Last Quarter Score Gives St. Marys Win

St. Mary's sub Quarterback Dick Jarvis came back to Hayward Field Saturday to finish a job he started there two years ago, and by the time he had completed his handiwork, he and his Gael teammates were on the long end of an 18-13 score over Oregon's Ducks. It was St. Mary's first win of the season and the fourth loss in five tries for the Webfoots.

In 1948 it was Jarvis who nearly derailed Oregon's Cotton Bowl Express as he passed the Gaels to a 13-7 lead which they held until three minutes before the final gun. At that point Norm Van Brocklin took charge to lead the Ducks to a 14-13 win.

Jarvis Ruins Ducks

Jarvis hardly was in Saturday's game long enough to get his suit mussed. Yet, he had time to throw three passes, completing all of them for 101 yards and two touchdowns. His final effort came on the first play of the last quarter when Halfback Dave Marcelli took his 20 yard pass on the Oregon 26 and raced the rest of the way untouched. It gave the Gaels the deciding touchdown and put them in the lead for the first time in the game.

With Quarterback Earl Stelle doing the passing Oregon nearly wrote a sequel to that 1948 game, but a holding penalty on a touchdown play and two pass interceptions shut the door on the Ducks. They roared back after the last St. Mary's touchdown only to have Stelle's 21 yard pass to Tommy Edwards in the end zone nullified by the penalty.

Oregon opened the scoring late in the first quarter after threatening through the entire period. Carl Ervin scored the first of his two touchdowns after a Stelle to Monte Brethauer pass put the ball on the one. Chet Daniel's conversion attempt was wide.

Gaels Tie Count

St. Mary's tied the count moments later after End Dan McGeehan ran the kickoff back to the Oregon 25. Tom Dugger and Marcelli divided the chores in getting the ball to the two, from which point Marcelli busted into pay dirt.

The two teams traded touchdowns again before the half. Oregon got the lead back when Ervin scored on a shifting twisting run from the 20. Daniels was successful this time and the score went to 13-6. The Gaels refused to stay down, though, and went 48 yards on two Jarvis passes with seconds left in the half. McGeehan made a diving catch in the end zone for the score. Frank Cassara missed both St. Mary's conversion attempts.

Dick Daugherty, Dick Patrick, Ray Lung and Stelle all stood out on defense for Oregon. On the offense, it was Ervin and Ron Lyman for the Ducks, while Marcelli, Dugger, and Cassara all ran well for the visitors.

Cal Scents Roses As Favorites Fall

By Associated Press

With Stanford and Washington falling by the wayside over the weekend, the California Golden Bears stand today as the only unbeaten team in the Pacific Coast Conference.

While the UCLA Bruins were scalping the Stanfords, 21-7, in the coast's Saturday special and while Washington was bowing by 20-13 to Illinois, California continued on the rose-strewn path by the way of a routine triumph over Oregon State.

Cal whipped the Beavers, Saturday, 27-0. Stanford holds a 21-0 verdict over the same club. But Washington drubbed Oregon State by 35-6. Theoretically then, Washington merits at least an eight point edge over Stanford in next Saturday's feature attraction at Palo Alto.

Profs Seen Lurking in Alleys; Bowling League Opener Nears

By Jack Faust

Unbeknown to a goodly share of the student population, many members of the faculty will soon shuck their stiff collars for sport shirts and do battle for five bowling trophies when the eight-team league starts play on the Student Union bowling alleys.

Since the teams consist of five men each, this means that there are at least forty sports on the teaching end of the books, dubious as this may seem to that segment of last year's population now attending Vanport.

Although the tardy student gets a glare one minute after the bell has sounded, faculty league rules permit teams to be 10 minutes late before forfeiting, and late players may make up lost frames.

The eight teams are hardly conservatively named, as might be expected. The teams include the Plotters, Jets, Grenadiers, Draftsmen, Flying Saucers, Vitamins, Stack Rats, and Liberal Rats. Captains include Lyle Nelson, Les Anderson, Prof. Gelhausen, and Sgt. Weaver. Rumor has it that one of the competitors will be none other than Dr. H. K. Newburn, president of the university.

