Oregon Art Show Exhibit Work 100 Artists

13 Oregon artists whose works will appear in the Artists of 1951 exhibition opening today at the Portland Art Museum. 13 are students, faculty members, or former students at the University.

Artists include Alexander Archipenko, Robert McCosh, and Sherman Lee. Three days examining the exhibits received from 40 Oregon communities. In the final selection, 13 cities and towns are represented along with works by Oregonians living out of state.

Works of the 13 University-affiliated artists are all done in oil, with the exception of those by Sponenburg, assistant professor of art, whose work is in watercolor, and Mary Lewis, former Oregon student now at the University of Syracuse, who used gouache.

Faculty members whose works will be shown are Frederick Sponenburg, instructor in art; David Sponenburg, associate professor of art; Charles B. Ryan, instructor in art.

Students who contributed to the exhibition are Joe Daugherty, Robert Hall, Henry Lewis, James Donald Rankin, and Donald Sponenburg, all graduate students in the School of Architecture and School of Arts; Robert Feasley, senior in the School of Architecture and School of Arts; and Andrew Vincent, senior in liberal arts.

The exhibition will include 67 watercolors, 7 drawings, 13 sculptures, and 27 prints.

Chemistry Group and Conference

The University chemistry group held the annual Shibley Award meeting of the Pacific Division of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry (TAPPI) Friday in Long Beach, Wash.

The purpose of the meeting was to give the younger men in the pulp and paper industry an opportunity to present papers based upon their actual work dealing with some phase of technical activity in the industry.

Those attending from the University were A. H. Kunz, head of the chemistry department; D. F. Hart, assistant professor of chemistry; and students Herschel Dorris Dowie, Wayne St. Sidney Sherman, Charles George Martin, Dean Gate-Raymond McCoy, and Frank Featured speaker was R. C. Hall, head of the speech department at the University.

Hazel Scott Comes to Mac Court Apr. 28 to Give Piano Recital

A special attraction will be featured at 8 p.m. Apr. 28 in McArthur Court, when Pianist Hazel Scott will present a recital.

Miss Scott is making a trans-continental tour of the United States and Canada. Her recital at the University will be presented by the Student Union Board.

Her usual programs combine swing with the classics and her own imaginative creations, such as "A Rainy Night in G." She has recorded for Columbia and Decca and has been in several movies.

In private life the wife of Congressman Adam Clayton Powell of New York City, Miss Scott takes one weekend out of her current tour each month to join him in Washington. Their infant son remains in New York with Dr. Powell's mother.

In her program here Miss Scott will introduce several of her own inventive compositions as well as classics and boogie-woogie.

Newburn to Speak At Institute Here

Harry K. Newburn, University president, and Floyd E. Miller, vice-president of the Miller Mercantile Co. of Portland will be featured speakers for the 12th annual Oregon Retail Distributors' Institute, to be held May 6 and 7 on the University campus.

Newburn will speak at the Sunday banquet of the ORDI in the Student Union, while the opening session will hear a talk on "The Effects of the War on Different Types of Retailing," to be presented by Miller.

As president of ORDI, Gene Vandenynde, manager of the R. L. Elfstrom company, Salem, will welcome institute members when the conference convenes.

Tickets on Sale For Breakfast

Tickets go on sale today for the traditional YWCA Junior-Senior Breakfast, to be held at 9:15 a.m. Sunday in the Student Union Ballroom. Price of the tickets is 98 cents, helping to carry out the theme of "Bargain Breakfast."

Ticket sales will be conducted through representatives in each of the women's living organizations. Wednesday will be the last day to obtain tickets.

Mrs. Roy McCall, wife of the head of the speech department, will be the featured speaker. In her talk, "Buys for the Activity Wise," she will tell of some of the activity opportunities open to women graduates.

Bonnie Birkemeier is general chairman for the event. The other committee heads are Mary Ellen Burrell, tickets; Kathy Davis, invitations; Karen Eremeeff, decorations; Jean Lewis, catering; and Maggie Powne and Denis Thum, promotion.

The breakfast is being held partly in conjunction with National YWCA Week which begins Sunday.
