Snow Queen, Ski Team Vie for Carnival Titles

Nancy Miller, University Snow Queen, will leave Wednesday from Portland, by United Airlines, to compete with nine other college representatives at Reno for the crown of Snow Carnival Queen of the University of Nevada.

The University ski team, coached by Leo Harris, director of athletics, left Thursday for Reno, where it will participate in the ski competition.

Miss Miller, who was named Snow Queen last week, will be accompanied by her parents and younger brother on the trip.

The invitational Snow Carnival will be highlighted by the queen's coronation, a parade consisting of floats from the living organizations of the University of Nevada, and the competitive ski events, including cross-country, jumping, and slalom contests.

Miss Miller's expenses on the trip are being handled by Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary, and Druids, junior men's honorary.

Open Letter Presents AWS Point System To Women Students

Editor's Note: The following letter directed at women students is a presentation of the case for the Associated Women Students point system prepared by the AWS cabinet.

The plan is based on a sliding point scale which assigns a specific number of points to each campus job. Under the plan as originally presented, a maximum of 25 points would be allowed any one individual. Points would accumulate over one term only.

Any person desiring to participate in activities in excess of the stated quota would be permitted to petition the AWS council for an extension of activities. An Open Letter to all Women Students:

Within the next few weeks speakers will be sent to all women's living organizations to explain and answer questions on the proposed point system which is aimed at raising the quality of activities in general through placing an upper limit on activities which a woman student may engage in during a particular term.

Following discussion, these speakers will take an informal vote at each organization concerning only the principle involved, which will be used in guiding further decisions by the Associated Women Students' activities board. Thus all women are to be given a chance to express their feelings.

The principle as we see it is this:

There would be no limitation on how hard a woman student might work on the allowable number of activities, merely a maximum number of activities set which would not ordinarily be exceeded. (But machinery for appeals from the limit would be set up.) Thus, we believe, the general quality of activities at Oregon would be improved. There would be further advantage of spreading activities out somewhat.

Vote on Principle

A definitely favorable vote on the principle will be the basis for further investigation into setting up a working plan; the presently proposed system of specific points for specific activities may or may not be the final plan. The newly-elected AWS president will discuss the matter with representatives to the national convention

Hostess Photos Get Last Call; Rules Listed

Only two days are left to turn in pictures of Dads' Day Hostess candidates!

Paul Lasker, special events chairman, urges all eligible women and their friends to mail or personally deliver photographs to the ASUO office in the Student Union or to him at Alpha Tau Omega.

The rules are as follows:

1. Photographs must be in black and white, picturing only the individual competing.
2. A return address must be written on the back of each entry.
3. Contestants must be married women, either University students themselves or wives of students.

House Heads Slate Dinner

Plans for a Hazel Schwering exchange dinner and appointment of a committee to study problem of a committee to study problems of social events in women's living organizations were the main business at Heads of Houses meeting Monday.

The exchange dinner, which is held once a term in honor of the former dean of women, has been scheduled for Thursday. Pairings of women's houses will be listed in Wednesday's Emerald.

Recommendations on problems arising from social events will be drawn up by the committee headed by Kathy Littlefield. Assisting her will be Betty Bagley, Helen Koopman, and Dorothy Christianson.

Coming under their study will be desserts, exchange dinners, house dances, and firesides, as well as all-campus events, President Jackie Pritzen said. A report will be presented at the next meeting, Feb. 26.

Students Slate Play Excerpts

A student theater production featuring scenes from modern and classic dramas will be presented at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. today in the laboratory theater, 102 Villard.

A scene from Tennessee Williams' "You Touched Me" will be one of the excerpts presented. Horace W. Robinson, associate professor of speech, will direct the performers.

The presentations are open to the public.

Petition Call Issued For Junior Weekend

Junior Class President Merv Hampton issued first call Monday for Junior Weekend committee petitions. May 11-13 is the time set for the spring term affair.

