Welcome to Oregon...

Visiting high school seniors:
 Every year a weekend is set aside for our high school friends to visit our campus. Since a school is only as strong as its student body, the University family tries to encourage outstanding students to visit the campus. Being proud of our University, we feel that once prospective students have a chance to observe the type of curriculum, extracurricular activities, and campus surroundings, they will be sold on the University as we have been.
 For here at Oregon each student is endowed with that intangible element called school spirit. It is something that has been passed down through the years, through the traditions established by our predecessors, until it has reached a very real meaning here on our campus. It is our hope that you will be able to receive a touch of this school spirit during your visit here on the campus, and that this will encourage you to become a part of our student body next fall.
 The Duck Preview committee, in cooperation with the various living organizations has worked hard to provide what it feels will be an educational as well as entertaining weekend. Friday evening our freshman class has provided an assembly. Saturday night for your entertainment there will be a vodvil show put on by the student body, with dance to follow.
 In visiting the campus you will see such landmarks as Deady Hall, the first building. And you will be able to compare this with our new Student Union and library addition, as well as the construction of the new science building.
 From this you will be able to see that we are a growing University, and we hope that you will be interested in growing with us. This is your weekend, seniors—have an enjoyable time, and always feel that you are welcome to the University at any time.
 Sincerely yours,
 Barry Mountain
 President, ASUO

One Odd Situation!
Ugliest Man Candidate
Plays Romantic Lead

By Jim Haycox
 "Isn't it stretching it just a little bit to have the romantic lead of 'Finian's Rainbow' a finalist for 'Ugliest Man on the campus?'" asks Gordon Howard, romantic lead and Ugliest Man finalist.
 "I have no illusions about being a second Rudolph Valentino; it's the singing that interested me, but my gosh . . ." he mutters.
 It all started (the singing that is) when Gordy came back from the Navy after a two-year hitch, to finish his senior year in high school. Being ineligible for athletics, he had to look around for a new interest and took to music.
 He found out that his baritone voice wasn't half bad and has been working with it ever since. Now a senior in speech, he still has time to work with the University Singers and sing at occasional weddings.
 Besides his music work, Gordy is interested in other fields. At present he is a member of the Theater Executive Board and a principal in the cast of "Milky Way," the University Theater road show. He has also been president of Cherney Hall and Junior Representative on the ASUO Executive Council.
 Until this year he had pretty much decided upon going into radio or teaching. That was changed a little though when he got his first stage role, Ed Devery, in "Born Yesterday." Now with the part of Woody Mahoney, which is difficult but a lot of fun, he says, he thinks he might want to go a little further in stage work. But with still two-thirds of his senior year to go after summer vacation, he still has some time to think about it.

 Howard's 187 pounds are distributed over a 5' 8" frame which he considers just right. He ardently denies that the appellation "Gordo" has any foundation at all, and few are his friends who persist in using it.
