

Spanish Club to Meet

A meeting of the Spanish honorary, Sigma Delta Pi, open to any interested student, will be held Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in the Student Union. L. O. Wright, professor of romance languages, announced.

Student Court States Meeting In SU Tonight

The first meeting of the year for the student court will be at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Student Union. Some traffic violations will be handled, although the meeting will be mostly organizational, Mike Adams, chairman, announced.

Tickets for traffic violations are mostly organizational, Mike Adams now being issued by the campus policemen after two weeks of warning tickets. Violators are to pay their fines at the office of student affairs or appear before the court at tonight's session, Adams said.

A proposal to be made to the Senate concerning an increase in the court's jurisdiction will also be discussed by the court members, Fred Risser, Sarah Turnbull, John Beal, Ron Lowell and Adams.

Christmas Employment Open in Eugene Area

Students wishing Christmas vacation jobs in the Portland and Eugene areas may now sign up at the university employment office, according to Shirley Sylvester, manager.

Positions will be open in post offices, retail stores and business offices, Miss Sylvester said. Jobs are limited and applications should be made as soon as possible, she said.

German Club to Present

Ulrich Trumpener, foreign student from Berlin, Germany in history, will speak at a coffee hour sponsored by the Germany honorary Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Gerlinger.

Coffee and cookies will be served and all students interested in the German language and culture are invited, W. A. Roecker, assistant professor of German, says.

Religious Council Meets to Discuss Reception, Retreat

Last minute plans for the Foreign Student Reception and final preparations for the University Religious Council retreat were made at the group's noon meeting Monday in Westminster House.

Natalie Beckett, chairman of hosts and hostesses for the 8 p.m. Sunday reception, told all religious council members to appear at the Student Union shortly before the affair, the men wearing suits and the women short silks.

Jane Simpson, chairman for the Council retreat, announced that all council members attending the over-night confab would meet at 4 p.m. Friday in front of Gerlinger Hall. The retreat will take place at a Baptist lodge several miles outside Eugene.

All council members were urged by Jack Merner, University YWCA secretary, to encourage students in their respective campus religious groups to attend the talks of Mrs. Lois M. Wichman, a worker for the Student Volunteer Movement, who will be on the campus Sunday and Monday.

The Volunteer Movement speaker will talk on the importance of having greater unity among religious groups today in light of the crucial international crisis and also try to interest students in the many important jobs open in the Christian vocation.

The next meeting of the council will be at noon Monday in Westminster House.

Inquiring Reporter Edits, Sports In Emerald Most Popular

Students showed definite preferences for certain sections of the Emerald when they were asked, "Which section of the Emerald do you like best, and which the least?"

Most of the girls favored the editorial page, while they showed the least interest in sports events. Four out of five men questioned said they prefer the sports page. The dislikes of the men varied.

Kathy Burgess—sophomore in art—"The editorial page is the one I choose. The letters to the editor are interesting. I don't read the sports page."

Bob Hewett—junior in sociology—"The sports section is the best. Club news can go!"

Don Monte—sophomore in business administration—"I like everything in the Emerald. We ought to have even more of what they print. Sports section is my favorite."

Alice Ohling—junior in education—"The world news section is the most interesting. The only section I really don't read is the sports section."

Kenny Hickenbottom—freshman in liberal arts—"I couldn't do without the sports section. We can read the world news other places, and I seldom read that section."

Helen Shanks—junior in education—"The editorial page is good, and I read it first. Sports are important to the fellows, but I don't read that section."

Lowell Schuck—sophomore in business—"Sports! I always read about sports events. Some of the editorials should be cut out."

Ruth Finney—sophomore in music—"After I read Bibler's cartoons, I read the rest of the editorial page. I don't read about sports."

Al Kershaw—junior in business administration—"The front page is the one I choose, because it has the most news about school. I don't care too much for some of the editorials."

AWS Reporter Position Open

The position of AWS reporter is open to any sophomore women with a 2.00 GPA interested in petitioning for the position, Nancy Allison, AWS president, announced.

Petitions may be turned in to Miss Allison at Hendricks Hall; Helen Jackson, Carson 5; Marilyn Thompson, Delta Delta Delta; Elaine Hartung, Alpha Chi Omega; or Joan Walker, Kappa Alpha Theta.

The reporter will serve on the AWS cabinet and handle the publicity and promotion for all organization functions. The reporter is also in charge of keeping up the AWS scrapbook.

SU Schedules Shaw's Comedy

"Pygmalion," the Bernard Shaw comedy, will be shown at 2:30 and 4:15 p.m. Sunday in the Student Union ballroom, Sandra Price, SU movie chairman, has announced.

The movie concerns a language professor who transforms an illiterate flower girl into a gracious lady, and then falls in love with his creation, according to Miss Price. Leslie Howard and Wendy Hillier are the stars of the film. Admission price is 30 cents.
