

Red China's Peace Plan Gets Boost

Compiled by Al Karr
From the Wires of the Associated Press

Communist China's revised peace formula for Korea appeared Tuesday to have given added impetus to the Asian-Arab move to continue United Nations efforts toward a cease-fire.

Most delegates still were awaiting instructions from their governments, but there was a strong private sentiment in favor of exhausting all possible avenues before adopting the United States proposal to brand the Peiping regime as an aggressor.

Although the U. S. claims a substantial majority in favor of its proposal, there has been an obvious tendency among some delegations to avoid tagging Peiping as an aggressor except as the last resort. Peiping's "clarification" message may, therefore, cause them to back a new peace move.

Resolutions Declaring That The U. N. Should . . .

. . . (1) brand Communist China an aggressor in China, and (2) deny Red China membership in the United Nations were adopted Tuesday by the Senate.

Both resolutions were adopted unanimously. The House similarly approved a resolution last week declaring that the U. N. should brand the Chinese Communists as aggressors in Korea.

Prime Minister Attlee Admonished . . .

. . . the United Nations Tuesday not to make new and important decisions on Korea "at this stage," and Britain's House of Commons cheered.

A moment later Conservative leader Winston Churchill warned the nation not to fall into "any serious division in the U. N. brought about by maneuvers which are obviously to the interest of Soviet Russia."

Attlee's advice against a new U. N. decision now, obviously referred to American demands that the world organization brand the Chinese Communist government as an aggressor.

Chinese Communists Are Sending . . .

. . . greater number of planes into the air over Korea because they "have been hurt on the ground", the air force speculated Tuesday.

That was an air force spokesman's explanation for the big turnout of 18 to 28 Russian-built jet planes which clashed with American fighters in the biggest jet battle of the Korean war.

Briefing officers said that the Red air force has had planes across the border in Manchuria for a long time, but even when the United Nations forces were retreating southward and convoys were moving "bumper to bumper," the Reds made no serious effort to attack from the air.

The Administration Won A Round . . .

. . . Tuesday when the Senate agreed to send the troops-to-Europe issue to its Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees.

The action came on a move by Senator Connally (Dem.-Tex.) putting off a vote on a resolution by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader. The resolution would record the Senate as opposed to President Truman making any commitments of ground forces to the Atlantic Pact defense setup until Congress passes on the issue.

Weekend Explosions in New Guinea's . . .

. . . "extent" Mt. Lamington Volcano probably killed more than 3,000 native New Guineans, reports reaching Australian government officials Tuesday night said.

The External Territories Department in Canberra held no hope for the survival of 35 missing Europeans in the area visited by the century's worst disaster in that section of the globe.

Routing Communists . . .

. . . will be the "first order of business in the labor's defense program," CIO Vice-President Allan S. Haywood said.

"We'll give them a fair trial," he told the 15th biennial convention of the CIO Shipbuilding workers Monday, "but damn their souls if we find them guilty."

"We'll keep banishing the termites until we are 1,000 per cent successful," he said.

Haywood, who doubles as the CIO's national organizing director, also told the convention that "the United States should build fast ships," adding that "her potential enemy is building fast submarines and speedy planes."

New Rifles, Tanks, Bazookas . . .

. . . rockets, guided missiles, and other weapons are coming for the U. S. soldier, Brigadier General Leslie E. Simon said Tuesday.

General Simon, chief of the army ordnance research and development division, declared that the American fighting man already is "by all odds the best armed and best equipped soldier the world has ever seen."

U. S. Troops Under General MacArthur . . .

. . . need 15,000 replacements a month and it will be April before his divisions are built up to "normal strength", Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall said Tuesday.

Marshall testified at hearings by the House Armed Service Committee on the defense department's request for universal military service and training for 18 year olds.

The department also asks that the length of service by drafted men be extended from 21 months to 27.

It was Marshall's second trip to the capitol to urge universal military training and service. He already has urged it to the Senate preparedness subcommittee.

Canada Is Shipping Aluminum . . .

. . . now in short supply, "almost continuously to Russian satellite countries," an American manufacturer told a Congressional investigating committee Tuesday.

Richard Reynolds, Jr., president of the Reynolds Metals Co., made the assertion before the House Monopoly Committee. The committee is holding hearings on defense plans to expand aluminum production to meet U. S. military and civilian needs.

William W. Remington Said . . .

. . . on the witness stand Tuesday that he "must have" received mail in 1937 at a Knoxville, Tenn., postoffice box which the government contends was used by Communist party members only.

A defense witness has testified, however, that the box was used by a "workers education committee."

Miss Kuckenberg said the petitions are due at Delta Gamma by 5 p.m. Friday.

Orr Calls for Revival Of Christian Students

By Larry Hobart

Revival of Christian students at the University of Oregon was called for Monday by J. Edwin Orr, evangelist and world traveler, who spoke before a small group of interested listeners in room 334 of the SU.

Tiny, tweedy Dr. Orr expressed the opinion that a renewal of active faith among students on the Oregon campus is possible and cited examples of many universities and colleges where such mass conversions have taken place.

"Students are a race apart," Orr said. "Sometimes they do not take themselves seriously; other times they take themselves too seriously." Orr presented John Wesley and Martin Luther, outstanding religious leaders who entered the field of theology as young students, as examples which contemporary university men and women might attempt to follow.

Calls for Spiritual Awakening

In a voice slightly tinged with an accent which disclosed his Irish ancestry, Orr stated that we are now witnessing the rise of a new evangelical period. He called upon his listeners for a "spiritual awakening."

During his address Orr likened the struggle between historic Christianity and humanism in the minds of many modern philosophers as similar to a man standing with his feet planted on the back of two wild horses. Orr brought this illustration forcibly home to his audience by mounting two chairs and demonstrating his metaphor in pantomime.

Serves As Hollywood Chaplain

Orr, who serves as chaplain for a group of religion-interested

Hollywood stars including Colleen Townsend and Jane Russell, Tuesday spoke on the subject, "How God Forgives the Sins of Christians," at 4 p.m. in 334 SU. Orr will speak to Christian students during the remainder of this week under the sponsorship of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Beginning Jan. 29 non-Christians are invited to attend his open discussion-type lectures.

Short Film Series To Show Sports

A series of short films on various sports will be shown at 7:30 p.m. today in 207 Chapman. The series will include movies on skiing, wrestling, and basketball.

These films will be presented as part of the program of educational movies sponsored weekly by the audio-visual department of the library. No admission will be charged.

Infirmiry Boasts Total of Fourteen
