Pacific Singers Perform Tonight

The College of the Pacific a cappella choir from Stockton, California, will be heard at 8 p.m. Friday at the First Methodist Church. The forty student singers will be directed by J. Russell Bodley, who also adapts works for the choir.

No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be taken to help defray expenses.

The choir is generally credited with having revived a cappella singing in western America, having taken it up 35 years ago when it was considered virtually a "lost art."

Featured in the choir is June Hook, soprano from Cheyenne, Wyoming, who has sung several top roles in operas at College of the Pacific.

The program includes Bach's "Sing Ye the Lord;" Malotte's arrangement of the "Lord's Prayer," adapted for the choir by their director; "The Luckless Fisherman;" Leighton Edelman's music for verses by Edgar Guest; and J. Russell Bodley's "Glory Road," a Negro spiritual.

O'Casey Plays Topic Of SU Coffee Hour

W. J. Feeny, instructor in English, and F. J. Hunter, instructor in speech, will discuss "The Plays of Sean O'Casey" at 7:30 tonight in the Library Browsing Room of the Student Union. This is the third in the series of Friday night coffee hours and is open to faculty members and students.

Senior Class Orators Vie Next June 8

The Failing-Beekman Senior Oratorical Contest, an annual affair on the University campus, will be held June 8 in the School of Music auditorium.

The speech contest is a traditional part of graduation ceremonies, and all seniors are eligible to participate, according to W. A. Dahlberg, associate professor of speech.

Awards for winning speeches are $150, first prize; $100, second prize; and $50, third prize.

Rules for the contests are as follows:

1. All seniors who contemplate graduating in June are eligible, regardless of the school in which they are enrolled.

2. All entrants are free to choose their own subject. These are usually as varied as are the interests of those who enter the contests.

3. The speeches must be from twelve to fifteen minutes in length and committed to memory.

4. The deadline for the first speech drafts is May 15.

Six finalists will be chosen for the final contest, to be selected by three faculty judges chosen from the speech staff.

Copies of former winning speeches may be obtained from Dahlberg.

Episcopal Choir To Sing Requiem

St. Mary's Episcopal Church Choir will present the Brahms "Requiem" at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Eugene Episcopal Church. The "Requiem" will also be sung Mar. 11.

Featured soloists are Phil Green, graduate student in music, baritone; Earl Anderson, former University music graduate, baritone; and Mrs. Earl Anderson, who also studied music at Oregon, soprano. Guest organist will be Faye Schick Smith of Portland. Milton Dietrich, assistant professor of music, will direct.

The program is open to the public.

The Student Publications Board will meet at 4 p.m. Thursday to select the business manager, disclosed Williams, who is secretary of the board.

Martel Scroggin, temporary business manager, was selected to serve in the capacity of business manager from Feb. 6 to the end of winter term.

UO Men Aid SOCE Group's Installation

Four University faculty members will take part in ceremonies installing a chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national professional education fraternity, at Southern Oregon College in Ashland Saturday. The delegation will consist of Dr. P. E. Kambly, professor of education and advisor of the university chapter of Phi Delta Kappa; J. F. Rummel, professor of education; and Robert Weigman and E. W. Bowman, graduate assistants in education.

When American hoboes meet in convention, the railroads have heavy traffic but little business.

Common sense is fine, but maybe the world could use some of the uncommon variety.

Large Crowd Drawn to Rally

A large crowd of enthusiastic rooters turned out for Thursday night's snowball rally outside the Student Union.

Art Larson, Eugene Duck Club president, gave a short talk.

"We might be beat—it's possible," he said, "but we won't be outfought."

Jim Loscutoff gave a top-notch yo-yo exhibition—after a little coaxing from the crowd.

Other basketball team members—Loscutoff, Curt Barclay, Jack Keller, Bob Peterson, Captain Will Urban, and Mel Krause—were introduced by master of ceremonies Ron Symons.

Barclay summed up the team's feeling when he said:

"We're very grateful for your support; it really does help."

"We'll make it hard for OSC," said Coach John Warren, "and we hope to come out on top."

The rally squad led a new yell to be used at the Oregon-OSC games.

Oh, Happy Day! SU Flagpole Up

The new Student Union flagpole was erected Thursday, but final work on the pole will not be completed until the end of next week, according to H. D. Jacoby, assistant superintendent of the University physical plant.

Jacoby said that workmen will have to install a cap at the base of the pole, cleat boxes and cleats, lightning connections, and the rope. They also must paint the cap and the pole. The flag pole is 60 feet tall.

Workshop Drama Tryouts at 3 Today

Tryouts for a Radio Workshop drama scheduled to be broadcast Thursday will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today in Studio A, third floor Villard.

Dick Hardie is director of the production. Excellent opportunities are available for numerous female roles, although there are five parts for men, Hardie said.

The drama centers around a wife's struggle to locate the persons able to prove the innocence of her husband, who is sentenced to execution for murder. The action moves swiftly and adds to the suspense of the plot, commented Hardie.

Some judges' words carry conviction even though they may not know what they're talking about.

For the want of a want-ad, many sellers and buyers never meet.
