Suspenders Offered To One In Need

Two pairs of suspenders are waiting to be claimed in the anthropology department office. They were left there by W. S. Laughlin, anthropology professor, to be given to anyone who wants them.

The suspenders were a birthday present given to Laughlin by some Aleut Indians while he was on a field trip to the Aleutian Islands this summer. As he never wears them, he decided to give them to some one who could.

Order of 'O' to Punish Tradition Violators

Tradition violators caught by Order of "O" men Monday must report at 12:30 p.m. today to receive violation penalties, enforcement officials reported.

Women students are to report to the dunking pool between Fenton and Villard. Men violators will appear in front of Johnson Hall to receive a hack for violations.

The question has been asked as to what constitutes the old campus. The area north of Thirteenth St. between Kincaid and University is considered the old campus. The sidewalk is also a part of this area and smoking here is a tradition violation.

Students are reminded that the following traditions will be enforced rigidly: No smoking on the old campus; do not walk on seal; do not walk on campus lawns; do not fail to say "hello" on "Hello Walk"; only seniors may sit on the senior bench; frosh men will wear khaki pants and Oregon rooter's lids; frosh girls will wear green ribbons; sophomore men will not wear cords.

Limit of Thirty Dollars Placed On This Year's Homecoming Signs

A limit of $30 has been set for Homecoming signs, Jane Carlisle, sign chairman stated Monday night. A list of expenditures must be turned in to Francis Neel, Alpha Delta Pi, by 5 p.m.

Miss Carlisle stated "Regardless of rain or high water the sign contest will be held this year." She suggested that living organizations prepare signs on materials that will not be ruined immediately by rain. "Canvas painted with oil colors will stand water very well," Miss Carlisle pointed out.

Judging of signs will be based on four main points. They are originality, effort, adherence to central theme, and impressiveness. Ten points will be distributed equally for them.

Judging will begin promptly at 5:30 p.m. at Alpha Tau Omega and will end around 7 p.m. at the millrace houses.

Judges for the sign contest have also been selected. They are: Oren King, Eugene City Manager; Mrs. C. A. Huntington, wife of Shy Huntington, ex-university football coach, Mrs. R. C. McCall, wife of R. C. McCall, head of the speech department; Mr. C. R. Manerud, outstanding Oregon Alum and Eugene business man; Reverend Tom Hunter, head of the Westminster house; Mrs. J. K. Glazer, professor in the art school and adviser of the are education department.

Bylaw Statement

The Bylaws read: "Rushing shall be defined as social contact of any kind at any place, and as an attempt to influence any freshman in his choice of fraternity. This provision shall not be construed to prevent an individual fraternity member from contact with an individual freshman for purpose other than influencing his choice of fraternity."

Naming of the offenses by Convicted fraternities indicates that the greatest difficulty in enforcing rushing rules rises out of the last sentence in that paragraph, especially concerning athletic relations between fraternity members and freshmen.

Some fraternities were charged with violating rushing rules through contact with freshmen during athletic duties. However, no convictions were made on this point.

Illegal Social Rushing

All convictions were made over purely social contact. Most common was illegal rushing in campus taverns and coffee shops. One fraternity was fined for rushing a freshman in Portland, which has been declared illegal under IFC rules.

Other violations were social tennis playing with a freshman over an extended period of time, double dating with a freshman, illegal rushing of a freshman at a sorority house dance.

Although the IFC Bylaws state that each charge is subject to a $50 fine, exceptions were made in cases where it was shown that the charge constituted one offense, although it involved two or more freshman.

Where it was proved that the offense concerned only one freshman at a time, the maximum $50 fine was levied on each freshman offense, in several instances running to as many as four freshman to a fraternity.

Freshmen Off Easy

The Tribunal stated that the penalties for freshman were purposely light, although the IFC rules provide for stiffer punishment to the offending men. But the Tribunal made it clear that freshmen involved in future violations will not receive such light punishment.

IFC rules state that freshmen will be denied the right to pledge any fraternity for a full year, if convicted of violating the rules.

Alum Lettermen Slated to March

The pre-game and half-time entertainment for the W.S.C. Homecoming football game will feature the annual Order of the "O" march. Alumni Order of the "O" men will be led to their seats in the grandstand by Oregon lettermen.

Entertainment planned for the game will be numbers by the University Band, card tricks, and a presentation of the 1950 Hostess to the Alumni by Barry Mountain. A welcoming talk will also be given by Mountain.

Chairman of the pre-game and half-time entertainment committee is Sarah Turnbull. Committee members are Rod Heestand, Ann Irwin, and Susie Seley.

Mexico Offers Students Grants

Are you interested in studying in Mexico? The United States-Mexican Commission on Cultural Cooperation is offering 25 grants to American students for study in Mexico next year.

