

Fergusson Gets Publication Post

Francis Fergusson, of the modern languages department of Princeton university, has recently been appointed to the editorial board of the Journal of Comparative Literature, by University President Harry K. Newburn.

Fergusson replaces Austin Warren of the University of Michigan who resigned this summer because of illness. Fergusson's appointment was based upon his nomination by the editor and other staff members.

The latest issue of Comparative Literature which is sponsored by the University of Oregon and printed on the campus, is a special one devoted to a series of articles on realism in America, England, France, Germany, and Russia. The material for the issue was gathered and arranged by Harry Levin, head of the department of comparative literature at Harvard university.

The journal appears quarterly and is now nearing the end of three years of publication. It has already established itself in the field of scholarship and has subscribers in 47 of the states and 36 foreign countries, several of which are behind the Iron Curtain.

Editor Chandler Beall of the foreign languages department here at the university and the staff of editors from six other American schools hope to bring the publication to the attention of the people of the United States, for it seems to be better known in the other countries of the world. The fall edition will appear in late November or early December through the combined efforts of the staff working together across the country.

Soph Honorary To Tap Members

Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary, will admit a small number of new members this term, it was decided at the honorary's meeting Wednesday.

Members of Skull and Dagger feel there are some qualified sophomore men who were not admitted to the organization last spring and who should be admitted now, John Beal, president, said.

A call for petitions for membership was made, deadline being set at 12 noon next Wednesday. All sophomore men with a grade point average of 2.0 or better are eligible.

Plans for punishing violators of the beard-growing tradition during Sophomore Whiskerino by dunking in Fenton Hall pool were discussed. Also discussed were plans for decorating goal posts at the Oregon-Washington game in Portland Saturday.

Season Theater Ducats On Sale in Houses

University theater house representatives are now selling season tickets in living organizations for this year's theater productions.

Price of the tickets is $5. They will be available through Oct. 19.

The tickets will admit holders to the five regularly scheduled performances of the theater. In addition, there will be at least three bonus performances for ticket owners.

Marine Concert Features Marches, Classics, Pops

The marines have landed! The United States Marine band, the oldest symphonic band in America, will perform at 8 p.m. tonight in McArthur court under the auspices of the 75th anniversary committee and the Student Union board.

Maj. William F. Santelmann will direct the band in its performance which will include symphonic selections, works by American composers, light classics, novelties, and special arrangements of popular works, interspersed with the Marine band's marches, according to O. W. Trapp, tour manager.

Tickets in SU
Tickets are available at the main desk in the Student Union. Reserved seat tickets are $1.80, general admission $1.20, and student admission 70 cents.

The annals of the Marine band are replete with historical significance. It was the first band in the U. S. military service; the first to receive Congressional recognition; the first symphonic musical organization in the country, preceding even the New York Philharmonic; and the first band to broadcast over radio and the first to be presented in a series of concerts on television.

The band has played at every inauguration since that of Thomas Jefferson and every president since then has heard the band while in office. It is called upon for all White House official functions and once played for the wedding of President Grover Cleveland under its leader at that time, John Philip Sousa.

Praised by Critics

Manthei Howe, music critic of the Marquette, Mich., Mining Journal, said of the Marine band, "For once in my life, band music proved completely satisfying."

Herbert Elwell, music critic of the Cleveland, Ohio, Plain Dealer, in speaking of the band, said, "Of special interest to anyone like myself who does not frequently hear band music, was the suppleness and great variety of texture of the Marine band."

Now in its 153rd year, the Marine band, is performing in Eugene as a part of a tour which will carry it over 10,000 miles and through 20 states in the East, Middle West and the Far West.

Homecoming Post Sought by Two

Frances Gilmore, junior in liberal arts, and Karl Harshbarger, sophomore in speech, will be submitted to the ASUO Senate tonight as candidates for Homecoming chairman upon the recommendation of the ASUO Homecoming screening committee.

The committee selected the two candidates at a meeting Wednesday evening following interviews of petitioners.

Other petitioners were Tom Wrightson, Jack Beyers, Neil Chase, and Rex Balentine.

Members of the screening committee interviewing the petitioners were Dave Rodway, Virginia Wright, Tom Barry, and Helen Jackson.

14 Seek Spots On Rally Board

Petitioners for vacancies on the rally board were narrowed to 14 Wednesday night by the ASUO Senate rally board screening committee.

The 14 names go before the Senate tonight for that body's reduction to the number of vacancies on the board. Ten members are needed to complete the rally board, according to Ron Symons, chairman.

The screening committee selected the 14 students after interviewing the 26 who remained following the process of narrowing down petitions of the original applicants. Petitions originally submitted to the Senate numbered 47.

The 14 applicants whose names will go before the Senate tonight are Sunny Allen, Pat Booth, Lanelle Gay, Frances Gilmore, Bob Glasson, John Gram, Joan Lawson, Jack Nichols, Davia Saul, Janet Shaw, Bob Stageberg, Verla Thompson, Denise Thum and Paul Weller.

Name Chapter Leaves DU Fold

BRUNSWICK, ME.—(AP)—Bowdoin college chapter has divorced itself from Delta Upsilon fraternity. The national organization's disapproval of the pledging of Negroes was described as Bowdoin's reason for the move.

UO Chapter Surprised

News of Delta Upsilon's Bowdoin college chapter withdrawing from the national fraternity came as a surprise to the Oregon DU chapter last night.

"I had no idea the national disapproved it," said Willie Dodds, chapter president who attended the national convention in Michigan in September. Delta Upsilon has a negro alumnus, he said.

"We don't have any racial clauses in our constitution either," he remarked. "The only qualification for membership is that a man be enrolled in school."

The situation at Bowdoin, which involves the pledging of a negro, was known last spring, he said. The Oregon chapter as believing each man considered for membership should be judged on his own merits, not his color, Dodds explained.

He said he thought all the member chapters of the fraternity's western province, which includes schools in Oregon, California and Canada, had voiced similar opinions.

The monk Paisi wrote his History of the Bulgarian people in 1762, the work generally taken to mark the beginning of the Bulgarian national renaissance.

In the Gaspee affair of 1772, a revenue boat, whose commander's conduct had enraged public opinion in Rhode Island, was burned by a mob in Narragansett Bay.
