SEATTLE — (AP) — Lou Soriano, the University of Washington's racehorse basketball guard, is to be put in harness.

Dr. John Geehan, team physician, said Tuesday he had ordered a special belt for the Bremerton ace to wear as protection against a recurring back injury.

Spears Leads Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (AP) — Robert (Bob) Spears, son of Dr. Clarence Spears who formerly coached at the University of Oregon, has been elected captain of Yale's 1951 football team.

Nineteen-year-old Spears plays as a line backer on defense and full-back on offense.

Rasmussen Returns Home After 30,000-Mile Jaunt

A good many Oregon athletes have done right well for themselves since leaving the Eugene campus but few have soared to greater heights than has George Rasmussen. Holder of Pacific Coast Conference and Amateur Athletic Union pole vault titles while under the direction of Bill Hayward and Bill Bowerman, Rasmussen has returned from world travels to resume studies at the University.

The slender athlete from Bend has spent the past four months as a member of an AAU track team performing in South Africa and Portugal. The 30,000-mile jaunt, added to an earlier tour of similar distance in the Scandanavian countries, boosted his mileage on the bar-and-sawdust circuit to approximately 60,000 miles.

To Create Interest

Purpose of the tour, according to Rasmussen, was to create more interest in track and field sports. The AAU squad also taught modern methods of training.

The ten-man squad broke five national marks while competing in 21 meets against teams from South Africa and Portugal. Ras upped the vault record in South Africa from 13 feet 6 inches to 14 feet 1 3/4 inches, and helped pare the 440-yard relay time from 42 seconds to 41.1. Other bettered marks included the low hurdles, shot, and discuss.

Back to Books

"Fats" will return to the classrooms here to complete work during winter term for a degree in physical education. The coming Pan-American games in South America may interfere with later work toward a master's degree.

Steady workouts are planned by Rasmussen, who also hopes to assist Bowerman during the winter and early spring.

Duck Cage Squad Heads East Today

Coach John Warren and a 12-man Webfoot basketball team will leave at noon today for Salt Lake City to open the 1951 season Friday night against Utah. The Ducks will meet State Saturday in the final contest of a two-game stand.

Guard Ray Lung and linebacker-end Dick Daugherty of Oregon's football squad have been named on two college all-opponent teams, Lung on Oregon State College's all-opponent squad, and Daugherty on the University of Idaho's all-star rival team.

Lung was named as guard by the Beavers along with California's publicized Les Richter, a great guard and linebacker. Daugherty, a Webfoot mainstay on defense, who also played offensive end, was given the center position by the Vandals.

Oregon Staters making Idaho's all-opponent crew were tackle Herman Clark, end John Thomas, and sophomore Fullback Sam Baker.

The other players named by the Vandals were End Ray Bauer, Montana; Tackle Marvin Strauch, Wyoming; guards Manuel Muniz, Arizona State, and Lou Salvati, Boston University; and backs Tommy Kingsford, Montana, Wilford "Whizzer" White, Arizona State, who set a new national total offense record for individual players, and Eddie Talboom, Wyoming.

Other players named on OSC's all-opponent squad were ends Bob Carey, Michigan State College, and Bill McColl, Stanford; tackles Leroy Coleman, Michigan State, and Russ Pomeroy, Stanford; center Donn Noomaw, UCLA; and backs Don Heinrich, Washington; Everett "Sonny" Grandelius, Michigan State; Pete Schabarum, California; and Hugh McElhenny, Washington.

Sensational! Super-colossal! Game of the Half-Century! These are but a few of the adjectives that are not being applied to the Finger Bowl, first of the "big college" post-season football games, scheduled to be played here somewhere on Saturday sometime.

The opposing forces will be members of Oregon and Oregon State chapters of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity. Both squads have untied and unscored upon records prior to this, their first game.

Bear Tales Bared

Both sides have dispatched numerous bear stories concerning their own teams. In fact, the Oregon group is hunting for a bear to bring its squad up to the required seven men.

Reports are that the Oregon stalwarts will be cheered onward by a rally squad of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism group, in plaid peddle-pushers.

Among the U of O stalwarts will be such notables as Jarrin' John Barton expert bench jockey, and night included guards Jack Mel Krause, Ken Hunt, Art Herd, and John Neeley; center Loscutoff, Jim Vranizan, and Bonnemann; and forwards Urban, Mel Streeter, Curt Bowerman, and Don Hoy.

The squad will travel on a chartered airliner and will arrive in Eugene for a light workout tonight.

Three seniors and two juniors expected to start against the powerful Redskins in the initial test. Krause, Keller, and Urban begin their final year of competition, while Streeter and Loscutoff are the juniors.

Noe topped the individual performances in the lengthy home drill, although his teammates were for the alumni squad than the varsity.

Pete Cornacchia (reportedly connected with the Emerald sports department), and Gene Rose, a fingered end who would have a sure varsity letter-winner that he couldn't get his hands on.

Aggies Broke

A communique from Cornacchia admitted attempts at out-elying varsity talent, mostly successful—"We got a few of interest by inserting the 'Chicago Bears' in place of 'Delta Chi,' and would have experienced little difficulty in lining whole team. But we couldn't get the down payment."

The release continued, "We little trouble deciding what to do about football to play... one suggestion that we set up one of those 'electric football' gadgets and let the whole thing painlessly.

Ticket-manager Ken Metzger local SDX promised that there would be plenty of 50-yard seats at Hayward field for all interested, but that the game would not be played there.