The scholarships are being offered to graduates and undergraduates. Ten grants paying for tuition, and maintenance will be given undergraduates, five graduate fellowships paying tuition plus a main-

Final Dessert Pairings

Final pairings for the revised dessert schedule will be announced at a meeting of social chairmen today.

Dana Lind, campus social chairman, requested that all social chairmen from living organizations meet at 4 p.m. in the Student Union to obtain this information.

"If any chairman cannot attend," she said, "please send a representative."

Chairmen are asked to bring their dessert schedules.

Exec Council

He said, "all persons that park on the University parking lots without stickers will have their cars towed away. This, he explained, is to keep non-students from parking on the lots."

The interviews were carried out without the aid of written petitions for the interviewees reference because they had been mislaid by ASUO President Barry Mountain while he was re-organizing his office files.

Mountain appointed Henry Adams, senior in business, who was appointed last week, to be chairman of the court.

For Campus Entertainment Chairman, Gerry Pearson, sophomore in liberal arts, was appointed by the Executive Council. The council then established two assistantships and appointed Jim Watkins, sophomore in business, and Jean Gould, junior in liberal arts, to the positions.

Chairman Pearson said that she would "make complete files, encourage freshman talent, and get more variety from off campus professional groups."

Before the first petitioners were heard, the council went on record as denying the special admittance of a late petition for membership on the Student Court.

In the Amazon creek district, the Red Cross supplied food and bedding to "high and dry" homes in the flooded area that were built on stilts.

In the Roseburg area, the National Guard supplied two "Ducks" to help in the evacuation of nearly 1,000 homeless persons. Highways in Roseburg were the first to be closed by high water and still had not been reopened in the Myrtle Creek area or coastward to Coquille.

Crescent City on the coast of California has been isolated for several days and without regular communications. The only reports received were from a ham radio operator. He said that an emergency existed, but residents are safe despite three to five feet of water in the town. Supplies are being sent into the area.

In the Salem-Corvallis area the Willamette river was expected to crest Monday at about 27 feet. This is some seven feet above flood stage.

With all major highways in Oregon closed to traffic, State Highway Engineer R. H. Baldock said that the road damage would be the worst in Oregon's history.

The new storm that is moving in from Alaska is expected to reach the Oregon area today. It is not expected to bring heavy rains and should lessen to showers by Wednesday according to the United States Weather Bureau at Eugene.

tenance allowance are being offered, and ten grants paying round-trip transportation costs plus a monthly allowance make up the list of awards.

Requirements for the grants are that the applicant be an American

Posters Publicize Homecoming, Chairman Says

Posters advertising different phases of Homecoming have been placed all over the University campus, Kay Kuckenberger, promotion chairman stated Thursday.

The usual practice of placing Homecoming weekend schedules on all posters has been discarded this year. Instead, complete schedules of events will be found in the Osburn and Eugene hotels and in railroad and bus depots.

Homecoming displays may be found in downtown business stores Monday. On the University campus the Co-op will feature different phases of Homecoming and a picture of the Hostess of the 1950 Homecoming in its windows.

Promotion sub-chairmen are: Nancy Pollard, assistant chairman; Jo Ann Kelley, contact chairman; Maggie Powne, Andy Friedle, promotion; Bonnie Birkimier, Sue Bohlman, and Joyce Rathburn, posters co-chairmen; Nancy O'Connor, Harriet Vahey, Don Collin, flying speeches men's houses; Betty Hillman, Marilyn Hillman, Don Zavin, flying speeches women's houses; Lyn Hartley, Jane Slocum, Jeanese Crist, co-op displays; and Marcia Eagleson, Barbara Johnson, and Kay Haier, St. Mary's game advertising.

Miss Keelen comes from Portland's Grant high school where she was president of the sophomore women and a member of the rally squad. She proposed frequent class meetings and activities in her platform.

The class treasurer, Miss Wood, was not available for comment.

Alaskan Storm

At the University's Trailer Housing Project, the water rose to its usual three inch level and then ran off into the gutter. Students there reported that loose broad-walks caused near gysers of water to shoot up into the air when walked upon. Residents have been tip-toeing around every winter because the condition is normal.

Many commuting students were reported to have been marooned in Eugene Sunday, for Highway 99 south and the Ferry street bridge were closed Sunday morning by the high water that rose to four feet above flood stage. Both routes were reopened early Monday morning.

Students weekending in California and southern Oregon were routed from Klamath Falls to Burns and over the Santiam pass to Corvallis on their return trip to Eugene. Students in the Ashland area found that a special plane was the quickest and safest way back.

The millrace was probably the most stable stream in the area. It rose only about two feet during the storm, however its flow is controlled by lock gates.
