

Gals: Grab Your Man For Sat. Ball

"The Talk of the Town" Saturday night will be the annual Mortar Board Ball, to take place from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight in the Student Union Ballroom.

Built around the title of "The Talk of the Town," the decorations will be on a cosmopolitan theme. Wally Heider's 11-piece band will furnish the dance music, and according to general chairman, Barbara Clerin, Heider plays very "danceable music."

The last big all-campus dance of the year, this is the one time when the women do the asking and pay the bills. They also make corsages for their dates out of anything which is handy.

An award will be presented during intermission to the man with the best corsage. Awards will also be presented to the men's and the women's living organization with the best representation at the dance.

Tickets for the dance are on sale now at the Co-op, Carson Hall, the main desk of the Student Union, and in living organizations. Cost of the tickets is $2 a couple.

Dress for the dance is formal with dark suits, tuxes, or dinner jackets for the men and formals for the women.

A feature of the dance will be the tapping of 30 new members for Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary, and their presentation during intermission.

THIS IS IT!

Today's Emerald is the final issue for this year. The Emerald will resume publication at the beginning of next fall term.

Emerald staff members are reminded of the annual Emerald banquet which will be given at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Student Union. Announcement of next year's staff and presentation of awards will take place.

Final Showings Of 'Anne' Slatea

The last two showings of "Anne of the Thousand Days" will be presented at 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday night. Tickets are $1 and may be obtained at the University Theater box office.

Starring in the cast as Anne Boleyn and Henry VIII are Avis Lange and Bob Marsh. The play under the direction of Fredrick Hunter, instructor in speech.

Pendleton High School To Hear Newburn Speak

Dr. H. K. Newburn, University president, will deliver the commencement address at Pendleton High School graduation exercises today.

Livingstone Recommends Poetry, Art, Music to Supplement Science

by Adeline Garbarino
In the last of his lectures on the University campus, Sir Richard Livingstone Tuesday night told his audience in the Student Union Ballroom that we must turn to the world of poetry, art, and music in order to correct the defects and dangers of analysis characteristic of all natural science and scientific study.

Livingstone said there is a double road to truth—analysis and intuition or imagination. Analysis, he said, takes us only part of the way. We must also see.

"The road that leads to reality is the road of vision," said the noted educator. And, he added, if we fail to use this road we fail to reach reality.

While admitting that analysis has been and will continue to be of great importance in the world, Livingstone told of the defects of limiting ourselves entirely to an

New Publications Editors

EDITORS OF EMERALD AND OREGANA for next year are Lorna Larson and Bob Funk, respectively. Miss Larson, junior in journalism, was managing editor of the Emerald this year. Funk, a junior in English, was associate editor for the 1951 Oregana.

Freshman Men to Have Own Living Units, Governing Board

Freshmen men next year will have their own living units, inter-hall governing board, and intramural athletic league under a program adopted in conformance with the recently approved Oregon Plan.

The program, which will include all freshmen whether or not they live in the dorm, was announced Wednesday by the Office of Student Affairs and H. P. Barnhart, director of dormitory foods.

All five of Vets' Dormitory No. 2 will be used to house the anticipated 450 first-year students. Other men students who reside in dormitories will be either in John Straub or Vets' Dorm No. 1.

In addition to Nestor, Hunter, French, Cherney, and Sederstrom halls, which comprise the upper dorm unit, Stitzer Hall in Vets' Dorm No. 1 will also be opened to freshmen on a tentative basis. According to Ray Hawk, director of men's affairs, residents from this hall will be sent to the other five as vacancies occur there.

He pointed out that this would avoid the situation that came up this year when the fall to winter term drop in enrollment caused the closing down of French Hall without notice and resulted in its social and intramural program being abruptly terminated.

The program also provides for an improved counseling system and participation by off campus freshmen in hall social and athletic activities. Hawk said that an assistant counselor would be assigned to each hall giving the "administration representation on each floor and assuring better control than in the past."

Counselors from among the ranks of senior and graduate students will be selected before fall term and given a special indoctrination course before assuming their duties. Applications for counselors are being accepted now in the Office of Student Affairs.

Eugene men will be able to attend desserts, which next year will only be scheduled among freshmen living organizations, and may compete with dorms in the freshman intramural league. (Fraternities, freshman dorms, and non-freshman dorms will compete next year in three separate leagues.)

Neither the Interfraternity Council nor the Interdormitory Council will act as representative bodies for the freshmen halls, Hawk pointed out. A special freshman governing board will be set up at the first of fall term that will be independent of IFC and IDC, he said.

analytical investigation of that which we wish to know.

Danger of Analysis.
The danger of analysis, he said, is that it may delude us into thinking we know all about things in which reality we miss. We mistake analysis for knowledge.

Uncorrected analysis weakens the habit of mind which leads to a greater learning, he continued. Still, said Livingstone, civilization is largely dependent on critical analysis, and without it it would in all probability grow weaker and collapse.

A field in which more exact analysis of human material would help us, he declared is politics. Politics, however, he warned must not be thought of as a purely mechanical thing.

Properly used, he added, the rational spirit protects mankind from the dangers of ignorance and (Please turn to page seven)

Six Senior Men In Speech Contest

Six senior men will compete for cash prizes in the Senior Oratorical contest at 8 p.m., June 8 in the Music School.

