New Group Authorized By SU Board

The Student Union Interview and Referral Committee will be reorganized for the next school year under plans formulated at a Wednesday afternoon meeting of the SU Board.

Board members voted to:

1. Change the name of the committee to the SU Personnel Committee.

2. Require a monthly report to the Personnel Committee chairman from each SU standing committee chairman stating the success of their programs and the qualitative work of committee members.

3. Have the Personnel Committee chairman submit a monthly report to the SU Board on findings compiled from individual committee reports.

4. Establish a "work pool" by the fourth week of fall term.

Purpose Explained

Under the new arrangement the functions of the Interview and Referral Committee will be carried over to the Personnel Committee along with the additional duties recommended by the board. The main purpose of the I and R group has been to interview and select new members for the standing committees.

Monthly reports were established so that the SU Board and the SU Directorate would be aware of the various programs taking place within the Student Union and the students working on these programs would get credit.

'Guide' Heads Named Tonight By Pub Board

The Student Publication Board will hold interviews for the petitioners for the positions of editor and business manager for the Student Directory (Pigger's Guide) at 7:30 tonight in the Student Union.

Petitioning for editor are Pat Choat, Edith Kading, and Tom Shepherd. Richard Davis, Dolores Parrish, and Bruce Wallace are petitioning for the position of business manager.

The directory comes out early in fall term, and lists University and home addresses, and phone numbers of students and faculty. The phone numbers and location of University offices are also recorded.

Forces Day Show Set For Friday

Three of the latest Air Force combat films from Korea and a panel discussion on "The Unification of the Armed Forces" will be featured in an Armed Forces Day program to be presented at 1:55 p.m. Friday in the Student Union Ballroom.

The program, sponsored by the speech and Military departments, will also include four five-minute speeches by high school students on the subject "The Contribution of the Armed Forces to the American Way of Life."

The panel will open the afternoon program. Lt. Col. J. H. Cunningham, head of the military department; Lt. Col. E. L. Hibner, professor of air science; and Lt. Commander G. W. Ennis, commander of the Eugene Naval and Marine Corps Reserves will participate in the discussion. Robert Montgomery, instructor in speech, will act as commentator.

The talks by high school students will be judged by members of the panel and Capt. J. M. Pagano, assistant professor of air science, who will present a plaque to the winning speaker.

The Elmira High School band, directed by Miss Gladys Stone, will furnish musical entertainment for the event.

The three combat films are concerned with air-ground support in Korea, evacuation of Huchan, and a presentation dealing with the activities of the civil air patrol.

The program will be tape-recorded and rebroadcast over radio station KERG Friday evening.

The program is open to the public and no admission will be charged.

The cabinet meeting regularly scheduled for Wednesday, was put off a day in order to hear Miss Brady.

Honorary Plans Mortar Board Ball for May 26

Plans have been set and preparation is under way for the annual Mortar Board Ball, to be held May 26 in the Student Union ballroom.

Traditionally, this is the dance where the women do the asking, pay the bills, and generally furnish the evening's entertainment. Corsages of all types are made for the men. Dress for the event will be formal.

The band for the event has been chosen and the theme picked out, but that information will be released later, according to Betty Wright, president of the senior women's honorary sponsoring the dance.

Monday has been designated as "Turnabout Day" in conjunction with the Mortar Board Ball. Women will dress in slacks, jeans, and pedal pushers and will have the privilege of asking the men out to coffee and on coke dates. Barbara Clerin, general chairman of the ball, explained that this day will give the women a good opportunity to get their dates for the dance.

The women make or somehow acquire the corsages for their escorts. To further interest in this aspect of the dance, a prize will be offered for the best corsage sported by a man. The meaning of "best" will be up to the judges.

Members of Mortar Board are visiting all living organizations to publicize the dance and get student opinion on some of their plans for it.

General chairman for the ball is Barbara Clerin. Assisting her are Eve Overback and Dolores Jeppesen in charge of promotion; Rusty Holcomb, programs; Maggie Powne, tickets; Gretchen Grefe, decorations; Virginia Kellogg, intermission; Joan Jacobs, chaperones; and Rosamond Fraser, clean-up.

Military Honorary Gets New Officers

John Epley, junior in liberal arts, was selected president of Scabbard and Blade, military honorary, Tuesday.

Also elected were Bill Sloan, vice president; Ned Takasumi, treasurer; and Jay Huston, secretary.

Epley succeeds Ward Haines as organization captain of Company L, Sixth Regiment. Haines took the office winter term following the resignation of James Goode.

Heads of Houses, Exec Council Approve Fall Rushing Dates

A suggestion that fall term rushing for women be carried on from Friday, Sept. 28 through Tuesday, Oct. 2 was approved by the ASUO Executive Council and Heads of Houses at a joint meeting Wednesday.

This recommendation will be presented to the Student Affairs Committee later this week by ASUO President Barry Mountain.

The dates are tentative, depending upon approval of Panhellenic and Interhall Governing Board.

Wednesday's joint meeting resulted when recommendations made by Heads of Houses on the "Oregon Plan" for freshman living were presented to the Council Monday. The recommendations were discussed point by point, centering on the question of deferred rushing and a feasible time for fall rushing.

