Faculty Members To Go to Meeting

Seven University of Oregon faculty members will participate in a two day conference of 550 elementary teachers in Roseburg next Thursday and Friday.

Topic of the conference, which is sponsored by the general extension division of the Oregon state system of higher education, will be "The Role of the United States in World Affairs."

Charles P. Schleicher, professor of political science, and conference coordinator, termed the meeting unique. "I have never heard of a similar conference devoted entirely to a discussion of world affairs," he said.

Other Oregon faculty members taking part in the program are P. S. Dull, associate professor of political science and history; Michael Flach, lecturer in political science; E. S. Wengert, head of the political science department; E. C. Robbins, instructor in economics; Paul B. Means, head of the religion department; and Morton Kroll, instructor in political science.

The conference will consist of morning lectures related to the general topic and afternoon discussion periods. Following the conference a series of lectures will be provided in Myrtle Creek and Roseburg through the months of October, November and December for credit in PS 322 or PS 507.

Lectures will be delivered by Schleicher, E. S. Pomery, associate professor of history; Means; M. D. Wattles, assistant professor of economics; and O. S. Pinckney, instructor in history.

ASUO Will Send Observers To Next NSA Convention

Two reasons, financial, and lack of benefit to the average student. But he added, if the money could be raised (about $200) by the students without going to the administration, he'd be all for it.

The motion to join, passed 9-7 on a show of hands. The defeat came on the roll call ballot.

This motion was made by Miss McLoughlin.

Ebbighausen, speaking for the proposal, said it would be a move toward making students responsible and interested in world affairs, if that was not now the case. "Try it," he urged. "This is one way to make them feel a part of something."

Cheaper Not to Join

Opponents to the "sent observers" was that Oregon could give in the year to decide.

Another argument against NSA included belief it would be cheaper to send observers than join. A less emphasized position of the "joiners" was that Oregon could give strength to NSA on the international scene as well as derive benefits.

Other Senate business included approval of Sarah Turnbull as appointment of Lally, Jackson, Barmember of the Student Court, apy and Miss McLoughlin to the senate screening committee for Homecoming petitions, selection of Arlo Giles as senate member on the Student-Faculty Assembly committee and appointment of Don Paillette, Fraser, Baker and Virginia Wright to assist in selection of Student Union board members.

Report of the budget by Carey was approved.

Oregon Coach Len Casanova was an assistant coach with Santa Clara teams which won Sugar Bowl triumphs over Louisiana State in 1937 21-13 and 1938 (6-0)
