Ducks Bow as Bears Set Victory Record

By Sam Fidman

A green band of Oregon Webfoots contributed to a new Pacific Coast Conference record Saturday afternoon at Portland, where they were party of the second part to the University of California's 28-7 triumph. It was California's 18th consecutive conference win, thus establishing a record that none of the fabulous coast teams of the past was able to accomplish.

The Bears were far from being a polished machine, and unless "Pappy" Waldorf can ripen his crop considerably, the Golden Californians that trotted onto the Multnomah Stadium turf Saturday do not comprise the team that will trot into the Rose Bowl come January.

Montana Next

Oregon's Jim Aiken is less concerned with Rose Bowl trotters of this January than he is with the Montana contingent that invades Eugene Saturday. Any light regarding the Grizzlies was squelched when they defeated what has been called Dixie Howell's best Idaho team.

The opening minutes of the Oregon-California clash were little short of stunning. The Bears, favored in some circles by as much as five touchdowns, were pushed around the field like so much mayonnaise in a salad.

The Bears were plastered in their first series of offensive plays, and then Oregon started a sustained drive downfield that made the 27-349 fans, as well as the Bears, forget about any new records.

Brethauer Scores

That was really Oregon's moment in the game, even more so than the Webfoots' first touchdown of the current season. The Bears already had a three TD bulge by the time Monte Brethauer pounced on Tommy Edwards' fumble in the Cal end zone.

Even though that opening Duck drive failed to produce a score, it wasn't until California's first tally that the fans could sense the air being let out of Oregon's balloon.

The ease with which Cal quarterback Dick Lee flipped a 22 yard touchdown pass to Roy Ward after an untimely Webfoot bobble, pretty well burst the bubble that Oregon fans had constructed. Two minutes and thirty seconds later, seven more points by Cal, again as the result of an Oregon fumble, ended the Ducks' most glorious moment.

Hard-running backs like Jim Monachino, Pete Schabarum, John Olszewski, and John Pappa provided the glitter in the Golden Bear. The play of Bob Anderson, Brethauer, Edwards, and Dick Daugherty were significant enough to keep alive hopes for continued Oregon improvement.

Baugh Injured

Washington, (P)—Slingin' Sammy Baugh, ace passer of the Washington Redskins, and Bobby Gage, speedy Pittsburgh Steelers ball carrier, both suffered injuries today in the football game between the two teams, which the Steelers won. Baugh suffered an injury to his throwing arm late in the game when he was hit hard by several Steelers while trying to pass. The extent of the injury will not be determined until X-rays are taken.

Initial Test For Frosh Looms Soon

By Phil Johnson

Coach Bill Bowerman's University of Oregon Frosh gridgers will open their third week of practice this afternoon as they continue preparations for their season's opener with the Willamette University Jayvees at Eugene on Saturday, October 14.

The Yearlings concentrated upon fundamentals during their initial two weeks of practice as Backfield Coach Buzz Jackson and Line Coach Dale Daugherty directed their efforts.

Few injuries have been suffered by the Frosh, and the only major casualty, All-State Center Dave Lowe, is recovering from his ankle injury and probably will return to action today.

Marshfield's Barney Holland, a Portland Shrine game veteran, and John Spreen of Albany have handled the quarterbacking chores for the Frosh during recent scrimmages, although John Davis from Elkhart, Indiana, may see some action in that spot this afternoon.

Coach Bowerman plans to have his first eleven men play on both offense and defense. If his second team is substituted as a single unit, the mass substitutions will probably take place at the end of each quarter.

Van Brocklin Stars

Norm Van Brocklin, Oregon passing great of two seasons ago, engineered the first two touchdowns of the afternoon for the Los Angeles Rams as they downed the San Francisco Forty-Niners yesterday. The former Duck ace replaced Bob Waterfield after the latter was slightly injured on the game's opening kickoff.

