Suspension of Licenses Not in Effect at Present

The suspension of liquor licenses for the College Side and Taylor's Coffee Shop will not go into effect until about Dec. 11, the Emerald learned Tuesday.

A local inspector will serve the notices on or about Dec. 1. He will not receive the notices until that time because of the necessary delay in preparing and sending the legal documents from Portland. The law stipulates that the suspensions must go into effect ten days after serving of notices.

Acting on an anonymous tip that the suspensions would not go into effect until Dec. 16, the Emerald contacted Richard Reed, commissioner on the Oregon Liquor Control Commission, who released the correct information.

The discrepancy occurred in the original statement that the two establishments would be closed for beer-selling Dec. 16. The Emerald learned that at least one of the two establishments were told by officials in Portland that their licenses would not be revoked before Dec. 16. Such a case would have meant that suspensions would only be token, in as much as Christmas vacation begins Dec. 20.

Question Unsettled

When queried as to this, Reed stated that "the delay was caused by the process of serving which the Liquor Commission follows, but the suspensions would definitely go into effect before Dec. 16. "However," Reed continued, "this will not settle the question completely. Investigation will be continued on the problem and a definite decision will be made at a later meeting."

After the fifteen-day suspension is over, the College Side and Taylor's will continue to sell beer to persons over 21 years of age. However, these establishments will have to have their licenses renewed, as they expire at the end of the year.

Temporary Permit

When asked whether the licenses would be renewed, Reed answered: "The commission will probably allow them to operate on a temporary permit. The question will then be discussed at the next meeting on Dec. 18."

Business has fallen off tremendously, both Taylor and Alpine, managers of the two places, agreed when asked what effect the controversy has had upon their business.

"The reason for the decline in business can be attributed to the fact that students feel the suspensions are now in effect," Taylor said.

La Follette To Speak In Ballroom

Philip LaFollette, analyst and interpreter of world affairs, will speak on "Is Another Depression Ahead?" at 11 a.m. today in the SU ballroom. Morning classes are being shortened fifteen minutes.

The schedule for classes this morning is: first period 8 to 8:35; second period, 8:45 to 9:20; third period, 9:30 to 10:05; and fourth period, 10:15 to 10:50.

Arriving at 10 a.m., LaFollette will be on campus until 6 p.m. He will speak at 11 a.m. and be a luncheon guest at 12:15 p.m. in the SU. At 1:30 p.m. he will address a press conference. A coffee hour will be held for the speaker from 3 to 4 p.m. in the Dad's Lounge of the SU. The informal meeting, being sponsored by the SU board and Mortar Board, is open to students, faculty, and townspeople.

E. H. Moore, head of the sociology department, will introduce LaFollette at the assembly.

When LaFollette was elected governor of Wisconsin in 1930 he was America's youngest governor. His father, the late Robert M. LaFollette, was governor of Wisconsin from 1900 to 1906, and U. S. Senator from 1906 until his death in 1925. The lecturer's brother, Robert LaFollette, succeeded his father as U. S. Senator in 1925 and served until 1947.

Philip LaFollette received the A. B. Degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1919, and the L. L. B. in 1922. During the first world war he served as second lieutenant war LaFollette joined General MacArthur's staff in the Southwest in the infantry. During the last Pacific.

Dream Girl Dance Set In 'Igloo'

The 1950 Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha will be named from five finalists at the Dream Girl dance Saturday night in McArthur Court. Music for the formal affair will be supplied by the Dave Brubeck Trio, San Francisco night club entertainer.

Competing for the Dream Girl are Pat Burrows, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Charlene Hanset, Alpha Chi Omega pledge and Carson Hall; Doris Padrick, Gamma Phi Beta; Jean Peterson, Delta Delta Delta pledge and Carson Hall; and Arlene Stone, Susan Campbell.

Miss Hanst and Miss Petersen are both freshmen, graduates of Grant High School in Portland. Miss Stone, a junior, lives in Oswego and attended West Linn High School. She spent her first two years of college at Oregon State. Out-of-state students are Doris Padrick, sophomore from Lompoc, California, and Pat Burrows, sophomore from Boise, Idaho. Miss Padrick, however, was born in Portland.

Doak to Play Cassio In Shakespearean Play

By Don Smith

The gay young blade of the University Theater production of "Othello" is Donn Doak, who plays the role of Cassio in the tragedy which opens this Friday night in the theater.

