

Fred Mueller, Varsity Gospel Team Bring Message, Musical Program to Eugeneans

"Keep your knees down and your eyes up," advised Billy Graham, famed evangelist, to Fred Mueller, organizer of the Varsity Gospel Team, which appeared Saturday night at the Wilson Auditorium, 12th and Jefferson.

The Varsity Gospel Team, consisting of Fred Mueller; Bob Wheelless, trumpeter; Shirley Anderson, contralto; and the Carlson sisters, cello and piano artists, has a story of inspiration and determination behind it.

"I have been a Christian since I was 10 years old," Mueller stated, "but just a luke-warm Christian."

Fred Mueller learned from Billy Graham that you can not be a Christian until you have accepted God with your complete heart. The heart of a man consists of personality, character, and ego, he explained.

Fred Mueller met Billy Graham and Cliff Barrows in Portland and spoke on their program. Since then he has spoken throughout the state.

Mueller spent two days at Mt. Hood with Billy Graham, learning how to put over the gospel, and the technique of organizing a team.

"Where Will You Spend Eternity?" was the message of Fred Mueller at the meeting. A sophomore on the University campus, Mueller is affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta. Last year he was on the freshman basketball team and number one man on the freshman golf team. He also appeared in the stage play, "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Shirley Anderson, vocalist, was graduated last June from the University. The Carlson sisters, Marjorie and Dorothy, are both Oregon coeds. Marjorie, a junior, is a member of Ann Judson House. Dorothy is now pledging Delta Gamma. Bob Wheelless, trumpeter, is also affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

"I favor the ideals professed by this group," Barry Mountain, ASUO president, said Thursday, "and consider this a worthy movement. I know that students will respect the group, regardless of their personal beliefs."

V. Edwin Johnson, Mayor of Eugene, was on hand at the meeting to urge all sororities and fraternities on the campus to invite the gospel team to their houses for an evening of inspirational music and a message from the word of God.

"This team has not been organized for the glory of Fred Mueller or anyone else," Mueller stated. "We aren't preaching any religion. We will only preach what the scriptures say."

"Let's remember," he said, "that religion is man's effort to try to communicate with God."

'VA' Magazine Men Impostors

Reports that a group of magazine solicitors operating in Washington and Oregon are falsely representing themselves as VA employees have been received by the Veterans Administration.

The VA announced they do not solicit magazine subscriptions, nor do they sponsor magazine subscription drives by any other organization.

Veterans benefits are administered by the VA without charge, the report continued, and it is not necessary for a veteran to pay for outside information or assistance when seeking aid from the VA.

Audience Enjoys...

Miss Wendel and Van Boskirk kept the show moving at a nice pace. Miss Wendel brought a lovely freshness to her role, and a nice dramatic touch that heightened the comedy.

The setting was designed by Howard Ramey.

Van Boskirk and Winterringer both returned to the campus for the special showing of the production. Van Boskirk is now attending Vanport College in Portland. Winterringer is working in Wenatchee, Wash.

Miss Saunders is in her first term at the University. She formerly attended Pacific University in Forest Grove.

Thetas Top Women

The Delta Upsilon house, prepared for any weather, appeared with hats of every description, ranging from summer straws down through sombreros and painter's caps.

Sigma Chi made their presence known by blasts from a trumpet, while the dormitory men marched from house to house shouting out cadence like a bunch of top sergeants.

The Thetas enjoyed a real song fest with lots of songs and ukulele music. At Carson Hall, an impromptu shimmy dance entertained the crowd in the lobby. The raspa—an unusual dance step—caught the fancy of guests at Chi Omega, resulting in a small amount of bruises but a large amount of fun.

Any harm in a nap after Dinner?

To most of us a nap after Thanksgiving dinner is as much a part of Thanksgiving as the turkey itself. And there's no harm in that if we don't stay asleep to the responsibilities that go with the good things we have to be thankful for . . . the good things we enjoy only because we are a free people.

But too many of us go right on napping year after year.

45 million Americans failed to exercise their right to vote in the last presidential election! They were asleep to one of the most fundamental duties of free Americans.

How many millions more of us are asleep to our other duties as citizens of a democracy? How many of us are napping when we should get out to our Town Meetings and other civic government groups? How many millions of us pay union dues and don't vote in union elections — own stock but throw away our proxies? How many of us dodge jury duty?

These are our rights as free people! These are the rights we'd all hate to lose—yet so many of us do so little to help keep them. We must do more than give thanks for the good things freedom gives us—on Thanksgiving or any other day of the year. We must work to keep our freedom. We have a government "of the people"—and only the people themselves can make it work right!

It takes 150 million full-time, wide-awake citizens to keep our democracy going — to keep it going strong!