Rooks Clip Ducklings In Mud 23-7

The University of Oregon Frosh football squad suffered its first setback of the season Friday afternoon as the Ducklings dropped a 23-7 decision to the powerful Oregon State Rooks on muddy Bell Field in Corvallis.

The Ducklings were held scoreless until the final quarter, when Left Half Jack Morris took an eight-yard aerial from Quarterback Barney Holland and zigzagged 49 yards to the enemy end zone. Fullback Howard Hostetler booted the conversion point.

Both teams were deadlocked in a scoreless tie at the end of the first quarter, which featured a successful Duckling stand on their own 16 and a 44-yard punt return by Morris.

Rooks Bust Loose

The Rooks broke the ice early in the second period when Left Half Dave Mann returned a punt 66 yards for a touchdown. Fullback Kaye Booth split the uprights for the conversion.

The Frosh threatened to score shortly afterwards when a 40-yard run by Morris put the ball on the Rook 19, but Oregon State stalemated the Duckling drive.

Later during the same quarter, the Frosh were driven back to their own six-yard line, where Booth fumbled and Oregon recovered. The Ducklings pushed forward to the 11 and attempted to punt, but the kick was blocked by Rook Guard George Cockerton. The ball rolled out of bounds from the end zone for a safety.

OSC Rolls On

Mann scored again for the Baby Beavers early in the third stanza, when he broke through right tackle and galloped 42 yards to the end zone. Booth's conversion kick was successful, and the Rooks led 16-0.

Coach Hal Moe's OSC gridders increased the score 23-0 during the final period. A Duckling fumble was recovered by the Rooks on the Oregon 16. Hogan Garrisi scored a few moments later by going over from the one-inch line. Booth kicked the extra point.

Tight Verdicts Mark IM Tilts

By Clark Smith

Campbell Club, Phi Delta Theta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Tau Delta, and Chi Psi won B league volleyball games Friday.

In the day's most exciting and best played series, Delta Tau Delta lost the first game to Sherry Ross Hall before hitting their stride in the last two. The Deltas played perfect volleyball in the second game, winning 15-0, and came from behind in the third to score a 15-13 win.

Pi Kappa Alpha won the first game from Phi Gamma Delta 15-7. The Fijis won the second game handily, 15-4, but lost the third and deciding tilt 8-15.

Lambda Chi Alpha won a hard fought three game series from McClesney Hall, winning 15-6 and 15-11 while dropping a 19-17 marathon.

Phi Delta Theta beat Sigma Nu easily in the first game, 15-5, then managed to win the second 16-14. Campbell Club and Chi Psi won by forfeit over Alpha and Sigma Halls, respectively.

The world is not alone in being full of a number of things. An Oregon doctor found a pocket knife and a key in a man.

Warren to Stress Offense As Ducks Drill for Opener

Coach John Warren will send his Webfoot basketball squad into the second week of practice this afternoon at McArthur Court in preparation for the 1950 opener December 1 against Utah at Salt Lake City.

After a week of drills stressing fundamentals and condition, Warren has expressed great satisfaction in the performances of his big men. Loaded with a wealth of guards, the Webfoots must develop backboard strength if they expect to be in serious contention for the Northern Division hoop title this season.

Team offensive sessions are on the schedule for later in the week, after the 22-man squad has been divided into separate units. The initial week provided insufficient opportunity for Warren to select the personnel of each unit.

Both veteran and newcomer candidates have turned in impressive action, an indication that strong battles are in store for the starting berths. Among the veterans, Guards Mel Krause, Jack Keller, John Neeley, and Ken Hunt have all played well. Center Mel Streeter, a smooth floor-worker last season, has strengthened his first-string aspirations with the addition of a successful new shot. The new faces leading the way belong to four transfers and two sophomores. The transfer quartet includes Bob Peterson, forward; Centers Jim Locutoff and Jack McElravy; and Guard Art Shepherd. Up from the strong 1949-50 Frosh quintet, Center Chet Noe and Guard Don Hoy have earned the most attention among the sophomores.
