The third group of candidates in the Betty Coed, Joe College contest are Cathy Tribe, Marty Hankinson and Don Parr.

Marty Hankinson

Alpha Tau Omega's candidate for Joe College is "Marty" Hankinson, an accounting major from Hillsboro.

Hankinson is 5 feet 9½ inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, and has brown hair and brown eyes.

The 19-year-old sophomore likes "sports of all types and building models of all sorts."

"I feel very honored to be selected as one of the finalists out of such an outstanding group that was represented," Hankinson said when asked of his reaction to his selection.

Hankinson is active in intramural sports, and at the present time holds three chairmanships: homecoming chairman for ATO; house chairman for the helping of crippled children's home; and rushing chairman for the sophomore class in his fraternity.

Cathy Tribe

Cathy Tribe, 19 year old brunette from Eugene, Oregon, is the fourth of the Betty Coed candidates to be interviewed by the Emerald.

Swimming is one of her favorite pastimes, although she just started learning this year in P.E. The other sport in which her main interest lies is baseball. She adds, "I never get tired of watching it."

Miss Tribe, 5 foot 2 inches, 113 pounds, is a member of this year's rally squad. Her other activities include promotion co-chairman for the Sophomore Whiskerino, YWCA sophomore cabinet vice president, and Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, of which she is treasurer. She works part time in the School of Business Administration, and at an insurance company (Mutual Benefit of Omaha) on Saturdays.

The Alpha Phi candidate stated, "I think the plans for this year's Whiskerino are really coming swell. I hope we can make it the biggest success ever!" When asked her comment on being selected as a finalist, Miss Tribe replied, "I've never spent a more exciting week in my life. Everything has been loads of fun—the interviews, the radio broadcast, and especially the chances I've had to meet so many people."

Don Parr lists Roseburg as his home town. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, fraternity. Don is 19 years old, and a sophomore in the Speech department.

He is 6 feet in height and weighs 180. His hair is black and he has hazel eyes.

Parr's spare time is spent hunting or fishing. He also is interested in radio announcing and hopes to make radio work his career.

From the preparation that Parr has seen he believes that this year's Whiskerino will carry out the tradition of being one of the highlights of the college year.

His activities include Skull and Dagger, Alpha Phi Omega, national service honorary, and chairman of the beard growing committee.

Wright to Speak At Town Hall

Gordon Wright, acting head of the history department, recently returned from Europe, will be one of four speakers in this evening's night's little town hall session of "Can Democracy Be Saved for Western Europe?"

Other speakers on the forum, scheduled for 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, are Wesley G. Nicholson, minister of the Congregational church; Preben Nielsen, Eugene business man; and John A. Kirk, Eugene physician. All four speakers recently spent time in Europe and will base their remarks upon personal observations.

Members of the audience will be allowed to direct questions at the speakers following the talks. Moderator for the forum will be Robert D. Clark, member of the YMCA little town hall committee.

A refreshment and social period will follow the discussion.

Dancing Offered by SU

Modern ballroom dancing is being offered by the Student Union recreational committee, John McAloon, chairman of the committee, has announced.

An instructor is needed for the class, and any student wishing to act in this capacity is asked to contact Gloria Barry at the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, 5-9662.

dom that we have come to be," suggested Hunter. "Then we can see how the United Nations can affect us."

He asserted that of the 40 billion people who have lived since the time of Christ, all but 1.5 billion "lived in slavery"—less than one in every thirty was free.

Even today, he added, some 800 million people live under the "most monstrous tyranny this world has ever seen."

Wealthy Nation

However, he asked, why does the United States, with only five per cent of the world's population, contain over half of the earth's wealth with most of that wealth distributed to the masses?

Answering his own question, he declared that this great American prosperity has come into existence "because instruments of freedom have been developed as we came down the path of history to the present."

"The U.N. Charter," stated the chancellor, "is the lineal descendant of the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and other instruments of freedom."

Inequities Exist

Admitting that our present freedoms do not mean an end to inequities of laissez faire and powerful economic organizations, Hunter declared that these inequities are "a drop in the bucket" compared to the other inequities common throughout the entire history of man.

Commenting upon the possibility of surrendering our capitalistic structure to Communism or state socialism, he stated bluntly, "We're not going to give it up." Capitalism has fought us through two world wars and has contributed to our high standard of living, and although changes are needed, the basic structure should remain, he said.

The chancellor added that freedom consists of (1) our 175,000 local administrative governmental units, (2) a free economy, (3) freedom of worship and (4) intellectual freedom (including freedom to learn, freedom to teach and freedom of communication).

Communists Should Not Teach

However, he does not favor public school teaching by Communists, because "Communists are not free to seek the truth."

Hunter listed the achievements of the UN—settling of the Israel dispute, "handling of the Indonesian problem, the treaty with Japan—probably the first great Christian treaty in history."

Nevertheless, he admitted that the structure is only "partially perfect." "Its birth is probably one of the most important events of our time," he added.

The program closed with Sergeant Cheek's unscheduled talk in which he emphasized the use of force for the attainment of world peace.

Bill Schlosser, chairman of the program, told the reporter after the program that Cheek's speech "in no way represented the spirit or intent of the day." President Tolbert McCarroll of the University International Relations Club, which sponsored the program, stated: "No comment."

Dancers Perform

The program opened with brightly costumed dancers performing dances from Mexico, Denmark, Naples, Guatemala, Israel and other nations. Songs from France and India also were included.

After Hunter's talk, high school girls and Boy Scouts carried the various UN flags to the stage. The colorful banners had been made by the high school girls.

Those Eugene area children born six years ago, on the date of the formation of the UN, then carried birthday candles to the stage. The program was entitled, "We're Going to Bake a Cake."

AWS Petitions Due

Committee chairmanship petitions for the Associated Women Students auction are due at 5 p.m. Friday. The petitions may be turned in to Joan Kappel at the Pi Beta Phi house.

Chairmanship vacancies exist for the publicity, poster, decorations, property, and flying speech committees.

Lecture Features Sun Problems

Walter Orr Roberts, astrophysicist, will speak on "Unsolved Problems of the Sun's Atmosphere," in a lecture at 8 p.m. today in room 207 Chapman.

Roberts has worked extensively with the coronagraph, an instrument for inducing artificial eclipses of the sun to study the corona, as superintendent of the Climax, Colo. high altitude station of Harvard university and the University of Colorado.

The lecture will include color movies taken through the coronagraph.

Radio Comedy Logged For KWAX Tonight

"Night Bus", a radio comedy, will be enacted by the Radio Workshop players at 6:30 p.m. today over KWAX.

Glenn Starlin, faculty adviser for the station, is director of the production.

Included in the cast are Ken Warren, Kathleen Wisdom, Cliff Cole, Bob Chambers, Don Dodds, Jerry McCall and Sylvia Wingard.
