

A Typical Dad

IT'S TOO BAD, DAD....

You know, Dad, I've been thinking. Remember how you explained taxes to me . . . and the debt the country owes . . . and the money the government spends? Why, Dad, you didn't have the right information at all. I'll bet you've never heard of the Keynesian theory or some of the basic principles underlying economic systems of today.

But, I understand, Dad . . . though there are a couple more things I've been thinking about.

Remember how you used to tell me something was wrong. I shouldn't do it because it just wasn't right. Well, you never told me why it was right or wrong.

Wrong because it disagreed with the will of God? Wrong because it was not for the greatest good of the greatest number? Wrong because it conflicted with the rules of nature?

Maybe you just didn't know why, Dad. It's a shame you never read any philosophy. Kant, Mill, Paley, Dewey, any of them. It would have helped you a lot if you had understood them.

And you and Mom, Dad. Why, I remember when you used to have arguments, and now that I'm older, I realize that you never did get them settled correctly. You both should have studied some family relations, and listened to some of the lectures we've been having on marriage.

Just one more point. You must not have understood or you never would have told me . . .

You're smiling, Dad. Why?

'Social Pro For Phi Psi,' Says Hawk

Phi Kappa Psi fraternity was placed on "indefinite social probation" by Director of Men's Affairs Ray Hawk as a result of an incident with the Eugene police department Thursday.

The Thursday incident and a previous police encounter by three members after a prank at the Delta Gamma sorority house 10 days ago were given as the reasons for Hawk's action.

Thursday's incident involved the taking of a desk sign from the police department, according to Police Chief Ted Brown. The sign stated "Ring Bell for Service." One of the men involved will be charged with disorderly conduct, Brown explained.

Phi Kappa Psi is the second men's living organization to receive the restriction this year. Alpha Tau Omega was put on social pro earlier this term because of practices used in senior rides.

'51 Carnival Booth Rules Announced

"Alley of Oopdee-Do," theme of tonight's WAA Fun House, will play a prominent part in the scene of the carnival, which will begin immediately after the basketball game in the unfinished section of the men's PE building.

Entrance tickets, at 20 cents, are now on sale in the Co-op and Student Union.

Booth building will start at noon today, to be completed by 8 p.m. Two persons per booth will be allowed to stay from 8 p.m. until the opening of the Fun House.

Paper decorations must be fireproofed or the booth will be disqualified. If booths are not removed by 1 a.m., 50 per cent of its profit will be charged as a penalty.

Prizes will be awarded to the best all-around and highest money-making booths.

Food and participation at booths must be obtained through scrip purchased at the Fun House, chairman stated.

Politicians Present For Fiery Fracas

Approximately 180 Oregon legislators and wives, will be present for the Oregon-Washington basketball game today, according to Lester E. Anderson, alumni director.

The guests will have seats in the women's rooting section, while women will have a like number on the south end downstairs, to permit the legislators and their wives to sit in a student section.

The 24th annual Dads' Day weekend begins at 8 p.m. today with the Oregon-Washington basketball game in McArthur Court.

Thus far the only indication of how many dads are planning to attend the weekend is the sale of luncheon tickets. Seven hundred, the capacity, have been purchased by students and fathers, according to K. W. Onthank, executive secretary of Oregon Dads.

Although seats in the reserved section for Friday's and Saturday's games are sold out, those in the general admission sections will be available to fathers at registration booths, in the Osburn and Eugene Hotels and the Student Union.

The luncheon will be held at noon Saturday in the ballroom of the Student Union, with speeches by University President H. K. Newburn, who will discuss "The Effects of Mobilization," and Chancellor C. D. Byrne of the State System of Higher Education, who will explain the legislative system and budget of the University.

Judging of Dads' Day "Welcome" signs at the living organizations will take place at 4:45 p.m. today.

Mrs. Berniel Tiland, Mrs. Richard Smart, and Mrs. Gene Rose, Dads' Day Hostess finalists, will be presented at the luncheon. The winner will be announced at half time of the Saturday game. Ballots taken at registration booths will be tallied at closing time, 5 p.m. Saturday.

Awards will be made to the first and second living organizations with the largest percentage of dads registered, and to the dormitory or cooperative with the largest percentage of freshmen's dads here.

Rules for the registration contest are again listed:

1. Dads must be registered by 5 p.m. Saturday.
2. Awards will be determined by percentages of dads registered. The Office of Student Affairs' list of students residing in each living organization will be the one used in the computation of the percentages.
3. Only dormitories and cooperative groups will compete for the freshman cup.
4. Only dads of living organizations' members will be counted. Fathers of fraternity men and sorority women living in halls of residence will be credited to the halls.
5. Carson Hall will be considered as a whole, rather than by floors.
6. Fathers of fraternity men and sorority women living at home will not be counted.
7. Legal guardians will be considered "dads" for this contest.
8. Prizes are awarded annually. If a group wins a trophy three times in succession, they may keep the cup. In case of a tie, both are considered winners. They will share the award, each keeping it for one half of the school year.
9. Winners pay for engraving of their names on the cups.

Last Chance Today For Pre-Registration

Today is the last day to register with department clerks in advance registration for spring term.

The final checking with student affairs office and filing of cards with the registrar's office may be done until noon next Saturday. Fees may also be paid at this time, if a student desires. Otherwise the cards are left with the office, picked up at the beginning of next term, and payment is made then.

Post-Game Mixer On Tap Saturday

"Dad—Our King for a Day" will be the theme of a no-date mixer to be held following the Oregon-Washington basketball game Saturday in the Student Union ballroom. The mixer will feature Curt Finch and his quintet.

Admission will be twenty cents, and all dads with Dads' buttons will be admitted free.

Decorations will follow the theme, with a special entrance for the dads.

Entertainment will be provided by Harry Donkers and Fred Mueller.