DONN DOAK

Tickets for the Shakespearean play, directed by Otilie Seybolt, may be obtained at the theater box office. It is the first Shakespeare produced by the theater since

"Midsummer Night's Dream" in the spring of 1948.

Cassio is a valiant man used as an instrument to bring Othello's jealousy, according to the man who will interpret the role for theater audiences. Iago uses Cassio, who is an easy prey.

"He's not gullible," Doak elaborated, "but he just doesn't see through Iago. He's hot-tempered, quick to draw his sword; in short, just what Iago needs to carry out his plans."

The role is the second in the University Theater for Doak, who played Senator McKinley in "John Loves Mary." And he finds the change of character welcome.

"Shakespeare is good to work with," Doak believes, "because the lines have so much meat in them."

Duelling is one of the difficulties the role has thrown in the path of the actor. He wounds two men in the play, before getting sliced himself by Iago.

Whenever he isn't cutting up one way, he's cutting up another in his humorous scenes with Bianca, played by Jo DeLap.

"But Cassio is essentially an upstanding citizen," Doak explains, "and he keeps Bianca only for play time."

'Big New War' Rages in Asia

Chinese Communists Pour 200,000 Troops Against Retreating UN Army

(Compiled from the Associated Press)

In the wake of heavy Chinese Communist advances in North Korea Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told a startled world that "an entirely new war" was developing all along the Korean front.

Over 200,000 Chinese Reds, and 70,000 North Koreans had swung 13 miles in behind American positions in northwest Korea, through the crushed east flank of the 75-mile United Nations front.

Reds Near Pyongyang

At a late hour Tuesday night, Chinese Communists had captured the northwest Korean towns of Yongbyon, Yongsan, and Won, and spearheads were reported 43 miles north of Pyongyang.

The critical battle-front developments impelled General MacArthur to summon his two top commanders in Korea to a secret emergency conference in Tokyo that lasted until 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, Tokyo time.

MacArthur's 110,000-man U. N. army in northwest Korea, which had launched an end-of-the-war offensive last Friday, fell back before onslaughts of 14 Chinese divisions and elements of seven North Korean divisions.

Truman Calls Conference

In Washington, President Truman met in a hastily-called meeting Tuesday afternoon with members of the Security Conference. No decision was announced but members left the meeting looking "worried and grave."

In the United Nations, the United States accused Communist China of "open and notorious aggression" in Korea. The Peking government spokesman replied that he would not discuss the situation in Korea.

Oregana Names Parrish, Hagan Frosh Slate First Council

Dolores Parrish, sophomore in liberal arts, was named advertising sales manager and Milt Hagan, sophomore in journalism, advertising layout editor for the 1951 Oregana by Business Manager Bob Schooling Monday.

Miss Parrish worked on the organizations section of the yearbook last year and has been a member of the Piggers' Guide staff. She worked on the yearbook and newspaper at Portland's Lincoln High School.

Hagan's appointment was a step in the Oregana's effort to make the advertising section more in keeping with the rest of the book by using art work to improve the value of the ads. Schooling explained. Hagan has had advertising experience on the staff of the Sacramento Junior College paper.

Bids Due Thursday For UO Rally Board

Thursday is the deadline for rally board petitioning, with the single vacancy to be filled by an upperclassman. A new chairman of the board will be chosen after this appointment is made.

Following the 5 p.m. Thursday deadline, petitions will be screened and students selected to be interviewed will be notified. Interviews will be held at 7:45 p.m. Monday in the Student Union board room.

First meeting of the freshman class council will be held from 8 to 9 tonight, Wayne Carothers, freshman class president announced.

The primary purpose of the meeting will be to organize the business and activities of the class, Carothers explained.

Besides class officers, the council is composed of freshman representatives from each men and women's dorm, and co-ops.

Card to Include Photo, Birthdate

Students of the University of Oregon will have a new combination student body and athletic card for winter term.

The card, which was approved by the ASUO Executive Council Nov. 20, will include the student's picture, date of birth, and signature for identification purposes. It will cost 10 cents in addition to regular enrollment fees.

It was pointed out at Monday's Executive Council meeting that the new card would not only prevent the free exchange of activity cards, but would also prevent proxy voting which has been possible in the past.