Speakers will be Morris Sahr, senior in political science; Robert Peterson, senior in speech; Richard Dahlberg, senior in physics; Earl Peden, senior in history; J. K. Farris, senior in law; and Ivan Hoyer, senior in speech.

First prize will be $150, second prize $100, and third prize $50.

The Weather...

Partly cloudy Thursday and Friday. High Thursday, 66, low Thursday night, 50.

Ernst, Turnipseed Retire in Summer After Long Service

Charles P. Taft Main Speaker For Graduation

Charles P. Taft, prominent Cincinnati lawyer and civic leader, will be the speaker for commencement exercises June 10. Taft is the younger brother of Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican from Ohio.

"The Rock of Our Salvation" has been announced as the title of his address.

Taft has been active in national affairs, being a member of the three-man President's committee on War Relief Agencies in 1941. In 1943, he became a special adviser to the State department, and after that department's reorganization in 1944, he became director of the Office of Wartime Economic Affairs.

The commencement exercises will be held in McArthur Court beginning at 2 p.m. At present, 1,566 graduates and undergraduates have applied for degrees.

Instructions for the degree candidates will be issued to them, according to Registrar Clifford L. Constance. The commencement procession will begin to form at 1:30 p.m., Constance said, and no late arrivals will be admitted.

Vacation Next Wed.

A one-day vacation will be observed by the University Wednesday for Memorial Day. Classes will resume as usual Thursday, the Registrar's office reported.

'Put Another Nickle in 'Theme Will Return; Pay Phones Ahead

A change-over in the University telephone system will be completed during the summer, according to Louis S. Eade, commercial manager of the Eugene office of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Under the new system, group living organizations, including dormitories, cooperatives, fraternities, and sororities, will have pay phones for social calls and a flat-rate phone for house business calls.

This policy is necessary under the tariffs filed by the telephone company, Eade said. Flat-rate service cannot be supplied to such living groups, according to the tariff ruling.

Having pay phones for social calls is not new, since 19 houses on the campus are now working under this system, Eade pointed out. The change-over should have been done before, he said, but lack of facilities made it impossible until now.

University extensions in dormitories will also be changed to coin collectors, Eade said. An extension will be retained for house officials for dormitory business.

Under Lock and Key
The flat-rate phone in fraternities, sororities, and cooperatives must be located in the room of the house manager, president, or house-mother, and must be under lock and key. Use of the phone will be at this official's discretion, Eade stated.

The rate on these phones is $10 plus tax. This is the flat-rate for a business phone. A guarantee of 25 cents a day is necessary for the pay phones. The plan is to have extensions on the various floors, but only one coin-collector.

The chief advantage of the new system will be the fact that the students, not the house, will be paying for their personal calls, Eade pointed out.

R. H. Ernst, professor of English, who has taught at the University for 28 years, and Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, for 21 years director of University dormitories, will be retired this summer from the University of Oregon.

Both members of the University family are retiring under the provisions of a state law which requires retirement of educational employees at the age of 65. The retirements are subject to the approval of the State Board of Higher Education.

Ernst, who has specialized in comparative literature, came to Oregon in 1923 from the University of Washington. His subjects have included English drama and introduction to literature, a survey of world literature.

After receiving his B.A. from Northwestern College in 1904, Ernst earned his M.A. and Ph.D. at Harvard.

Enjoyed Students
"I will miss my student contacts," Mrs. Turnipseed said Wednesday. "They were so enjoyable."

Her future plans are indefinite. Mrs. Turnipseed has reported, but she intends to spend time reading, studying, and doing civic work at her home at 1874 Emerald St. She is also interested in taking some classes at the University.

Coming to Oregon from State Teachers College, Madison, South Dakota, in August, 1930, Mrs. Turnipseed assumed control of the University dormitory system. At that time Susan Campbell, Hendricks Hall, John Straub, and Friendly Hall were the only dormitories on the campus with a total of 500 students housed in the four units. Today 1600 students live in University dormitories.

H. P. Barnhart, present dormitory foods director, will replace Mrs. Turnipseed.

UO Alumni Plan Reunion for June 9

Alumni Day on the Oregon campus will be Saturday, June 9, the day before Commencement, with a number of activities for the day already planned.

Registration will begin at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Student Union and the semi-annual business session of the Alumni Association is planned for 11 p.m. in the Dad's Lounge.

A luncheon will be held in the ballroom of the SU at noon with representatives from each year's class scheduled to speak. Silver and Golden O certificates will be presented to members of the classes of 1901 and 1926. Class pictures will be taken on the SU steps following the luncheon.

New campus buildings will be inspected by the alumni at 3 p.m. followed by the president's reception. Class reunion dinners are scheduled for 6 p.m.

The Half Century Club will meet and initiate new members who will include all graduates of the University up to 1901.

Draft Deferment Tests Readied

Students taking selective service tests this Saturday are to report at 8:30 a.m. to Fenton Hall where room assignments will be given, according to J. S. Carlson, director of the counseling center administering the test.

All those taking the test must have tickets for admission, the official document with their selective service number and the designation and address of their draft board, and a pen or pencil, Carlson announced.