

World Federation Topic of Speech

Samuel R. Levering, a member of the executive council of the United World Federalists, will speak on world government, at 4 p.m., today in the Student Union Ballroom.

This talk and a second one on "World Government, A Prelude to Peace" at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, 13th and Ferry, are open to the public.

Today's talks are being held in conjunction with a movement to reactivate the campus chapter of the United World Federalists.

Promoting the campus group is Harold Keeney, senior in architecture, who is a member of the Eugene UWF. Students interested in forming a campus branch may contact Keeney at 4-1269 after 5 p.m. E. S. Wengert, head of the political science department, is adviser to the group.

A dinner in honor of Levering will be held at 6:30 p.m. today at the Del Rey Cafe. Reservations for

University Singers Present Program Of 'Brotherhood'

Tonight the voices of 41 University Singers will depict the meaning of "Brotherhood Week" in an all-religion program over the national network of the Liberty Broadcasting System through KERG at 8:15 p.m. in Eugene.

R. L. Montgomery, instructor in speech who directed the 30-minute transcription, will begin with a narration. "Son," he will say, "I am going away now, but listen to the music. All of America is a religion in itself, a religion of brotherhood. Listen to the music so that you will understand these religions."

Under the direction of Donald Alton, professor of music, the chorus will sing music of the various faiths, including the Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Negro and white spiritual. The musical selections are "Jesus Walked That Lonesome Valley," "Keep Your Lamps Trimmed," "Open Our Eyes," "O Bone Jesu," and a special arrangement of "Kol Nidrei" by Alton. Soloists will be Phillip Green of Portland, and Walter C. Martin, of Cottage Grove, with Zonda Montgomery, post graduate in music, at the organ.

Again the narrator will speak. "It is essential for each person to ask himself, 'What does America mean to me?' The answer should be brotherhood. America is 'The House I Live In' and its meaning is in the people."

Then the University Singers will conclude the program with a special arrangement of "The House I Live In."

"Dedication to Brotherhood," the name of the broadcast, represents the theme of Brotherhood Week, sponsored by the National Congress of Christians and Jews.

Opening for Singers

Additional chorus tryouts for "Finian's Rainbow" will be held at rehearsal at 4 p.m. today in 104 Music, William J. O'Leary, graduate assistant in music and chorus director, announced Wednesday.

More chorus members, especially men, are needed, O'Leary stated.

Solo spots will be selected, and those already cast in the production may attend the tryouts to become acquainted with the music.

The chorus will practice as a group at 4 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday until the end of the term, when eliminations will be held.

AGS Won't Meet

A meeting of the Associated Greek Students, scheduled for today at Delta Gamma, has been postponed until Mar. 8, according to President Bill Carey.

Many Positions Being Offered

The graduate placement office has received information on employment opportunities from a number of sources. Students interested in the various jobs offered can obtain more information from the placement office.

Civilians are being offered jobs with the Department of the Army by the Army Attaché System for a career in the foreign service. A stenographic background is needed for this work in offices located throughout the world.

The American Red Cross Armed Forces Veterans program is expanding rapidly. Veterans 27 to 45 years of age, preferably health and physical education majors, are needed to assist in organizing first aid and water safety programs. The positions require considerable world travel.

Instructors are needed for the United States Air Force to teach in various fields. GS-5 and GS-7 grade positions are open.

A major national meat packing concern and a national tire and rubber company are offering job-training programs.

In addition, representatives from various firms will be on campus during the next two weeks to interview students. Frank Beach of the United States National Bank will hold interviews Mar. 1. A representative of the Dow Chemical Company will also be on hand that day. General Electric will have someone interviewing chemists, physicists, and BA majors in general business, particularly accounting, on Mar. 5.

Further information and interview appointments may be secured at the graduate placement office in Emerald Hall.

Minnesotan Visitor

Russell M. Cooper, assistant dean of the College of Science, Literature, and Arts at the University of Minnesota, was a visitor on the campus Monday and Tuesday.

Cooper was here for a conference with faculty members and committees, and to attend graduate student seminars.

The U of M representative met with an education seminar and with a seminar of Carnegie fellows under a program for the preparation of college teachers in the social sciences.

Forestry Accredited

CORVALIS — (P) — The School of Forestry at Oregon State College has been accredited by the Society of the American Foresters for professional forestry instruction, President A. L. Strand said Wednesday.

Since it was established in 1906, the school has graduated 1,103 foresters, 72 percent of whom are still in the profession, according to Paul M. Dunn, forestry school dean.

New Journalism Courses Offered Dean Announces

Journalism students at the University of Oregon will be able to specialize in two new fields—community newspaper and advertising—according to plans announced by Gordon A. Sabine, dean of the School of Journalism.

The community newspaper sequence is designed to train young men and women who intend to participate actively in the operation and management of the weekly and small daily press. Foundation of this special field will be a new course, Community Newspaper, which includes study of editorial, business, and shop problems which meet the publisher every day. Students will also take Graphic Journalism, a course which will present the fundamentals of photography, picture use, processing, and display.

"We feel that the new sequence will be particularly suited to the Oregon press," Sabine explained. "There is a big opportunity for the man who enters this field—an opportunity which may lead to operating and owning his own enterprise."

Included in the new advertising sequence will be courses in advertising production, newspaper advertising, retail advertising, copywriting, and advanced typography.

Both sequences will be taken by seniors who have completed basic studies in reporting, advertising, mechanics of publishing, and other background courses.

The school will continue to offer specialized training in news-editorial and radio journalism sequences as in the past.
