Religious Council Retreat Planned

Plans for the foreign student reception and the University Religious Council retreat were discussed by the council at its noon meeting Monday in Westminster House.

The foreign student reception is set for 8 to 10 p.m. Oct. 23 in the Student Union. Members of the religious council and delegates from campus religious groups will act as host and hostesses at the affair.

Members of the council voted to hold the retreat Oct. 26 and 27. Plans call for leaving Eugene for the retreat site Friday afternoon and returning by Saturday noon. Limited to religious council members and the adult directors of campus religious groups, the retreat is designed to allow the council members to become better acquainted and also to outline the council agenda for the year.

Several council members were displeased with Sunday's tour of fraternity houses which interfered with the Sunday evening religious meetings. The council secretary was instructed to send a letter to the Interfraternity Council setting forth the hope that in the future such time mix-ups would not occur.

F. E. Dart, associate professor of physics and council advisor for several terms, announced his resignation to the group for the coming year. He felt that out-of-town commitments during winter and spring term would make it impossible for him to continue as council advisor.

Dodgers Locker Room

(Continued from page four) stopped long enough to motion toward burley Don Newcombe when he was asked who would do his pitching in today's sudden death finale.

"There's the man," Dessen bubbled.

"And you can bet old Newk will give 'em a battle," chimed in Reese.

"Boy, won't that be a ball game," interrupted Snider. "Newcombe against Sal Maglie. We'll have fun."

This was a new gang of Dodgers now. Smiling, overjoyed at their comeback and, now that they had started to hit, almost eager to go against "the Barber" the Giants expect to shave them with.

That's why Labine wasn't getting to much attention as his mates relaxed quickly and talked eagerly of the game. That game was in the books. Wednesday was the big one.

And Labine was content that now he might get a chance to throw in the World Series.

Science Building to Sport Fifteen-inch Telescope

The University's fifteen inch reflector telescope which will be mounted on the north end of the new science building will be a 2,500 percent improvement over the one presently in use, a three inch refractor type.

E. G. Ebbighausen, associate professor of physics, said that the new scope will be of great value to students. It will enable students in the course in astronomy and physical science survey to see firsthand the celestial phenomena which the text photographs illustrate. But the new scope will not be large enough to hold any hope of new discoveries.

The three inch telescope had many disadvantages which the new scope will eliminate. It had to be carried to the place of observation and frequently the instructor and students would get wet feet from the damp grass. Also, as the scope's tripod was set on the ground, lights, trees, and buildings often interfered with observations. Another drawback of the three inch telescope was the fact that it had to be pointed to the observed object by hand.

The new fifteen inch is motor driven, remaining fixed on the object on which it is focused. As it is mounted on top of one of the tallest buildings on the campus, the glare from street lights, windows, and cars will be eliminated. No longer will students have to tramp through the grass to peer into the heavens.

The fifteen inch telescope has approximately 25 times the light-gathering power of the one now in use. This tremendous improvement will make many things before unrevealed quite plain. Other objects, such as the moons of Jupiter, will be much clearer.

The two classes which deal with astronomy will not be able to use the new telescope until spring term, however. It won't be set on its mountings until at least winter term, and the winter months are not kind to star-gazers.

Look out—here comes a shortstop!

Each year many children are killed because they thoughtlessly follow bouncing balls into streets. So watch out for a bouncing ball—a young shortstop may be racing after it. Slow down near schools, playgrounds, and in residential areas.

Be careful—the child you save may be your own!
