Late Dates, Ideal Girl Among Topics Discussed by Panel of Campus Men

By Kitty Fraser

Money spent on dates, the "ideal girl," gripes on various habits of college women, accepting last minute dates, Christmas gifts, pinning and corsages all came in for discussion by a panel of Joe College candidates and other campus men Wednesday at the installation of freshman YWCA officers.

With "no holds barred", the group of freshman women attending fired questions at the panel and got their answers, plus a few more the fellows added of their own accord. Panel members were Wayne Carothers, Don Parr, Marty Hankinson, Jim Redden, Don Almy and Bob Briggs.

The first topic which came up for discussion was whether or not women should share in the expenses on dates. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that for an occasional date, the man should pay. But Hankinson stated that when a couple is going steady, some arrangements could be made once in a while for the woman to share in the expenses.

Parr said in relation to the topic, "A lot of fellows are working their way through school and can't put two through." Some fellows would like to have financial help from their dates, Carothers said, but are embarrassed to take it.

Ideal Woman Defined

The ideal woman was identified as one who is completely natural, and "doesn't put on airs." Don Parr went a little farther and said she should be "five foot five, with dark hair that is long and not go in for fads."

The group generally agreed that extreme fads were not popular with them. One panel member asked a question as to what those "shoes with the three inch wooden soles were." After an explanation that they were wooden shoes, the group decided that they were "all right." "When you see a dainty thing 'clomping' down the sidewalk, it makes you stop and look anyway."

The subject of women who are late on dates was given some attention. One member of the panel explained though that "usually a girl is always on time or she never is."

A number of "gripes" on women's habits were presented in answer to another question. Carothers disliked two types of women, the one who talked all the time and the one who didn't talk at all.

Parr brought up the subject of smoking, stating that his gripe was the woman who obviously smoked to "show off and was really only just waving a cigarette around in the air." The group agreed that if a man doesn't smoke, his date shouldn't either. A woman dating a man who did smoke was under no obligation to do so herself, they decided.

Too Much Make-up Cited

Hankinson said that his gripe was a woman who tried to "put on" and he stated that a woman should "be herself." Redden spoke up against women who obviously wore too much make-up. Almy was in favor of the "friendly" woman who always spoke to acquaintances on campus.

In answer to a question on whether or not to accept a date for Friday night asked for at 4 p.m. the same day, the panel said there was nothing wrong in accepting it as usually a fellow, if he does wait until then, he has a good excuse. They did say that a man shouldn't do it often to the same girl.

Advice on what to give a man for a birthday or Christmas gift was handed out by the panel. They said that such items as sport shirts, argyles, cuff links or "anything useable" was always welcome.

Pinning, it was decided, is an individual matter. Some fellows get pinned just to have dates, but the panel felt that pinning should mean a lot. One defined it as "engaged to be engaged" and they all agreed that it should be considered quite seriously.

Orchids Not Necessary

The last topic discussed was in answer to a question posed by one of the freshmen women, "Why do the fellows always think they have to get you an orchid corsage for a date?"

AF Undertakes Officer Selection

Thirteen second-year advanced air force ROTC students are being interviewed this week for possible selection as honor graduates for commissions in the regular air force.

The interviews, which began Wednesday and will continue today, are being conducted by a board of three officers of the air force who are visiting the campus.

The 13 students are Dick Kading, Bob Massingill, Everett Eldridge, Jack Smith, Glenn Torrey, Homn Molden, Norman Hanson, Jim Bradford, John Jones, Ronald Kovar, Fred Ricketts, Lyle Jans and John Chaney.

To be eligible to apply for a regular commission a student must have been designated as a distinguished military student at the end of his first year of advanced air force ROTC.

A cadet who is selected as a distinguished military student must have an academic standing among the upper one-third of the students within air force ROTC and an academic standing among the upper one-half of all students in a similar major.

He must also possess outstanding qualities of military leadership, high moral character, and show definite aptitude for military service.

Vanishing Coed Mystery Solved

A hike in wages led to the brief disappearance of a Northwest Christian college girl from her dormitory Tuesday night.

Police, receiving a call from an NCC dorm at 9:40 p.m. Tuesday, were told that Letha Brooks, 18, had vanished. She was to have been baby sitting, a young lady told an officer, but the man she was to have worked for called asking where she was.

The mystery was cleared up at 10:15 p.m. when Miss Brooks returned to the dorm. Yes, she had been baby sitting, but for another couple. They paid better. She had forgotten to sign out of her dormitory before going on the evening job.

Concert to Open Diamond Jubilee In McArthur Court

A concert by the University Symphony orchestra in McArthur court at 8:15 p.m. today will officially open the University of Oregon's 75th anniversary celebration. The concert is open to the public and there is no charge for admission.

About 150 delegates from institutions of higher learning throughout the United States and Canada will arrive today for the anniversary celebration which continues through Sunday. Delegates will register from 3 to 5 p.m. today in the Dad's Lounge of the Student Union.

Faust Featured Speaker at SU Dinner Friday

Clarence Faust of the Ford Foundation and Stanford university will speak on "The Role of Humanities in a University" Friday night at a 6:30 p.m. dinner at the Student Union. The dinner is in honor of delegates and guests attending the University of Oregon 75th Anniversary celebration.

