

UO Delegation Starts on World Topics Speeches

Seven University students returned Saturday from a two-day regional conference of the International Relations Club at the College of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Washington.

Accompanying the group were F. W. Neuber, a Carnegie fellow in political science, his wife, and E. C. Robbins, adviser to the club and instructor in political science.

Discussions on Communist China, the Japanese peace treaty, Yugoslavia and her communism problems, and other subjects were featured. Approximately 25 northwestern colleges were represented at the conference, sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

The Oregon student delegation included President Claire Cordier, Vice-president Tolbert McCarroll, Nancy O'Connor, Richard Hansen, Lloyd Lease, Grace Sargent, and Hans Hock, Austrian foreign student.

Two reading copies of the Emerald are available in the Student Union Browsing Room every day.

Top Bridge Teams To Meet at 6:30

Finalists in the first annual all-campus bridge tournament will meet at 6:30 tonight in 315 Student Union.

Teams which placed first or second in each section and each direction in preliminaries qualify for the finals.

Winning men's and women's teams will be awarded rotating trophies; individual winners will receive small permanent trophies. Second-place winners will be presented permanent plaques.

The tournament, sponsored by the Student Union Board recreation committee, is directed by Steve Engelmann, committee member.

Darby Chairman Of AWS Party

Ann Darby was named general chairman of the AWS Christmas charity party, schedule for Wednesday, Dec. 2.

Subchairmen are Bobbie Howard, decorations; Norma Hultgren, distribution; Barbara Clerin and Joan Cartozio, collections; Andy Friedle, publicity; Jeanne Gould, program; Denise Thum, food; and Judy McLoughlin, invitations.

Meeting of all committee chairmen will be held in the Student Union at 4 p.m. Monday.

KDUK Project

"We're not certain yet just what kind of shows we'll have. We need a staff of about 100 in order to operate as we would like too," said Vaughn.

Located in Villard KDUK, with studios, offices and transmitting facilities on the top floor of Villard Hall, is owned by the State Board of Higher Education, and will be run through the speech department of the University.

Unlike the Emerald, and the Oregana, KDUK is not supported by student funds, although the transmitting facilities were provided through student body contributions in the radio honorary Kappa Rho Omicron, pledge drive last spring.

Biggest difficulty faced by KDUK is transmitting to this area. Investigation was made on this campus and at Stanford to see if carrier circuit was practical at Oregon. It was found by technicians that the size of the campus and the diversity of living organizations would make carrier current not only impractical, but illegal.

Reason for FM For this reason the FM application was made. Vaughn, explaining the FM said, "We feel that after we start programming, FM will turn out to be far superior to anything else."

Living organizations, said Vaughn, have put in "converters" in FM sets which permit AM radios to transmit FM programs.

Stating the policy of KDUK, Vaughn said the station will be an education station, in that it will be training for students, rather than education primarily for listeners.

"KDUK" Pending Some doubt remains that KDUK will be the call letters of the station. The FCC has still to issue an official permit on that point. Vaughn said a request has been made for those call letters and the station has no reason to believe that KDUK will not be granted them.

Other call letters which the station has submitted as alternatives are KWAX, KDUK, and KWAC.

The radio department of the University will continue to transmit three hours a week over KOAC.

P. W. Souers, head of the English department, was elected president of the Oregon chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at a meeting last week. Robert Dean, assistant professor of chemistry, was elected vice-president; and Mrs. A. F. Moursund was re-elected secretary.

Members of the group's executive committee elected at the meeting were Mrs. Lois Baker, law librarian; and Robert Leeper, professor of psychology.

Elected to the membership committee were Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs; E. C. Robbins, instructor in economics; Howard Dean, assistant professor of political science; and Mrs. Marie Mason, instructor in mathematics.

ASUO Rally Board Requests Petitions

Petitioners for five Rally Board positions will be interviewed by the ASUO Executive Council at 8:15 p.m. tonight in the Student Union board room.

Another vacancy on the board has been created by the resignation of Jim Crismon. Crismon, junior in liberal arts, has declined deferment and is Army bound according to ASUO President Barry Mountain.

There are five vacancies on the enlarged nine-member board. The council wants about three or four lower classmen for the new appointments, one of whom should be a band member. This will leave at least one and possibly two positions open for upper-classmen.

Also on the agenda for the council meeting, which is open to all students, are reports on the meeting of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders, final plans for a new student body card, and tentative plans for an athletic sport's night program.

Oregana Adds Two Editors

Jerry Hencken, junior in art, and Mary Cochrane, sophomore in liberal arts, have been named associate editors of the Oregana. Editor Ruth Landry announced Sunday.

The appointments were approved by the Student Publications Board last week.

Hencken will have charge of the schools section and Miss Cochrane of the clubs and honoraries section.

Hencken has worked on the yearbook for two and one-half years, mainly on layout and the schools section.

Miss Cochrane, who edited the Eugene High School yearbook in 1949, did layout work and special assignments for the Oregana last year.
