

Highland, Fiji's Freshmen Sell 1,100 'Kisties' on Campus

A different living organization is interviewed over KERG, Eugene radio station, at 7:15 p.m. each Tuesday, under the sponsorship of Fennell's Campus Shop.

Tuesday Fennell's interviewed members from the Phi Gamma Delta house. Dick Stoutt, junior in liberal arts, was awarded a box of chocolates for being the most active man in his living organization. The house entertained the listening audience with two house songs and speeches by the house president and social chairman.

April 28, Fennell's sponsored Highland House. Gwen Ramsey, sophomore in liberal arts, was named the most active woman in her organization.

AGS Tops Vote

counting the ballots. DuShane, in this reporter's opinion, is one of the few persons on this campus who understands preferential voting inside and out. And, with the aid of a blackboard and a few spare hours of your time, he can make you understand it, too.

Election Surprises

The success of the non-partisan candidates—Herb Cook, running for junior class office, and Arlo Giles, candidate for senate-at-large—was a surprise to both parties. In general, it appears as though they hurt the USA candidates they were running against more than they injured the AGS candidates' chances.

Watching the ballots being counted was an interesting sight. Each candidate had a little section of a long table where his ballots were placed. Members of the election committee moved about the table, distributing each candidate's ballots.

Counting Fast

The election committee wound up the counting in a surprisingly short time. They started a little after 6 p.m. Wednesday, and finished about 9:40 p.m. Considering the great amount of redistribution of ballots that goes with preferential voting, this was unusually fast time.

Political groups and candidates in the future can learn a lot by studying this year's election. It was well-conducted, featured good campaigning, and had little—if any—political "dirty work" connected with it.

Health Service Lists Final Day For Vaccinations

Today is the last day this week for students, faculty members, and University employees to take advantage of the small-pox vaccinations and tetanus toxoid injections being given at the Student Health Service.

The shots are given for the cost of the serum, Dr. F. N. Miller, director of the service, said. Each shot is 25 cents.

A second group of shots will be offered May 22-24.

Dr. Miller urges veterans who have been out of the service for two or three years to get a booster shot of tetanus toxoid and another small-pox vaccination.

YO Orchestra To Tour Today

The University Symphony Orchestra will be on tour today on a one-day stand at Roseburg. Georgene Shanklin, senior, and Phil Green, graduate in music, will be featured soloists.

There will be two performances: in the afternoon one at the Veterans' Hospital for the patients, and in the evening at Roseburg Junior High, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Women's Group.

Miss Shanklin will play Beethoven's "Concerto in C Minor" on the piano, while Green, baritone, will sing Massenet's "Vision Fugitive."

Co-op Reports 2,800 Members

A higher percentage of the student body belongs to the Co-op than in any other recent year, according to G. L. Henson, Co-op manager.

Co-op membership lists are closed for the year. More than 2,800 students joined, comprising approximately two-thirds of the student body.

This is the first year that the membership lists have been closed early, Henson said. It was done to avoid the confusion of new members signing up just before the tickets must be turned in.

Approximately 1,100 students on the campus Wednesday followed the slogan "Don't Mistie a Kistie," according to Barbara Swanson, chairman for the booth sales of the Phi Theta Upsilon candid apple sale.

Kistie sales began at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday, and the booths were completely sold out by noon, making it necessary to reorder.

Sales were also numerous in the living organizations with between 600 and 700 being sold.

Kisties will be sold again today at the booths located conveniently around the campus. Booths will be located at Fenton, Friendly, the Co-op, Men's Physical Education building, Hendricks, Carson, Straub, the Library, on the quadrangle, Vet's Dorm, Student Union, and the Side.

Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary, sponsors the sale each year to raise funds for scholarships which will go to junior women. Freshman women are in charge of the sale.

Kisties sell for 10 cents.

YWCA Interviews Set For Today, Friday

Freshmen, sophomore, and junior women interested in working as YWCA membership representatives for next year are being interviewed between 4 and 5:20 today and Friday at the Y headquarters in Gerlinger.

The only qualification for the representative post is that one have an active interest in promoting the activities of the Y, according to Jackie Wilkes, membership chairman.

Theater Party Offered Saturday

"For Services Rendered" will be the unofficial theme of the annual University Theater party, sponsored by Horace Robinson, associate professor of speech, which leaves for parts unknown (the beach) at 8 a.m. Saturday morning.

Everyone who has had a hand in helping the theater this year—a list which would include all actors, stage hands, ticket selles, cloak room workers, ushers, costume and many others, is invited.

Plans for the event which will go on all day and into the evening, call for two meals, including dinner. Transportation will be provided by private cars and, if necessary, by a chartered bus. Everyone interested in making the trip is asked to drop in or call the University Theater ticket office before 5 p.m. Thursday.

Expenses will be prorated among all attending and should not exceed $2.

Effective Sunday May 6th

For the balance of Spring term the recreation area will open on Sundays at 1:00 p.m.

All other hours of the recreation area of the building remain the same

ERB MEMORIAL STUDENT UNION

Welcome to Oregon, Mom!

Speaking for all of the students, I'd like to let you know that we're looking forward to having you down here on the University of Oregon campus Mothers' Weekend.

If this is your first visit to the campus you'll have an opportunity to become acquainted with all the people and places that we've been writing home about—the old campus, the "libe," the Millrace, the Side, our favorite professor, and our roommates.

If you are already familiar with Oregon, you'll be surprised at all the changes that have taken place since your last visit. The newly completed Student Union, the library annex, and the many other face liftings which have sprung up all over campus.

You will be our guest of honor at the many Junior Weekend festivities—the float parade, the All-Campus Sing, and the Prom—as well as those events planned especially for you.

In the busy whirl of campus life we often become so caught up in the many activities, curricular and extra-curricular, that we are afraid sometimes you may feel neglected. We want to take this opportunity to show our appreciation for the many, many things you do for us. In addition, we hope to give you an insight into college life.

The campus will be yours for the weekend. We hope you will feel yourself a part of it. We want you to meet our friends, to see our university, and we want to show you off to the campus. But we are looking forward, most of all, to seeing you—soon—at Oregon.

Sincerely,
Sharon Anderson
Chairman of Mothers' Weekend
