

Board to Choose SU Board Discusses Proposals Publication Men To Facilitate Obtaining Help

Top staff members of next year's Oregana and Ore-nter will be chosen tonight by the Student Publications Board after interviews of the candidates.

Interviews of candidates for editor and business manager of the Oregana and editor of the Ore-nter will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Candidates are:

Oregana editor: Bob Funk, junior in English.

Oregana business manager: Charles Isaak, sophomore in business; Dolores Parrish, sophomore in liberal arts; Bruce Wallace, senior in business; and Jane Weber, junior in general arts and letters.

Ore-nter editor: Bob Ford, freshman in pre-journalism.

Installation of a new plan whereby student help for setting up equipment used in certain Student Union-sponsored activities can be readily procured was the main item of discussion during Wednesday's meeting of the SU board.

Ralph Hillier, chairman of the SU Dance committee, appeared before the board and explained that spring term has been a problem to his committee because help cannot be obtained for setting up the ballroom in preparation for the weekly mixers.

He suggested that the board arrange a new plan for getting help other than the method of voluntary recruiting being used now. Three proposals were put before the group and action on them will come at the next board meeting.

The proposals included establishment of a point system under which points would be awarded students for each activity they performed for the SU. These points would be the basis of selecting new members of the board and the SU Directorate.

A personnel pool, such as that used by the University of Washington, and outright pay for work done were also mentioned.

Previously to Hillier's statement, Jane Wiggen, chairman of the SU movie committee, told the board that a similar problem confronts her concerning setting up of chairs for Sunday movies.

Apr. 27 was set as the deadline for petitions for 10 new board members, with interviews May 11 to 16. Seven schools—Architecture and Allied Arts, Music, Health and Physical Education, Liberal Arts, Education, Law, and Graduate—will each get a new member. Two faculty and one alumni representative will be the others selected.

May 11 was also set as deadline for petitions for the SU Directorate, with preliminary interviews slated May 20 to 23. Board and Directorate appointments are subject to approval by President H. K. Newburn.

A motion was also passed that winners of the challenge trophies, awarded for placing in SU-sponsored indoor sports programs, keep the cups only for the term in which they were awarded. The other two terms they would be shelved in the SU trophy case.

Possible revisions in the Perpetuation Plan (the constitution of the SU board) were also brought to the attention of board members. They will meet next week to draw up the changes.

Memorial Show Of Paintings Set

A memorial exhibition and sale of the paintings of Alfred H. Schroff will be held in the Little Art Gallery, Apr. 20-30. Schroff was a member of the University painting department from 1916-1928.

The paintings are marine and landscape oils and water colors of the Pacific Coast. Schroff was an accomplished craftsman in many techniques and materials. His best known stained glass windows are in the Christian Science Church in Boston.

Schroff received medals from the World's Columbia Exposition in 1903 and at the British Exposition in 1895. He won a first prize in oil in 1923 at the Northwest Exhibition in Seattle. He later studied in Paris and London and in 1924 received a diploma for this work in fresco at the Fountainebleau School in France.

Proceeds from the sale will increase the gift for the art student loan fund left by Louise Barrows Schroff at her death in 1946, in memory of her husband.

Prep Seniors Dance Guests

High school seniors visiting the Oregon campus for Duck Preview will be the honored guests at the mixer to be held from 10 to 12 Saturday night in the Student Union. The seniors will be admitted free upon display of their Duck Preview badges.

"Spring Fever" will be the theme of the dance to be held in the SU Ballroom following the Vodvil show. Dick Dorr and his orchestra will provide music for dancing, and three acts of entertainment will be presented during the 11 p.m. intermission.

Admission for University students will be 20 cents.

Newburn to Serve Model U.N. Board

University President H. K. Newburn will serve on the advisory board for a model United Nations session at Stanford University Apr. 26 through 28.

Serving as "president" of the "general assembly" will be Dr. Ralph Bunche, Nobel prize-winning U. N. official. Delegates will be representatives from some 60 Pacific Coast colleges and universities representing different U. N. countries.

Blood Quota 1000 Pints

One thousand pints of blood is the goal for spring term set by the campus blood drive committee. It will be collected from students, faculty, and campus personnel.

Winter term the University of Oregon collected 496 pints for instantaneous shipment to the Korean front. An increasing need on the fighting front, however, has resulted in this new larger demand by the Red Cross.

Pledge cards are now being distributed to students throughout the campus. Appointments will be made on these cards with donors at different times for the two days of the drive, Apr. 24 and 25.

Parental release blanks for students under 21 are appearing daily in the Emerald. It is necessary that students have the blanks filled out and returned as soon as possible, because of the increased quota.

Winter term over 100 possible donors were turned away because they couldn't be handled by the limited facilities and personnel. To reach the quota this term about 25 per cent of the student body will be asked to give.

The Lane County Red Cross chapter has announced that any person who has ever had infectious jaundice will not be accepted. Also any person who has been inoculated for typhoid or vaccinated within the past month is asked not to sign up.

Cordier Steps In When Mac Goes Out

A quick change in plans was necessary for the International Relations Club Wednesday.

Quite in keeping with the world situation, the club had advertised its Wednesday night meeting topic, "Should MacArthur Be Removed?" However, President Truman's Tuesday night action made this subject awkward. Addition of a word by IRC President Claire Cordier again made the topic timely—"Should MacArthur Have Been Removed?"
