KWAX Takes To Airwaves Wednesday

When KWAX, the University's new FM station, starts broadcasting Wednesday, it will be the climax of the 28-year-old history of Oregon radio.

University students up to now have had to depend upon commercial station or state-owned KOAC in Corvallis as an outlet for their programs. With KWAX the students have their own radio voice, as Station Manager Jack Vaughn points out.

The introductory broadcast will be held from 7:30-11 p.m. Wednesday, with the station broadcasting on a frequency of 88.1 megacycles.

The drive for a University radio station began over two years ago with Bob Davy, former instructor in speech, acting as faculty adviser-director. KDUK, as the station was called originally, had a brief two-week life span in June, 1949, when it broadcast on 10 watts and could be heard only in the Vets' Dorms and John Straub.

Technical difficulties and FCC regulations stopped the broadcasts. The drive for a low-power FM station then began.

A drive to finance the proposed station was carried on last May by Kappa Rho Omicron, radio honorary, with students signing over their breakage fees to KDUK. Nearly $1,500 worth of equipment was necessary for the station to begin operation.

Steps in obtaining a license from the Federal Communications Commission have delayed the new station, KWAX, but all FCC regulations have now been met, Dave Strauss, business manager, said.

Students interested in radio work may contact staff members at the Villard studios for jobs on KWAX, Vaughn stated.

Austrians Draw Large Audience

By Lois Reynolds

An estimated 400 persons attended the second Austrian Student Goodwill Tour Saturday night in the Student Union Ballroom. The theme, "Visitors from Vienna," was announced and played by Dr. Suzanne Polsterer.

In the story the heroine, Susi, a girl from Vienna (Miss Polsterer) goes with her cousins to the country and meets Sepp, a young Tyrolean peasant. (Walter Weber). Though he seems to fall for her, he is influenced by Vroni, a milkmaid (Veronika Stoeckl) and it takes Susi all four seasons of the year to "get her man."

Around this theme the cast, directed by Dr. Oskar F. Bock and Miss Polsterer, performed folk songs and dances from Carinthia Salzburg, the Tyrol, Syria, Lower Austria, Burgenland, and Vienna; zither and harp solos by Karl Zanaberger, one of the musical conductors, and a wooden flute trio by three of the girls.

Done all in Austrian, the program was well received, especially some of the repeats from last year's performance in Eugene High, the "Schuhplattler," or slapping, mock-fight dances done by four boys. Knee pants and bright dirndl skirts took the audience "back to old Austria."

The bright costumes of the Eugene Folk Dancers who ushered set the audience in the right mood from the start. The event was sponsored by Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary.

The map will then be blocked into sections with each religious group canvassing in a designated area. All-campus Vodvil tickets may be purchased from solicitors.

Funds from campus and off-campus solicitations and Vodvil proceeds will go through WSSF hands to students in Assam, India. Members of the WSSF committee and interested students selected Assam to be the recipient of Oregon collections at the end of winter term.

House to house calls will be made from 6:30 until 8 p.m. all three days "and we hope they'll be expecting the solicitors," Miss Briner said.