Committee chairmanships available are All-campus Sing, luncheon, float parade, traditions, Junior Prom, promotion, publicity, Sunlight Serenade, Queen's contest and coronation, cleanup, and terrace dance.

Petitions, which can be obtained in the Student Union Program director's office, are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 21. They may be left in the

WSSF, Vodvil Show Chairman Conflicts Baffle Exec Council

Which group—the University Religious Council or the ASUO Executive Council—is empowered to appoint the World Students' Service Fund drive and All-Campus Vodvil chairmen was discussed at length during Monday night's meeting of the executive council.

Herb Nill, first vice-president, presided at the meeting in the absence of President Barry Mountain, who was in Salem.

Theater Seeks Stage Players

Participants for the University Theater's "Experimental Theater Night" Mar. 6 and 7 are now needed, according to Gordon Erickson, graduate assistant in speech.

Interested persons may contact Erickson from noon to 2 p.m. today and from noon to 4 p.m. Wednesday on the main stage of the theater.

Erickson encourages persons who haven't done anything in the theater but would like to to contact him for parts in the production.

"We're interested more in vitality and creative ability than in acting technique," Erickson explained. "Participants will have an opportunity to put their own ideas into practice."

Contest Winner Told Tomorrow

Official results of the Dads' Day letter contest will not be revealed until Wednesday, pending checking of lists of students in living organizations, according to Kay Kuckenberg, promotion chairman.

Each living organization sending the largest percentage of letters that were printed in Monday's Emerald to fathers will receive a record album from the University Radio Laboratory.

Ann Darby, hospitality chairman, urges students to contact her about reservations for the weekend of Feb. 23 to 25. There are a few accommodations left, she said.

Luncheon tickets may be bought immediately from Mrs. Tica Lowe, student affairs secretary, 216 Emerald Hall. The price is $1.25 per ticket.

Tickets for the Oregon-Washington game Feb. 25 in the reserved section are still available for $1.80; however, general admission tickets can be purchased as late as game time for $1.20.

Mountain announced last week that petitions for both positions should be submitted to the Executive Council. However, the University Religious Council had previously chosen both chairmen; Jackie Wilkes was named WSSF chairman and Bobbie Howard was chosen assistant chairman in charge of All-Campus Vodvil.

The Religious Council, as it did last year, submitted these two names to the Executive Council for approval.

The council finally decided to withhold approval of chairmen for the positions, and to consider the matter at a special meeting sometime this week.

Jane Simpson, member of the religious council, appeared at the meeting and informed the Executive Council of the Religious Council's action. She also said that all funds collected in the drive would go to students in foreign countries; no money can be left here for use by foreign students on the campus.

The council also gave official approval to the Red Cross fund drive, now being conducted on the campus.

Student Court Set 7 p.m. Wednesday

The Student Court will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in 315 SU. The court is meeting earlier than usual so that students who must appear there will be able to attend the UO-WSC basketball game.

Mike Adams, chairman of the court, stated that students unable to appear at the Wednesday meeting may pay their fines in the Office of Student Affairs before Wednesday.

He also said that students are warned to have their cars registered at the student affairs office if they have not already done so. Any student car parked on a campus lot must have a student parking sticker.

Beaux Arts Ball Scheduled Mar. 10

The Beaux Arts Ball, originally scheduled for Feb. 24, has been rescheduled for Mar. 10 because of a conflict with Dads' Day Weekend. The ball is an annual affair, sponsored by the Associated Students of Architecture and Allied Arts and open only to students and faculty of the art and architecture school.

WAA Asks Booth Fees

A two-dollar charge for each living organization participating in WAA carnival Feb. 23 is due by Wednesday noon.

Money may be turned in to Lillian Schott at the Sigma Kappa house or Breda Lynch at Pi Beta Phi.

The fee was formerly publicized as one dollar per organization, due to an error, but, as in previous years, the charge of two dollars will hold.
