IFC, Dorms Approve Rush Plan

There will be a fall term rush week. The Interdormitory Council approved Tuesday night the program worked out last week by the Interfraternity Council and the leaders of the IDC.

Under the agreement, signed by Bill Clothier, president of the IDC, Bill Harber, president of the IFC and Donald M. DuShane who approved the program on behalf of the University of Oregon, rushing will be completed by Nov. 22.

IFC leaders were unavailable Tuesday night to give any details as to how the rushing program will be worked out. However, it was understood that rushing will begin next week.

Same as Other Plan

The rushing program as adopted by the IDC and presented to IFC late Tuesday night by Barry Mountain, ASUO president, was essentially the same as that worked out by IFC and IDC last Thursday.

Principal change in the program involved the time during the evening when freshman pledges will be allowed in fraternity houses. The rushing plan provides that freshmen will be restricted from fraternity houses from 7 p.m. until 7 a.m., Monday through Thursday.

Tribunal Given Power

The signed agreement also gave the Tribunal power to set up its own machinery to enforce the rushing regulations.

Approval of the document was secured by Mountain who met with some IFC members and talked with others over the phone. Mr. Du-

UO Chest Drive As Yet $900 Shy of Quota

The campus Community Chest drive, on its last day, lacks $900 of completing its assigned quota, according to figures reported by N. H. Comish, head of the faculty appeal.

"So far we have collected 77 percent of our $4,000 quota," Dr. Comish said. "The flood and the election have hindered the drive and we are all going to have to dig to reach our goal. We still have a chance if those who have not yet made their gifts give as generously as those people who have already given."

Mike Lally, off-campus chairman, announced that $20.40 in cash and $3 in pledges had been collected from the housing projects across from Hayward Field and at Skinner's Butte. Workers from downtown Eugene are covering the Amazon Flats area.

A total of $42.44 was donated at booths in the SU and the Co-op, Lillian Schott, booth chairman, said today.

The drive has been publicized by Stu Richardson, promotion chairman. Flying speeches, five-minute talks and bulletin board notices have been used to attract campus attention.

Howe Field Repairs Due In Time for Baseball

Howe Field will be repaired and ready for baseball season, according to Leo Harris, director of athletics.

He said that if the weather permits trucks on the field, the repair work will be accomplished in plenty of time. "But the field will be ready even if we have to do it by hand," he said. "We can't take a chance on injuries caused by turned ankles."

'Town Planning' Topic of Lecture

"New Achievements in English Town Planning" will be the topic of a lecture to be given at 8 p.m. tonight in 3 Fenton by F. J. Osborn, noted British authority on town and country planning.

The lecture will be open to University students and faculty and Eugene townspeople.

Osborn has lectured at many universities throughout the country this year, and will speak at several more during his tour. He is under the sponsorship of the American Institute of Planners.

Aggies Publicize Burning of Bonfire

News of the premature bonfire burning last Thursday even penetrated the confines of the agricultural school at Corvallis.

The Barometer, student daily, said that "unidentified persons" set the fire, and that two attempts, the first with phosphorus, and the second with turpentine, were needed to produce the "desired results."

Details of the culprits' efforts were more complete than could be provided by sources at the University, where the "desired results" were managed.

Harris said that he was satisfied with the policy taken by Director of Men's affairs Ray Hawk, and that he was glad that the students had a bonfire.

"I think," he said, "that the Fiji lot is a better location anyway."

Hawk said that he had not had time to look into the possibility that all of the responsible freshmen had not reported, but he intends to clear up the issue before it is dropped.

"I am pleased with the response so far," he said. "Even some men who had no part in the affair have volunteered to help repair the field."

Correction...

William Carlos Williams, author, will speak on "Modern Writing" at 7:30 tonight in the Browning Room, SU, instead of Tuesday night, as was incorrectly stated in Tuesday's Emerald.

Liquor Ad Ban Gets 'No' Vote

The bill to prevent the sale of promotively advertised liquor was being rejected by a 3 to 1 margin according to over half of the precinct reports received at 2 a.m. today.

The measures for Uniform Standard Time and the Old-age Assistance Act had significant margins.

The time measure will establish uniform time throughout the state and give the governor authority to vary it within one hour.

The Old-age Assistance Act will repeal the Dunne Pension Law of 1948, and let the state file claims against the estates of deceased pensioners.

Reports from 1,184 of 2,018 precincts at 2 a.m. were as follows:

Measure	Yes	No
Legislators' Compensation	93,604	79,645

State

Supreme Court Contest Uncertain

The write-in Supreme Court contest between Justice Harold J. Warner, of Portland, and State Senator Allan G. Carson, of Salem, was in doubt at 1:10 Wednesday morning, with Warner ahead by a margin of 3,106 votes.

State Labor Commissioner William E. Kimsey apparently won reelection over Democratic Howard Morgan of Monmouth, who served in the House of Representatives last year. Kimsey, who has served two terms, was leading by 95,776 votes to Morgan's 61,174 at 1:10 Wednesday morning.

Justice Harold J. Warner assumed the lead over his opponent Senator Carson at midnight when reports were completed from 1,069 of the State's 2,018 precincts.

State Labor Commissioner Kimsey maintained his lead over Democrat Morgan from 8 p.m., when first reports from 80 of the 2,018 precincts were received, throughout the evening.

State legislature results are unavailable. Associated Press wires carried results on only the principal state races.

Democrat Losses Large in Congress

Republican leaders triumphed and Democratic kingpins went tumbling Wednesday in mounting returns from Tuesday's nationwide elections.

The Republican leadership team, Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, swept to victory in a record off-year balloting that bolstered GOP strength in both houses of Congress.

Taft easily defeated Democratic state auditor Joseph D. Ferguson, who was backed by a solid Democrat-labor coalition, while Millikin, a Taft lieutenant, won reelection over "fair dealer" John A. Carroll.

However, in Missouri, Republican Senator Forrest C. Donnell, a thorn in the side of the Truman administration, trailed Democrat Thomas C. Hennings, Jr.

Several big name Democrats were blotted from the political scene, at least temporarily.

Down to defeat went Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland, and Governor Chester Bowles of Connecticut, "fair dealer" and former OPA chief.

New York's governor Thomas E. Dewey swept to reelection for a third term, as did California's Earl Warren. By 2 a.m. (EST) the