Heads of Houses originally asked for the freshman orientation program to be completed before rushing begins, and rushing be completed before classes start. This would be impossible under the fall-term calendar, with the Portland football game scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 22. Classes begin Monday, Sept. 24. The compromise on rushing dates was therefore made.

Other Points Discussed
Other points made by Heads of Houses included approval of freshman living units but freshman dormitories were questioned. The group believes upperclassmen should have a choice of dorms and select their own officers. No definite agreement was reached on this point.

On the question of more social and intra-mural activities for co-op women, Mountain pointed out that they will have to be considered on the same basis as sororities, although their freshmen will be living-in.

The two groups agreed that the counseling system would be of primary importance in the Oregon Plan for freshman living. Heads of Houses had recommended that the resident assistant's job and the sponsor's job in the dormitory should not be played up as an activity. Mountain emphasized that this would be a job, not an activity.

Discussion arose on the point raised by Heads of Houses that it would cost a sorority woman more to live in a dormitory as a counselor since she would still have financial obligation to her house. Since her board in the dormitory under the present plan would be furnished, it would be no more expensive than living in the house, members of the Exec Council pointed out.

Following the joint meeting, the Exec Council held a short session.

Bands for Picnic
Mountain reported that three name bands, Tommy Dorsey, Harry James, and Freddy Martin will be in the Portland vicinity at the time of the University Jantzen Beach picnic during the summer. He also said that Jean Gould, newly-appointed orientation program chairman has begun work and is setting up a board to direct the program.

A recommendation was made by Mountain and approved by the Council that a $100 ASUO trust fund be set up with the stipulation that only one person, the student body president, be able to withdraw funds, and he only with the approval of the Senate.

Mountain and Bill Carey, ASUO president-elect, will leave Tuesday for Salt Lake City where they will attend the conference of the Pacific Students' Presidents' Association. Mountain will lead several discussions on student government.

Discussion on the National Students' Association was postponed until the Council's regular meeting Monday.

A motion to send the winning Junior Weekend float to compete in the Rose Festival parade in Portland was defeated.

Asklepiads to Aid Cancer Research

Pledges of Asklepiads, pre-medicine honorary, are raising money on campus this week for the Asklepiads Cancer Research Fund.

The money collected will be given to the University of Oregon Medical School for basic cell study, an important part of cancer research not financed by the regular foundations.

Visitor Speaks Tonight at SU

Sir Richard Livingstone, noted British educator who is on campus presenting lectures and speaking to various groups of faculty and students, will present the third in his series of lectures at 8 p.m. today in the Student Union Ballroom.

This third lecture will be on "Science" and is under the general topic of his series, "Education and the Spirit of the Age."

Although originally scheduled for the Dad's Lounge, all future lectures by Livingstone will be held in the ballroom because of the large attendance at each of his appearances.

Student Draft Awaits Test

Washington (P)—Drafting of college students was ordered postponed Wednesday until they have a chance to provide their draft boards with aptitude-test scores or evidence of scholastic standing.

Selective service headquarters told state directors, however, that no inductions will be postponed beyond Aug. 20.

The state officials also were reminded of earlier instructions to postpone inductions of college and high school students for 30 days beyond the end of the academic year to enable them to find essential jobs or enlist for service.

The aptitude tests will be given at college testing centers throughout the nation during the next two months. Test applications must be in the hands of the Educational Testing Service, Box 586, Princeton N.J., by May 25.

Oregon's 74 Years of Theater Work Ranges from 'Lady' to New 'Anne'

by Bob Ford

"Lady from Lyons" to "Anne of a Thousand Days" represents 74 years of dramatic progress at the University of Oregon.

An extract from "Lady from Lyons" was the first dramatic entertainment on record to be presented at the University. The production was part of the "Programme of Literary Entertainment of the Laurean and Eutaxian Society" on Dec. 21, 1877.

It was some time after the advent of "Lady from Lyons" before the theatrical entertainment on its own was allowed any kind of official sanction. In the early days of the University, the theater was regarded as a dangerous temptation, and the staging of plays was discouraged.

The first full production at the University was "Henrietta," presented at the Parker Opera House on Mar. 30, 1901, under the direction of I. M. Glen.

Real interest in the college play came in focus in 1909, when the Dramatic Club formed with 100 charter members. The appointment of A. F. Reddie as instructor in drama in 1912 was a rallying point for students interested in drama.

Under the leadership of Reddie and Dr. George Rebel, The League for the Study of the Drama was launched in 1913, with students, faculty, and townspeople as members.

With the completion of Johnson

Hall in 1915, the Guild Theatre on the main floor of the building opened with the faculty presentation of Jerome's "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

In 1920 the "students of the most capacity as actors" formed an organization known as the University Company. In 1922, the department of drama and speech arts was considered the largest and best equipped school on the coast, with a play-producing schedule of about one play monthly.

The University was the first in United States, if not the world, to place the acted drama in its curriculum. Granville Barker, leading member of the theater, said on a visit here that the work of this
