UofW Acquires Portland Site

PORTLAND —(P)— The University of Washington will open a branch office in Portland.

The Oregon State Board of Higher Education announced Tuesday approval of a preliminary plan for co-operation between the University of Oregon and the University of Washington in offering graduate social work courses in Portland.

One year of graduate study would be available in Portland and a second graduate year leading to the master's degree in social work would be taken at Seattle.

Top Bowler Here, Gives Show in SU

Harold Aspland, a "roving bowling instructor" as he terms himself, and one of the nation's top bowlers, appeared in the Student Union recreation area Thursday afternoon as an instructor and exhibition bowler.

Aspland, who is employed by Brunswick as a representative was entertained at a coffee hour during the late afternoon. From 1 to 2:30 p.m. he gave instruction in spot bowling. At 2:30 p.m. the movies "America Bowls" and "Five Stars" were shown. Aspland was at one time a member of the Five Stars group, and appeared in the film.

Duene Herendeen, student bowler, and Aspland bowled a match at 3 p.m. Aspland also watched the Class A team bowl and gave them some pointers.

After his visit here, he planned to continue to Roseburg, Grants Pass and Crescent City.

Phi Sig's to Honor National Prexy

D. R. "Spec" Collins, national president of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, will be honored at a reception from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the Student Union. Collins will be accompanied by his wife.

In the receiving line will be Nathan Coleman and Mrs. Coleman, president of the Phi Sigma Kappa Mother's Club, Frank Hitchcock, alumni president and chapter adviser, and Mrs. Hitchcock, Nat Giustina, district deputy of Region Six, and Mrs. Giustina.

Maury Hudson of the local chapter is in charge of plans for Collins' visit while in Eugene. His visit is part of a tour of Phi Sigma Kappa chapters and alumni clubs on the West Coast.

'Anne of The Thousand Days' Faculty Senate Vetoes Motion Plays Next at UO Theatre

"Anne of the Thousand Days," written by Maxwell Anderson, and directed by Frederick J. Hunter, Assistant Professor of speech, will be the next production of the University Theater.

The drama, written around one of England's most colorful kings, Henry VIII, and the woman he desired, Anne Boleyn, will open May 18. Five other showings are scheduled for May 19, 23, 24, 25, and 26.

FREDERICK J. HUNTER is director of "Anne of the Thousand Days," the next production of the University Theater, which plays May 18 to 26.

Cast in the role of Anne is Avis Lange. Bob Marsh is Henry VIII. Others in the cast are Claude Stephens as Thomas Boleyn, Jo DeLap as Elizabeth Boleyn, Ben Padrow as Cardinal Wolsey, and Paul Wexler as Thomas Cromwell.

Like Broadway "We're going to try and produce it in much the same style projected in the Broadway performance," Hunter explained. "It will be done in a space stage. Points of light will pick out the characters and there will be less emphasis on the background."

"I enjoy working with an Anderson script. He has an exciting way of expressing himself and interest in his characters," Hunter said.

Part-time Work Now Available

Work opportunities are definitely picking up, according to Miss Shirley Sylvester of the University Employment office.

A number of part-time jobs are available, most of them for men. Among these are labor jobs, a position for someone with commercial baking experience, and another position for an experienced shoe salesman. There is also a job for a service station attendant four nights a week from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

Many of the jobs now coming in are for people who will also be going to summer school or who will be interested in full-time summer work.

There is a job this weekend for entertainers at a convention. Students who are interested in obtaining such work may contact the employment office.

The occasion for the motion, explained E. L. Johnson, dean of the graduate school, was the request from several departments to use this privilege for certain specific purposes.

For example, Johnson illustrated, the Department of Economics might feel that work in advanced mathematics could well be substituted for a second language for graduate students in economics.

The faculty may or may not uphold the Senate's point of view, Johnson said.

Traffic accidents in 1950 killed or injured 1,835,000 persons in the United States, while the total was only 1,594,800 in 1949.

The motion which would give the graduate council permission to allow Ph.D. candidates to substitute work in a special research technique or collateral field of knowledge for one of the two required languages was defeated 12 to 11 by the Faculty Senate Wednesday.

New on Campus

Hunter, whose first production with the University Theater was "Right You Are," has only been here one year. Before that time he taught at Santa Barbara, Whitman, and Iowa State Colleges. At various odd times he is still working toward the Ph.D. degree from Stanford University, but it's a little ways off yet.

"Anne of the Thousand Days" is the story of the struggle of King Henry VIII to possess the one woman in his kingdom whom he desires above all others... Anne Boleyn. In the course of events that follow, Henry fights to retain the good will of his people, the loyalty of his ministers, and the support of the church.
