Oregon Daily EMERALD

VOLUME LII UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1950 NUMBER 17

INTERNATIONAL DANCE TRIO, Iona McKenzie (left) of Canada, Wayne Lamb (center) of Kansas, and Elena Imaz of Argentina appear in costume for one of the folk dances which make up part of the program they will present Saturday evening in the University Theater.

International Trio to Present Dance Program Saturday

Professional dance entertainment will be presented Saturday at 8 p.m. in the University Theater by the International Dance Trio. It is the first time the theater has sponsored a professional group's program.

Tickets for the dance program may be purchased at the theater box office for $1, if a person is a season ticket holder. Tickets are $1.25 for non-season ticket holders. Sponsorship of the program by the UT is in keeping with its policy of bringing professional entertainment to students whenever possible.

Classical Spanish dancing, folk dancing, character dancing, balletomanes, and modern dancing will be offered by the trio—Elena Imaz, Iona McKenzie, and Wayne Lamb. They have had varied experience in the dance theater.

Miss Imaz, a native Argentine, was prima ballerina of the San Francisco Opera Co.; Miss McKenzie has danced with the Metropolitan Opera Co.; and Lamb has been in the dancing corps of many leading Broadway musical comedies. Michel Bourgeot, French pianist, was brought to America just recently by Miss Imaz to accompany the trio. It is his first trip to the United States.

Corn Stalks Offered Free To Halloweeners

Here's a chance for added atmosphere at a Halloween party.

A small stand of dry corn stalks has been offered to the first person to call for it, by T. H. Baxter, 1630 Patterson St., phone 4-6569.

If no one calls for it within a week, the corn will be destroyed, Baxter said.

Wally Heider Picked as Band For Whiskerino

Wally Heider and his 11-piece orchestra has been signed to play for the Sophomore Whiskerino Oct. 21, co-chairmen Bill Frye and Mike Lally announced Thursday.

Heider, who has played on many California campuses, was on the Oregon campus for the Senior Ball in 1948 and 1949. The orchestra has just completed an engagement at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Ticket sales for the dance will start Monday in the Co-op and the Student Union. Price will be $1.75 per couple. Members of Skull and Dagger will be in charge of sales in their living organizations.

First Dunkings Today

The first dunking of sophomore men who have neglected to grow beards is scheduled from 12:30 to 12:50 p.m. today. The dunking will be conducted by members of Skull and Dagger in the pool by Fenton Hall. All violators are requested to report to the pool at 12:30.

The semi-final eliminations for Joe College and Betty Coed will be held at 5 p.m. today in the Student Union. Candidates for Betty Coed are Ann Britts, Alpha Gamma Delta; Mary Gillham, Alpha Chi Omega; Molly Harbert, Sigma Kappa; Rusty Holcomb, Delta Zeta; Jane Knecht, Alpha Delta Pi; Beverly Krueger, Chi Omega; Lois Peterson, Alpha Phi; Maggie Powne, Alpha Xi Delta; Suzie Seley, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Karen Terry, Zeta Tau Alpha; Marcille Wallace, Gamma Phi Beta; and Betty Wise, Carson Hall.

Song Leaders Appear at Rally

The appearance of the five new song leaders sparked the rally Thursday afternoon in front of McArthur Court, which heralded the departure of the football team for Saturday's game with Idaho at Moscow.

An automobile parade through the campus from 11th and Hilyard to McArthur Court, preceded the rally, which was held at 3:45 p.m. The parade began at 3:25 p.m.

Although a much larger crowd than the estimated 150 was expected, delay in announcing the rally was blamed for lack of attendance. The team left the campus at 4 p.m., and the rally board was unable to schedule a rally which would match previous ones held in the Student Union ballroom.

The five new song leaders participated together in public for the first time in a routine set to "Mighty Oregon." The yell squad, headed by Ron Symons, led the assembled students in some pre-departure yells.

45 Extra Minutes: One a.m. Lockup Gets Faculty OK

One a.m. closing hours for women go into effect tonight. The measure was approved by the Student Affairs Committee at a meeting Thursday afternoon.

