

Pi Phi, Kappa, Chi Omega Victims of Burglaries

Three sorority houses were victims of burglars early Friday morning, according to reports received by Eugene police Friday afternoon. Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi reported loss of foodstuffs while Chi Omega was also missing an inexpensive electric toaster. The houses were entered through unlocked porch doors.

Police officers investigating the theft found that approximately $2 worth of potatoes were removed from Kappa Kappa Gamma storage space and between $30 to $45 worth of canned goods from the Pi Beta Phi food supply.

Burglars completely rifled the Chi Omega kitchen after gaining admittance by forcing open a window.

Ray Hawk, director of men's affairs, said Sunday that the burglaries did not appear to be along the normal line of student pranks. "A sack of potatoes is hardly the thing which a student engaged in a prank would take," Hawk said, "unless he were desperately hungry."

Hawk indicated, however, that it was anyone's guess as to who had committed the crime. Eugene police are working on the cases, he reported.

The Eugene Police Department said investigation was proceeding, but had no further reports on the thefts.

There is an old story about an ass being disguised in a lion's skin. Every now and then some college does it with a sheepskin.

Baltimore Men Work Too Fast

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 — (AP)— "You guys work too fast for me," a Baltimore man told police who are holding him for passing worthless checks.

Lawrence F. Arnold, 35, released eight days ago from Maryland State Prison after serving two years for forgery, was held in $5,000 bail for the grand jury.

Arnold, by his own testimony, worked pretty fast, too. He told police yesterday he arrived Monday, registered at a hotel and immediately tried to cash a $5,000 check drawn on a Baltimore bank under a false name.

After the hotel refused him he presented the check at three banks. Two turned him down. The third called the police.

Arnold told police he was measured for three suits, and ordered two automobiles, leaving bogus checks as advance payments for all.

Then he lowered his sights and tried to cash a $25 check, with no luck.

Police found him at an automobile agency—offering a clerk a check for $100.

Exhibit to Honor French Author

"Balzac and His Times" is the theme of an exhibit beginning today in the Browsing Room in the Student Union.

The exhibit, a centennial tribute to Honore de Balzac, nineteenth century French author, was arranged by the French Government with display direction by Jean de LaGarde, French Consul-General in San Francisco.

Fifteen panels and 19 photographic reproductions have been assembled to depict a comprehensive picture of Balzac's life, his way of writing, his friends, his works, and the place where he lived. Currently appearing with the exhibit will be a display of a selected number of books from the University library's Balzac collection.

A talk on Balzac by LaGarde will officially close the exhibit at 4:15 p.m. next Monday in the Browsing Room.

The exhibit was made possible by the library in cooperation with the foreign language department.

Opinions Split On Pre-Dance Dinners in SU

By Helen Jackson

It was just about a divided answer today. Some approved, some didn't. But anyway the SU, in order to allow students to reap the most benefits from the building is thinking of providing dinner reservation service before campus dances.

The service would be in the banquet rooms, but on with the question: "Would you approve of dinner reservation service at the SU before campus dances?"

Janet Corbit—freshman in liberal arts—"Yes, I do. The SU was made for our convenience so why not?"

Don Hagedorn—senior in business—"If they had a place for individual tables but not banquet rooms. There wouldn't be enough kids who would want to sit around a banquet table. If you take out a date you want something a little cozier."

Bob Altman—freshman in business—"Why not? If such arrangements were left to the individual to decide upon then I can see no harm in such a sanction."

Byron Tarr—freshman in business—"I don't think the kids would like it. They would rather go off campus."

Bill Lees—junior in pre-law—"Definitely! I think it would be a wonderful idea."

Jean Henderson—freshman in liberal arts—"It's too much like school at the SU. I think it would be more informal down town than at the SU."

Jackie Pritzen—junior in English—"I guess it's all right if the students want it."

Sunny Allen—freshman in liberal arts—"All students wouldn't be able to participate and I feel it would put too much emphasis on before-dance activities."

Legislature Trip Set for Feb. 22

Feb. 22 will be the date for the all-campus trip to the State Legislature in Salem, Young Republicans decided at their meeting Thursday night.

On the day's program will be the morning session of the Legislature, lunch in the Capitol building with legislators and state officials, a tour of executive offices and meeting Gov. Douglas McKay, and afternoon committee hearings.

Special buses will be chartered for the trip.

Final plans will be made Sunday when officers of the Young Republican Club will attend the executive board meeting of the State Federation, President Don Collin, said Thursday.

Registration for the trip will begin Tuesday in the Student Union and Co-op, Collin stated. Excuses from classes for the Thursday tour will be granted at the discretion of the professor, according to Donald M. DuShane, director of student's affairs.

Business Firms Set Interview

Two representatives of firms will be on the campus in the near future to interview students interested in the fields they represent, the graduate placement office said Thursday.

K. A. Brooks, district manager of Montgomery Ward, will be here Thursday, and Glenn L. Allen Jr. will be on campus March 1 to interview students for the Dow Chemical Co.

Later on in the year a representative of the National Bank will also be here.

Appointments for these interviews may be made at the graduate placement office at Emerald Hall.

Citrus Junior College is in Azusa, California.
