

One of Oregon's Darker Days

A TRYING MOMENT in University history is depicted on the front page of the Chicago Daily Sun Times, May 19, 1950. Students gathered to protest advent of deferred living at Oregon. Event was given considerably more attention outside state.

Survey Shows Oregon to Win In Next Game

By Sue Lichty

Oregon will win the Idaho game Saturday if the opinions of Oregon students are correct.

Of the students interviewed, only one mentioned the likelihood of an Idaho win, pointing out Oregon's loss of so many players. Most felt if the spirit was good, the team could still pull through for a win.

When asked, "Who will win the Oregon-Idaho game?" they answered:

Kay Maier—sophomore in liberal arts—"I'm sure we'll win if everybody yells as loud as I do."

Dave Mæcklem—sophomore in business administration—"Oregon. The team's been working pretty hard out there."

Miriam Goddard—sophomore in liberal arts—"It's a toss-up, but I'll give Oregon the edge, and stick up for the old home team."

Jo Chase—sophomore in liberal arts—"We should win. Our team must be better than Idaho's."

Paul Lasker—sophomore in liberal arts—"If the spirit is there, how could Oregon lose?"

Lois Williams—senior in speech—"If the team plays up to its capacity, I'm sure we can win. However, with the list of injuries, it's any team's race."

Lowell Aplet—senior in physics—"Oregon is going to have a pretty rough time with Novikoff, Dunham and Davenport out of the game."

Carol Rau—sophomore in liberal arts—"Oregon. Best team, best spirit, best campus."

Ron Parelus—junior in business administration—"Oregon. We're bound to win. We've got to win a game sometime."

Kincaid Athletic Field was located where Chapman hall now stands.

Radio Play Tryouts Scheduled For Today

Tryouts for the Radio Workshop production, "Nemesis," will be held from 3:15 to 5 p.m. today in Studio A, third floor Villard, according to Ansel Resler, director.

Anyone is eligible to read for parts, said Resler. The play offers unusual opportunity for "psychological characterization."

"Nemesis" will be broadcast Thursday at 4:30 p.m. KOAC and at 6:30 p.m. over KWAX.

Robert Fulton made the first practical steamboat trip on the Clermont in 1807. He left New York Aug. 17, and reached Albany, 150 miles away, in 32 hours.
