Principle, Not Personal Gain

no high-sounding reasons. Tell us honestly that the Phi Mu fraternity bolted the Greek bloc Sunday night has a man for the student body presidency of 1951-52. The ebfoot who has even dragged his feet through campus knows that's the genuine reason for the Sammie saying the bloc goodbye. One or two other reasons have been considered, but this one dwarfs all others.

Interesting note: at the AGS (Associated Greek Students) last week, this presidential potential from Sigma Alpha Epsilon was solely for "political expediency." He was a member of the AGS policy committee, and now his house is being bought by the USA (United Students Association) to look greener.

Why do they? USA leaders have been at a loss for a presidential nominee. AGS has three or four whole-juniors and half-seniors vying for the presidency. Winning this nomination will not guarantee the big nomination is won, which party has the chance of winning? The coalition has won for the past two years, although last spring's victory hurt a few printers.

Remember, the Sammies are gambling. Their man may not win the nomination. They knew that, but chose to take the chance. We've got some gamblers — both Greeks and Independents — who are willing to shake the dice for something other than personal gain.

Some gamblers who'll take a stake in two coalition parties at our University of Oregon. The dice are loaded, but the odds are worth risking, and this time, politics with a principle should be the take.

Go Out After Them...

April 13, 14, 15 and the Oregon campus will be taken over by high school seniors. We should be. But we students must do ourselves and the campus honor during spring vacation to make it so. Our job is, namely, to serve as ambassadors of good will. It's our job to get 'em down here and show off our campus. More schools will have some competition.

We should be during the same weekend schools throughout the state. We should be holding what we call "Duck Preview." There's no quota — so we may sell our school to as many people as possible. There's a nominal fee for the visitors to pay, but it's well worth it all over the state.

We should be going to offer them something too. Things like the school's vodvil, dance, luncheon, spring football practice, a program demonstrating the educational advantages to come here and an insight as to what our schools and departments have to offer.

It's up to us — come spring vacation, let's direct our efforts so that during "Duck Preview" there will be a healthy number of high school seniors on hand, ready to become the future of our University of the future. — T. K.

Time for Strategy

The ROTC department might take note of some of the tactics employed in the recent snowball skirmishes if it is looking for officer material.

As we know there have been no serious casualties, no indication of good tactics, except for a patrol of Johnnies who were ambushed in the vicinity of Hendricks Hall at noon and have not been heard from since. However, they are expected to show up by dinner time tonight.

There are indeed dangerous times on the campus and anyone who hasn't yet been well plastered by snow may consider himself lucky, or a good dodger. Either that or he walks softly and carries a big snowball. — K. M.

WILLY 'E'...

As to the three women students elected as presidents today, Nancy Allison of AWS, Joan Skordahl of the men's Recreation Association (formerly WAA), and Darby of the YWCA.

It Could Be Oregon