Faust joined the faculty of Stanford, and attended Drake university, North Central college, Evangelical Theology seminary and the University of Chicago.

In 1924 he was ordained to the ministry of the Evangelical church. He joined the faculty of the University of Arkansas in 1929, and served as an instructor of English there until 1930.

In 1930 he became an instructor of English at the University of Chicago and rose to the position of dean of the college in 1941. He became dean of the graduate library school in 1946.

Faust joined the faculty of Stanford university in 1947, as director of libraries. Since 1948 he has been dean of humanities and sciences there. He was acting president of the university from January to April, 1949.

He is co-author of the book "Jonathan Edwards," published in 1935.

'Eugene Story' Slated at Heilig

University of Oregon students will become screen personalities Monday when the Heilig theater presents the first showing of the full length color feature "The Eugene Story."

Scenes in various classrooms, the library, the Student Union and on the campus have been included in the film which is being produced by Reelife Productions of Hollywood.

The movie will also feature shots of the fraternity-sorority sponsored Halloween party, the Saturday night dance in the Student Union and highlights of the Oregon-Washington football game in Portland with scenes of the student body.

The film, which will run approximately one hour on the screen, contains a wide coverage of activities in the Eugene area. It will be narrated and will have a musical background.

A companion feature will accompany "The Eugene Story" which will play at the Heilig Monday through Wednesday.

'Beat Idaho' Signs Asked for Saturday

Campus living organizations are requested by the rally board to make rough "beat Idaho" signs and display them in front of their houses Friday evening and Saturday.

The signs will be part of the campus backing of the Oregon team Rally Board Chairman Ron Symons announced.

Edmund Cykler, professor of music, will direct the 80-piece orchestra which will be featured in Brahms' Symphony No. 2.

Exine Anderson, soprano, one of the two guest soloists, is a new member of the School of Music faculty, coming to the University of Oregon after extensive concert work in New York City. Miss Anderson is a Metropolitan Opera company award winner.

Schedule for today's 75th anniversary events:

3-5 p.m.: Registration of delegates, Student Union.

8:15 p.m.: Anniversary concert, McArthur court.

The second soloist, George Hopkins, professor of piano, has been featured on numerous occasions as soloist with symphony orchestras, and has played several times with the Portland Symphony orchestra. A graduate of the University of Oregon, Professor Hopkins has been a faculty member since 1925.

Cyklar came to the university four years ago from Occidental college in Los Angeles where he was professor of music. Prior to that time, he was chairman of the department of music at Los Angeles City college for 15 years.

Program numbers Thursday night will include in addition to the Brahms' symphony, arias by Verdi and Bizet, sung by Miss Anderson, and MacDowell's Piano Concerto No. 2, played by Hopkins.

Friday's Emerald To Run 20 Pages

Friday's edition of the Emerald will feature the 75th anniversary of the University of Oregon.

A 20-page issue, it will trace the growth of the University since its founding in 1876. Features on important persons, including the oldest living ex-student of the institution, will be displayed along with old pictures dating as far back as 1883, a history of athletics and pictures of the eight men who have held the presidency of the school.

The feature section, with two full pages in color, will take up 12 pages. A regular eight-page news section will be added.

Fourteen Named Weekend Finalists

Fourteen girls were selected last night as semi-finalists in the contest for Homecoming queen.

The semi-finalists are: Lyn Hartley, Sally Hayden, Jody Greer, Ann Carson, Betty-Coe Riles, Marilyn Thompson Mollie Muntzel, Carolee Tate, Helen Jackson, Maggie Powne, Virginia Wright, Ann Irwin, Barbara Bates and Nancy Miller.

Final eliminations will be held tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. on the second floor of Gerlinger Hall.

Young Republicans Cancel Meeting

The Young Republicans meeting scheduled for today has been postponed until Nov. 7 due to conflict with the 75th anniversary celebration.

JIFC Meeting Held Concerning Plans for Future Campus Existence

The prospects for the Junior Inter-Fraternity Council's continued existence in its present form are very good, according to Bill Walker, president, following a JIFC meeting this week.

At the last meeting of the JIFC, it was stated that the organization was not recognized on campus and that it had no purpose for existing. Tuesday's meeting brought out several ideas why the council should exist.

Among the reasons discussed was the possibility that the organization could set up a council in the dormitories to help freshman pledges on problems they might have concerning fraternities following winter term rushing.

Walker said that the council recognizes the fact that the Oregon living-in plan is here to stay and will work with it as much as possible.

Dick McLaughlin, president of Inter-Fraternity council, told the junior council what the IFC felt the council could do alright if they continue to exist. Among the suggestions given by McLaughlin was the JIFC sponsorship of a pledge dance, work with the Red Cross and building of good will for the Oregon fraternities.

Chuck Soderburg, Sigma Nu, was elected second vice president to replace Karl Harshbarger, who resigned.

Walker appointed two committees. One, headed by Soderburg, was instructed to study and revise the JIFC constitution. The other committee was appointed to meet with IFC and work out the problems of the Junior Inter-Fraternity council with the senior group. Gunning Butler is chairman. Assisting him are Bob Carlson, Ken Sipe and Duane Stoddard.
