

One-time Playboy Opens Noisy Trial

PORTLAND, Jan. 16 — (P) — Amidst considerable clamor, the trial of a one-time playboy opened today in what he called this jerkwater town.

It closed with a shout a few minutes later—a recess closing only—after highly audible discussion of how many witnesses were to be called.

Thomas William Sullivan III, once of Oregon City, more recently of the county jail and sometime of New York, Los Angeles and waypoints, was on trial.

The offense charged is assault with a dangerous weapon—a cane—on Arthur P. Kerron.

Getting away briefly from the number of witnesses, Sullivan asked a question of Circuit Judge Charles W. Redding:

"Will you dismiss the case if I sign a paper saying I will not sue for false arrest?"

The judge said, "No."

Sullivan has been in the news at miscellaneous places over the years. There was a report some years back that he was paying garage rent here on an expensive car while he was making occasional headlines in New York.

Among the reasons he went to jail here last fall, though, was giving a bouncing check to the driver of a hired limousine.

He drew 18 months for that and for conviction of trying to snatch a woman's purse while in a department store.

While in jail he plugged toilets, wrangled with fellow prisoners and blacked a jailer's eye.

Before coming in to court to plead on the current assault charge, psychiatrists examined him. They concluded he was competent to aid in his own defense.

Today Deputy District Attorney Olive Zimmerman said she had a list of witnesses Sullivan wanted. It ran a page and a half long.

"There were nine pages," Sullivan declared.

The judge said he could have five witnesses plus others he could show had information bearing on the case.

Sullivan promised to bring "a lot more prominent people than anybody I know in this jerkwater town."

As the judge recessed the trial, to be resumed Monday, Sullivan bundled up three envelopes of papers and shouted to his attorney:

"Let's get out of here."

A bird in the hand may be had table manners, but it's lots more fun.

Sleepwalking Man Tumbles off Train

FORT LEWIS, Wash. —(P)—

Troops of the Canadian Royal 22nd regiment, arriving here today had an incredible tale to tell of a sleepwalking soldier who stepped off a moving train, then walked two miles clad only in his shorts to a farmhouse—all this in sub-zero weather. He is reported recovering in a Regina, Sask., hospital.

The soldier is 19-year-old Pvt. J. R. Gourd of Montreal, who according to word received here, went on a sleep walking jaunt as the train neared Melford, Sask. Clad only in his underwear, Pvt. Gourd somehow managed to wrest open a vestibule door and tumbled from the train into a snow covered embankment. Awakened by the jar of landing, he stumbled two miles in five below zero temperatures to a house in the vicinity, where emergency first aid was given. He was flown to the Regina hospital, where he is reported suffering from frostbite, cuts abrasions and shock.

Quotations attributed to hospital authorities state that Pvt. Gourd said he had been dreaming of falling from a train when his dream suddenly came true.

Athletic Cards Needed to See Sports Events

Only 1,000 students had picked up their winter term athletic cards by 5 p.m. Tuesday, Ticket Manager Darrell Robinson reported.

"Athletic cards will be necessary for admittance to the Oregon-Idaho basketball games here Friday and Saturday nights," Robinson said.

"We will be able to get cards out to everyone if they do not wait until the last minute Friday or Saturday morning, but we don't have the facilities to handle a last-minute rush," he explained.

Tickets will be handed out from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. through Friday, and from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday at the athletic business office, McArthur Court.

Student body cards (cash register receipts) must be presented before athletic cards will be issued.

Henry Villard, after whom Villard Hall is named, donated almost $70,000 to the University during his lifetime.

COMING BACK MONDAY ?

"So long, Joe—see you Monday." Sure, you take it for granted that you'll be back on the job bright and early Monday morning. Always have been—well, 'most always. There was the time on a picnic when you fell off a rock and sprained your ankle—and oh, yes, the auto accident that put your arm in a sling for a couple of weeks; but nothing really too serious.

Don't count on it! Every year 32,000 workers are killed, over 2,500,000 injured in off-the-job accidents. That's almost double the number of deaths caused by accidents on the job.

It's great to have fun. Relax and enjoy yourself over the week end, holiday or vacation. But remember—somewhere during every two-day holiday, 175 workers will be accidentally killed and 15,000 injured, many maimed for life. One of these could be you. A large part of these casualties will be caused by traffic accidents, but drownings, falls, firearms, poisons, burns and other accidents will help to swell the total.

Coming back Monday? The chances are all in your favor—if you just use plain common sense in what you do and how you do it over the week end.

Think safely on-the-job, off-the-job, always!
