washington, D. C. Her petition, in letter form, was submitted by mail to the Board.

Miss Holmes left the University at the end of fall term to accept a job as secretary for Idaho's Senator Dworshak. While in the nation's capitol she was also appointed publicity director for the Idaho State Society.

A journalism major, Miss Holmes has compiled an impressive record in the field of publicity and newspaper work. Her other activities have been numerous too since she came to the University from her home in Cour d'Alene, Ida.

Outstanding in Journalism

Her freshman year she was class president of Hendricks Hall and was awarded the Mortar Board plaque. Journalism achievements included work for the Emerald, Oregonian, and Old Oregon. She was also reporter for the University news bureau and was selected the outstanding freshman woman in journalism.

During her sophomore year, Miss Holmes was associate editor of Old Oregon, worked on the Oregonian editorial staff, and was again selected the outstanding woman in her class in journalism.

In the brief time she was here during her junior year, Miss Holmes was a member of the ASUO Executive Council, the Publications Board, and Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary. She held the position of managing editor of Old Oregon and was campus correspondent for The Oregonian.

DON THOMPSON

Advertising Manager

Don Thompson, a 21-year-old advertising major, began his career as advertising manager of his high school paper in Kansas City, Mo.

During his freshman year at the University, Thompson worked on the Old Oregon layout staff. The following year he turned to the Emerald where he worked on the layout staff and handled advertising sales.

This year, Thompson was moved from the layout staff to the position of advertising manager. Spring term he was appointed assistant business manager.

A resident of Stan Ray Hall, he is a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, national men's advertising fraternity.

IFC Rushing Policy Bans Social Contact of Frosh

Fraternities will adhere to a "no social contact" system of dealing with freshmen—with penalty for violation—during fall term 1950, according to a statement of rushing policy released Monday by the Interfraternity Council.

The policy was passed by the council last Thursday.

The fraternity rushing policy is in accordance with an agreement reached in January by the dormitory Council to hold freshman rushing the first part of winter term.

The rushing policy is under the University living-in policy, under which freshmen entering the University must live in dormitories during their first year of school.

Penalties Listed

A fraternity which is found to have rushed any freshman under the meaning of the agreement is subject to a fine of $50 and will lose the right to pledge the person in question. A freshman who is found to have rushed fall term may lose the right to pledge any fraternity for a period not exceeding one year.

No member of a fraternity may live in University dormitories during fall term except as official counselors or sponsors, under penalty of $30 for infraction of this rule.

Rushing in January

Freshman rush week will be held the first week of winter term with the rushees signing up at the IFC office Jan. 2, 1951. Rushing will continue through Friday.

Non-freshmen may rush at any time.

Under the policy, a freshman is defined as "any person having less than 36 hours of credit and three terms or two semesters of attendance at a college or university."

"Fall term shall include the period between the first day of registration and the last day of final week.

Definition Given

"Rushing shall be defined as social contact of any kind at any place, and as an attempt to influence any freshman in his choice of fraternity. This position shall not be construed to prevent an individual fraternity member from contacting an individual freshman for purposes other than influencing his choice of fraternity."

Rushing activities will close after the end of rush week and remain closed until the fifth week of winter term.

Panhellenic, the sorority group, is working on regulations for freshman women's rushing, according to Joan White, president.

Panhellenic has not yet released a statement of rushing policy. The sorority group has reached an agreement with the Interdormitory Council to hold freshman women's rushing fall term.

Newburn to Speak At Commencements

President Harry K. Newburn will deliver two commencement addresses this year, at Pacific Lutheran College, Parkland, Wash. and the University of Montana in Missoula.

His topic will be "The Uncommon Man." The Washington address is scheduled for May 28. He will speak in Montana June 5.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

6:15 p.m.—Kwama, Kappa Alpha Theta.

7 p.m.—Christian Science Organization, 1251 Emerald

Asklepiads, 107 Friendly. Election of officers.

7 p.m.—Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, John Straub cafeteria. Warren Webster, student at the Fuller Theological Seminary, will speak.

Placement Office Gives Information On Job Openings for Seniors

New job listings for June graduates have been released by the Graduate Placement Office as follows:

Morris and Knudsen, Contractors, are seeking a man for stenographical and secretarial work on the Lowell dam site. The position involves understudying the office manager and may lead to promotion.

A women stenographer - secretary is wanted by a Portland firm. One accountant is needed for next year's income tax season by Stark Accounting Service, The Dalles. Interviews will be held after the end of the current school year.

A local retail concern wants a man for stenographical-secretarial work combined with a part-time sales job.

Openings for buyers and salesmen are available with an international grain concern in the Pacific Northwest.

Several firms are seeking securities salesmen. Some knowledge of securities and sales aptitude is required.

Further information on all jobs listed may be obtained by contacting the Placement Office, 216 Emerald Hall.

Election of Officers Slated by Seniors

A meeting of the senior class will be held at 4 p.m. Wednesday in 3 Fenton to elect a permanent president and secretary-treasurer, president Bob Weber announced Tuesday.

Weber also reminded seniors that petitions for chairman of the food and transportation committees for the senior picnic are due in Art Johnson's office by noon Friday.

The class picnic and dance will be held at Swimmer's Delight on June 2.