Already approved by the ASUO executive council and the student union board, the proposal for extending closing hours for women needed only the approval of the student affairs committee to be put into effect.

Some delay in making the decision was due in part to a desire by the student affairs committee to consider any action the Board of Deans might make in regards to the effect such a proposal would have on Saturday morning classes.

Although the approval was given without hearing from the Board of Deans, committee members expressed little doubt that the new closing hours would seriously effect attendance at Saturday classes.

Home Fires to Burn

Donald M. DuShane, chairman of the committee, stated that the most persuasive argument for approving the program was that it would keep students on the campus throughout the weekend.

DuShane said that there had never been any serious objection to the plan—outside of the effect on Saturday classes—but that some members of the committee felt action could be delayed for a few weeks with no harm incurred.

However, DuShane declared that the new system should work as well as the old one. "The mere matter of forty-five minutes should make no difference to anyone."

Calendar More Satisfactory

Satisfaction with the new hours was expressed by Barbara Stevenson, AWS president, who declared that the new hours should make the student social calendar much more satisfactory. "We now have two nights to work with," Miss Stevenson declared, "and can arrange a social calendar to handle the problem of engaging name bands for dances. House dances can now be held on one night, and student dances on other nights. It nearly doubles the possibilities for a social program."

UO Reserves 1,500 Tickets For OSC Game

Fifteen hundred tickets for the Oregon-Oregon State game in Portland Nov. 25 have been reserved for winners of Wednesday's ticket drawing. Athletic Director Howard Lemons announced Thursday.

The only lists of winners which will be posted are those for off-campus students and Carson Hall. The off-campus lists will be located in the Co-op, Student Union, and McArthur Court, and the Women's Dorm winners will be posted in Carson.

Living organization presidents will be responsible for notifying

Tickets for the University of Washington football game are now available at the athletic department in Mac Court.

Student body cards must be shown at the time of purchase. Tickets are $1.50 each.

their members who have drawn tickets. Lists of winners are available in the athletic office, Mac Court.

House Sections

Lemons urged house presidents to come to the office today and go through the off-campus list to locate members or alumni living in Eugene who would like to sit in the house section.

All members of a living organization will be allowed to sit together through an athletic department plan approved by the Executive Council earlier this week.

Sometime during the weekend, the names of each living group

Bullets, Fine Words Not Enough To Sell Democracy, Life Editor Feels

By Stan Turnbull

"It's going to take more than fine words—and bullets."

This is the feeling of Dick Johnston, an assistant editor of Life Magazine, in regard to the foreign situation. Johnston, a former University of Oregon student now vacationing in Eugene, explained that there are few official titles on Life, but his work deals with the foreign scene.

Over coffee at the Student Union—with which building the former Webfoot was much impressed—Johnston explained something of the way Life covers the world, and discussed briefly foreign affairs.

Merchandise Democracy

"In our relation with the countries of the Far East, we must try to merchandise our product, which is democracy," he said. "We must talk to, and listen to the people of these areas, rather than trying to hand them ready-made governments. Particularly, in Korea we should do more than just tell the Koreans to take President Syngman Rhee back."

Johnston, a student here in 1937 and 1938, feels that the U. S. has on occasion put itself in ridiculous positions through "following the Communist line—in reverse." He hopes for adoption of a positive policy.

"We should look for allies who are democracy, rather than just against Communism," he stated.

Explains Life Organization

Explaining Life's setup for international picture and news coverage, Johnston noted that the magazine keeps photographers spotted about the world, so that "there is usually someone pretty close when something breaks."

Does the magazine ever get advance tips on where a "break" is likely to occur?

The answer is "sometimes." A small group of staff members for example, was alerted before the amphibious landing at Inchon in Korea which probably was the turning point of that action.

A correspondent will often accompany the Life photographer, but Johnston remarked with a grin that suggested personal experience, "you usually wind up carrying the photographer's equipment."

The start of the Korean war found him working on Life's picture record—376 pages worth—of