Phillies Capture N.L. Pennant

New York, (P)—Saved from a possible playoff against the Brooklyn Dodgers by Dick Sisler's dramatic three-run homer in the 10th inning, Manager Eddie Sawyer's Philadelphia Phillies gained the right in the final hour of the race to meet the New York Yankees, kings of the American League, in the World Series opening Wednesday at Philadelphia.

Robin Roberts of the Phils and Don Newcombe of the Dodgers had been locked in a tight pitching duel for nearly two and a half hours when Sisler decided the issue with his 13th four-bagger of the year. Roberts set the stage for his own triumph when he opened the 10th with a single. Eddie Waitkus followed with a pop single into center, and then Richie Ashburn forced Roberts at third. That was the situation when Sisler smashed a Newcombe fast ball into the stands.

Huskies Draw New Respect In Gopher Win

By Associated Press

Despite a painful assortment of lumps and bruises, the University of Washington's football team probably feels as if it can lick anybody today, and maybe it can.

Anyway, the word is out in the Pacific Coast Conference: watch out for the Huskies!

Washington, long accustomed to annual drubbings from the University of Minnesota, pulled one of the week's prize upsets Saturday by knocking off the ponderous Gophers, 28-13.

The Huskies thus established themselves as something more than a darkhorse contender for Rose Bowl honors and prevented West Coast prestige, what there is left of it, from being totally sullied in an otherwise disastrous weekend.

The flood started Friday when another big ten invader, Iowa, unhorsed the USC Trojans, 20-14. It got worse Saturday when Rice crushed Santa Clara, 27-7, and when little College of the Pacific lost its first game in 17 starts, a 19-0 decision to Louisiana State. Only the Huskies were left to plug the dike. And they plugged it—against a behemoth line which outweighed them 20 pounds to the man.

California, evidently holding its fire for bigger games, coasted through Oregon, 28-7. The Golden Bears tie into something more substantial this Saturday, though. They'll host Pennsylvania.

Other games find Stanford at Oregon State, Southern California at Washington State and Montana at Oregon. Idaho, which succumbed to Montana Saturday in a 28-27 hair-raiser, invades Texas Western.

But the big one is the UCLA-Washington battle. The Huskies win over Minnesota may have bolstered team morale to a point of invincibility; or it may have finished them for the season, a band of hopeless cripples. Sanders and his Bruins should provide the answer.

Important Games Ahead As IMs Enter Second Week

Intramural football moves into its second week of play this afternoon with four of last week's opening round victors out to make it two in a row. Sigma Nu, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Hunter hall and Minturn hall all will be out for second round wins against opposition still seeking to break into the win column.

Sigma Nu, fresh from its 7-6 squeaker over Sigma Chi, is expected to fatten its average at the expense of the Sigma hall crew, which didn't show for their game last week against the Legal Eagles.

Tekes Meet Phi Delts

Tau Kappa Epsilon, holder of a 14-0 decision over Phi Sigma Kappa, will unlimber its big guns again in an effort to halt Sherry Ross, loser in its opener by a 20-0 count to Phi Delta Theta.

The Hunter hall team will attempt to annex a victory from Phi Kappa Sigma to go along with its win over Alpha hall. The Phi Kaps were trounced 40-0 in their opener against Alpha Tau Omega while Hunter was edging Alpha by the thin margin of one first down in its first start.

Minturn, Phi Psi Vie

The only other undefeated team playing today is Minturn, which scored a convincing 34-0 win over

Sigma Alpha Mu in its opener. Minturn goes against Phi Kappa Psi loser to Kappa Sigma 12-2.

Elsewhere in the league, action will be confined to teams still looking for win number one as Sigma Phi Epsilon meets Cherney, Pi Kappa Phi engages the Legal Eagles, Philadelphia House meets Phi Sigma Kappa, and Delta Tau Delta vies with Alpha hall.

Most convincing wins turned in by one team during the opening week were a pair registered by ATO. They warmed up with a 26-0 romp over the Delts and came back with the 40-0 whitewashing of the Phi Kaps.

Eight game schedules will prevail daily throughout this week until Friday when the slate is reduced to six contests.
