On College Campuses?

How wild are today's college students? What are the real facts about campus morals? Pageant Magazine polled students at fourteen colleges to present a startling survey of the sex habits of 1951's coeds and collegians. No names were asked; all answers were anonymous. The result: the true facts about college sex life. It's like a bull session where everyone really tells the truth. Don't miss "How Wild Are College Students" . . . an intimate 12-page survey in the just-out November issue of

YWCA to Hold 'Pauper Party'

Women transfer students will be honored by the YWCA upperclass commission at a "pauper party" from 3 to 5 p.m. today at the Y headquarters in Gerlinger.

The affair will be informal, Bonnie Birkemeier, chairman of the sponsoring commission, said, with pedal pushers and jeans in order. Upperclassmen are urged to attend and meet the transfers, she said.

Purpose of the party is to get acquainted, Miss Birkemeier said. Bridge will be played and refreshments served.

Those who have assisted in the plans for the event are Gerry Pearson, program; Maggie Powne, refreshments; Jean Lewis, invitations; Kitty Fraser, publicity; Mary Ellen Burrell, promotion; and Barbara Swanson, hospitality.

First News Committee Meeting Slated by 'Y'

The YMCA news committee will hold its first meeting today at 4 p.m. in YMCA offices in the Student Union.

The international affairs committee will meet at 6:30 a.m. in the YMCA offices to discuss its plans for the fall term, according to acting president Pete Stereferk.

Foreign Student Addresses Senate

ASU SENATE members hear Kaare Sandegren, foreign student from Norway, as he explains the objects of the National Students association. Sandegren, who attended the NSA congress in Minneapolis last August, was invited by the senate to present his views on the controversial question of Oregon membership in the organization.

SU Board Appoints New Chairman

Decision to accept the responsibility for the embosograph machines, a poster printing machine previously operated by the University administration, and selection of Don Almy, sophomore in business administration, as new dance committee chairman were the chief actions of the Student Union board at its Wednesday meeting.

Almy was named chairman of the dance committee from a field of three petitioners, replacing Bob Briggs, who has been declared scholastically ineligible.

The embosograph, which makes posters of various kinds and colors was purchased last year at a cost of $797, and placed under the control of the administration until this year's SU board should make the final decision as to who should assume responsibility for it.

Other actions by the board included dissolution of the SU workshop until such time that a need for the committee arises. The committee was described by the board as not now performing any function.

No petitions were received by the board for the vacancies on the board for one student each from the schools of journalism and health and physical education. The board decided to contact the deans of the two schools for recommendations to fill the vacancies.

Paul Lasker, chairman of the SU house committee, made a report on giving the function of Student Union hospitality to the house committee, no such activity now being carried on by the SU. The matter was tabled until the next board meeting.

Student Union Director Dick Williams reported receipt of from $2,400 to $2,500 for the United States Marine band concert at the latest report. A report was given on plans to provide hospitality for the members of the band by the SU board.

It was announced that petitioning for SU committees and activity pool work is open at all times to interested students.

South Carolina adopted the Ordinance of Secession in 1860 as a protest against the election of Lincoln.

He declined.

Press Conference Meets

Delegates will begin arriving Friday for the 25th annual high school conference to be held in the Student Union Friday and Saturday.

The conference will begin Friday afternoon with panel discussions on various phases of newspaper work and yearbook production in high schools. Oregon journalism students and Emerald and Oregon staff members will moderate the panels. These panels will continue Saturday.

During the conference, the delegates and their publication advisers will hear talks by head football coach Len Casanova, R. C. McCall, head of the speech department, some of Oregon's foreign journalism students, and college newspaper cartoonist Dick Bibler.

Nearly 300 students and 55 advisers from 64 schools throughout the state have registered to attend the conference, sponsored by the school of journalism. Schools are allowed four official delegates. They will be housed on campus and in the Eugene area.

Leeper Chosen by APA As Member-at-large

Robert W. Leeper, professor of psychology, has been named as a member-at-large of the executive committee in the general psychology division of the American Psychological association.

Leeper was the psychology department's representative at the APA's Chicago meeting recently. He is also president of the Western Psychological association.
