Ducks Gird for Idaho; Three Key Players Out

Maple Team Scrimmages

By Rick Tarr

The first major basketball scrimmage of the year was held in Mac Court Thursday. Bill Borchert sent his wild but willing crew against the Copping's Service team of A.A.U. standing. The game was preceded by an hour of offense-defense and free throw drills. Coach Borchert didn't publicize this workout because he was worried about a ragged showing by his men. His fears were partly justified.

The Copping squad arrived at about four p.m. and went into the game fifteen minutes later after (Please turn to page seven)

Webfoots Out to Break Four-Game Losing Streak; Trackmen Slated at Half

By Bill Gurney

'No heavy contact' was again the order of the day as Coach Len Casanova's injury-ridden Oregon football team continued preparations Thursday for the Saturday clash with the Idaho Vandals on Hayward field.

Asked about Duck chances to break a four game losing streak, the Oregon mentor said:

"We certainly could have used Dunham, Novikoff, and Dav-enport for this game, but since we have done no heavy scrimmaging this week, we hope to enter the game fresh, and ready to give the Vandals a good battle."

Thursday's drills, which lasted until nearly dark, started with work on fundamentals, including the charging machine, for the linemen, under the eye of Line Coach Gene Harlow and Casanova.

Meanwhile, the backs ran through an extensive signal drill with Backfield Coach John McKay and Assistant Mentor Jack Roche doing the supervising.

Punt Practice

Punting and punt return practice was next on the agenda, with junior End Ken Sweitzer, freshman Quarterback George Shaw, and sophomore Quarterback Barney Holland doing the booting. Two full platoons of offensive and defensive gridders went through the motions of going down with, and returning punts without heavy body contact.

The defensive unit was using a double safety setup, with Halfback Tom Edwards and Fullback Ron Lyman beginning the drill at these posts. Others, who later tried their hand at returning punts were George Shaw, who has played safely much of the time this season, Jerry Mock, Dennis Sullivan, and Merritt Barber, 155 pound freshman halfback from Eugene, moved up to the varsity only Wednesday.

Face "Idaho" Squad

After several minutes of punting, the squad broke up into two units: Line Coach Gene Harlow coached his defensive platoon in play against a simulated Idaho squad made up of Bill Bowerman's junior varsity. Bill Fell, JV left halfback, acted the part of Glen Christian, star runner for the Vandals split-T formation.

Coach Len Casanova meanwhile directed the offensive varsity in dummy scrimmage against reserves. In the varsity backfield were George Shaw at quarterback, (Please turn to page seven)

Idaho Boasts Three Wins Over Webfoots, One-game Win Streak

By Chuck Plummer

The Oregon-Idaho football series, which dates back to 1901, shows Oregon definitely out ahead in the 36 games played. Oregon has won 29, Idaho three, while four have ended in ties.

Idaho broke a 25-year Duck win streak in 1950 when they defeated the Oregonians 14-0. It was the first game the Vandals had won since 1925. Oregon won only one out of 10 games that year, and Idaho broke loose two speedy halfbacks, John Brogan and Glen Christian, who ran wild.

In 1924, when the Vandals won their first game from Oregon, the Ducks journeyed to the Palouse country and found the Idaho football field covered by a heavy snow. Numerous Oregon fumbles and mixups in signals helped the Vandals to conquer the Webfoots 13-0. In 1925, Idaho won, 6-0, for their last victory until 1950.

The most exciting of the tie games came in 1901, in the first game of the series. Both teams ran wild, but couldn't make paydirt, and the game ended a 0-0 tie.

Highest Score

The worst defeat ever handed the Vandals by Oregon was in 1949, when the Webfoots rolled 41-0. Oregon fullback Bob Sanders personally accounted for 122 yards rushing and three of Oregon's six touchdowns. The Webfoots led by (Please turn to page 10)
