Photography Contest Open

A contest for young photographers with cash awards of $15,000 has been announced by Edward K. Thompson, managing editor of Life magazine, with a deadline for entries of Sept. 15. Full details of the contest may be found in the May 21 issue of Life.

There will be two prize divisions in the contest—one for individual pictures and one for picture stories, the latter for a series of photographs telling the story or depending upon group presentation for effect.

A first prize of $3,000 is being offered in the picture sequence division with second and third prizes of $1,500 and $1,000. First place winner in the individual picture division will receive $2,000, with second and third prizes amounting to $1,250 and $750.

Winning pictures of the three top-ranked photographers in each of the competitions divisions will appear in an issue of Life.

Contestants, who may be either professionals or amateurs, must have had pictures published on at least one occasion, and must submit evidence of this in their entries in the form of clippings, tearsheets, or photographs.

Physics Group Selects Norris

W. V. Norris, professor of physics, was elected to the executive committee of the National Chapter of the American Association of Physics teachers at the annual meeting of the Oregon section Saturday at Reed college.

E. G. Ebbighausen, associate professor of physics Dr. Francis E. Dart, assistant professor of physics, and R. S. Paul, graduate assistant in physics, presented papers at the meeting.

IFC Set to Discuss 'Limited Contact' Plan

by Wally McClain

A policy of "limited social contact" between freshmen and fraternity men will be offered to the Interfraternity Council tonight as a solution to the freshmen delayed pledging of next fall, Dick Kading said Tuesday night.

The policy is the result of discussion by an IFC rushing policy committee which met Monday night to decide on possible plans of action for IFC concerning freshmen fall term. Kading is the committee chairman.

The outline of the policy as stated by Kading is: "It shall be the policy of IFC to adhere to a limited social contact system of dealing with freshmen during the fall of 1951."

Sharp Debate Expected

Kading said he expected there would be "a good hot discussion" over this policy, which would possibly be only one of many to be considered tonight.

He said he thought the greatest point of difference between IFC members would be that "rushing functions are not defined well enough."

The committee defined as rushing functions cases of freshmen going to fraternity houses, double-dating with fraternity members; attending fraternity picnics, going to shows with fraternity men, being on the premises of a fraternity house, and any contact that could be interpreted as a rushing function at a place where one might be held.

Kading said that these were set down by the committee as "definitely rushing functions." The committee included in its report a request that other functions or activities could be designated as rushing functions by the IFC tribunal.

Violations Outlines

The committee has set up a penalty for violation of the policy which includes a $50 fine for the fraternity and loss of the right to pledge the freshman involved for one year.

All violations must be reported 24 hours in advance of the first IFC meeting after discovery of the violation, Kading said. The IFC tribunal, which is headed by IFC Vice President Norm Peterson, would be the justice-dispensing body in the case of violations.

More Liberal Policy

Kading said that the proposed policy wouldn't prevent a fraternity man from speaking to freshmen as the policy last fall did."

He explained that the policy would not outlaw chance meetings or an occasional cup of coffee where a fraternity man and a freshman were involved.

"The whole thing depends on the integrity of the fraternities," he said.

"One reason that the policy did not work last year is that it was too strict."

The committee has formed the no-rush policy to be in effect between the first day of fall term and the first day of men's freshman rushing, which is now set for the second week of winter term.

Kading said that he expected that IFC members would attack the plan because it does not set up definitely what a rushing function is "in black and white."

"But you can see that there can't be any such definite rule," he said.

Tri Deltis Slate 'Pansy Ring'

The fifth annual Pansy Ring, sponsored by Delta Delta Delta, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the chapter house, 1987 University.

Preceding the event, a tea will be given in honor of the engaged senior women on campus, who will later step through the ring and announce their betrothals.

As is traditional, a fashion show, featuring clothes from Russell's gown shop, will be presented; the models will be active members wearing garments appropriate for the young bride.

This year an Open House will follow the Ring ceremony. At this time the newly modernized sorority house will be open to all the students and faculty members of the University.

Co-chairmen of the Sunday afternoon event are Frances Healy and Jean Thomas. Other committees are headed as follows: invitations, Norma Hultgren; style show and script, Dale Smith, and Lorna Anderson; publicity, Jo-Ann Priaulx; registration, Marilyn Thompson; and pansy collections, Joan Cartozian.

The Pansy Ring is sponsored on many campuses each spring by active members of Delta Delta Delta. The Ring was originated on the University of Southern California campus 28 years ago. Since that time the idea has spread throughout the chapters in Canada and the United States, resulting in similar events being held each spring on nearly every campus.

The huge ring is made by the members each year from moss and pansies which are shipped from other Northern California and Oregon to Eugene. The ring itself stands 8 feet high, and is about 6 feet wide.

Prexy Names 8 Members To SU Board

Eight new members were named this week to the Student Union Board, the governing body of the SU.

Appointments were made by H. K. Newburn, University president, on recommendation of a joint committee from the Student Union Board and the Student Executive Council.

Appointed for one-year terms were James R. Krueger, representing the graduate school; John Sabin, representing the School of Law; and Barbara Howard, representing the School of Education.

Named for two year terms were Margaret Powne, School of Music; Clyde Fahlman, College of Liberal Arts; and Jane Wiggen, School of Architecture and Allied Arts.
