Chinese Reds Smash U.N. Lines, Capture Third Hill in Three Days

Compiled by Mary Ann Mowery

(From the Wires of Associated Press and United Press)

Waves of screaming Chinese Reds supported by tanks smashed through United Nations lines on the western front Tuesday and captured a hill, the third they have taken and held in three days of heavy attacks.

Allied communications were cut, two of the U.N. companies were overrun, and a retreat was necessary.

An 8th Army communique said the Communists three tanks, self-propelled guns, artillery and mortars into action with "a heavy concentration of fire." It was estimated that 2,500 rounds of artillery and mortar fire fell between midnight and dawn.

But although the enemy won the hill, a U.N. soldier stated: Chinese bodies were piled, buried and strewn all over the place, some of them were lying there three deep."

Immediate agreement on a cease-fire line . . .

. . . was demanded by the Communists Tuesday in an attempt to prevent further United Nations advances into North Korea.

A U.N. briefing officer said the Reds were trying to stop the fighting in Korea without a formal armistice so that they could stall as long as they wished on such questions as the fate of thousands of Allied war prisoners.

The Allied side rejected that proposal, saying it would give the Reds all the advantages of an armistice without actually having one.

An exchange of shots . . .

. . . took place between British sentries and Egyptians who fired on an English anti-aircraft battery in the Suez canal zone near Ismailia.

The Egyptians, who are presumed to be underground members, tried to come forward when the British commanded them to surrender. Instead they fired on the British and received the sentries' fire in return.

The British also reported that Army signal corps trucks were the objects of fire by Egyptians in long flowing robes.

"Al Misri," a newspaper close to the government Wafdist party, said Tuesday that British tanks and armored cars besieged the Egyptian governor's palace at Port Said last night. The British forcibly released an Egyptian contractor who supplies food to British camps, the newspaper also said.

President Truman acted . . .

. . . a few hours after the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called a strike for tomorrow afternoon on the Chicago and Northwestern, Baltimore and Ohio and the Louisville and Nashville railroads and the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis.

The president acted after the National Mediation board reported that interference with the Army's operation of the lines would result in calling the strike. Firemen Chief D. E. Robertson said the "strike action is the only course left open to obtain long-overdue increases in wages and improved working conditions."

The Railroad Conductors and Engineers are also involved in the dispute, but have not threatened to strike.

No political talk . . .

. . . was the word from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower before he took off for Paris Tuesday. The general has said he is determined not to express any partisan views as long as he is commander of the joint defense forces in western Europe. This does not put him completely out of the picture, though, for he said he would speak up "positively and definitely" when his "duty compels" him.

The general said his visit to the United States was not made for political reason, but to discuss military affairs, including equipment for his western European Defense forces.

Big Four conference . . .

. . . including Winston Churchill, Generalissimo Stalin and President Truman was hinted at by the newly-elected prime minister in a speech to the House of Commons. A similar suggestion was made in Paris Tuesday by French President Vincent Auriol, opening the United Nations assembly.

Churchill also announced his determination to leave British troops in the Canal Zone and to retrieve Britain's position in the Iranian oil crisis.

He said too, that if Britain continued to have an excess of imports over exports it would only lead to bankruptcy.

Churchill told Commons he would hold a special secret session on defense soon.

Now, sleet and rain . . .

. . . in the midwest and the cold and threatening weather in the northern states kept many voters from the polls in scattered state and municipal elections. Party leaders agree that the results will not fit the national pattern too well.

The Coast Guard at Seattle . . .

. . . has reported receiving a radio call for help from the 7,000-ton tug "George Walton." The report said the engine room was on fire and the vessel was out of control.

The crew was reported to be abandoning the ship 390 miles west of Cape Flattery.

Agents for owners of the vessel said there were 39 men aboard. It is loaded with a cargo of wheat, which it took on at Longview.

Deadline Fixed For Meal Cards

Deadline for getting dormitory meal tickets for the Thanksgiving weekend is 5 p.m. Nov. 15.

The tickets, covering the four-day period from Nov. 22 through Nov. 25, cost $6.20. They may be procured from the dormitory office, Carson hall, the housemother of Hendricks hall, or the food supervisors in Straub and Vet's cafeterias.

Students wishing to pay for meals on an individual basis will be charged the normal rate of 45 cents for breakfast, 65 cents for lunch, and $1.10 for dinner.

MEETINGS---

The University of Oregon Insurance Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. today to elect new officers and draw up by-laws for the coming year, Secretary Don Bowman announced.

The regional YMCA - YWCA committee on summer work projects for students met Saturday in Corvallis to discuss their program for the coming summer, according to Merner, executive secretary for the University YMCA.

The committee decided to continue a work project in the canneries at Milton-Freewater, Ore. Students will work in the pea canneries there while doing volunteer work in the migrant labor camps in the area, Merner said.

The possibility of having students participate in an industry and leadership training program in Seattle next summer also was discussed. The students would work in industries in Seattle and in their free time attend a leadership school, Merner stated.

Attending the Corvallis meeting from the University of Oregon were Jack Merner, Dave Hobbs, president of the YMCA; Jackie Wilkes, director; and Mary Elizabeth McDowell, secretary.

YMCA Committee

The YMCA recreation committee will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the offices of the YMCA in the Student Union.

Prexy to Attend IFC Conference

Dick McLaughlin, president of Interfraternity Council, will attend the western regional IFC conference to be held Thursday through Saturday at San Jose State college, San Jose, Calif.

McLaughlin will attend discussion groups concerning various phases of fraternity problems such as rushing, scholarship, chapter finance, public relations and social problems.

Colleges attending the conference will be Montana State, Arizona university, University of Nevada, UCLA, Fresno State, University of California, College of Puget Sound, and University of Southern California.

Balkan, Mexican Village Movies Show in Chapman

"Spotlight on the Balkans" and "Zapotec Village" are the movies to be shown in 207 Chapman hall tonight at 7:30 p.m. and 9:15 p.m., according to Sandra Price, Student Union movie committee chairman.

"Spotlight on the Balkans" presents an introduction to the characteristics and problems of the Balkan nations. Emphasis is placed on the crises following the close of World War II, but it also covers the costumes, resources, and problems of neighboring countries.

The other film "Zapotec Village" relates the story of life in a Mexican Indian village.

The movies are open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Yale Professor Opens Lectures

F. S. C. Northrop, professor of philosophy and law at Yale university, will be the first speaker of the year in the University lecture series, according to L. S. Cressman, chairman of the lecture committee.

Northrop will give his first lecture on the campus on Jan. 24. The topic will be "East and West, Problems of World Law." He will continue to be on the campus through Jan. 28 when he will give his second lecture, "University in the Contemporary World." While Northrop is on the campus he will be available for meetings with classes.

In his first lecture Northrop will draw on his experience in southern Asia during the last year where he was on leave studying. The second lecture is in keeping with the general theme of the 75th anniversary year, Cressman said.

Anthro Professors

L. S. Cressman, professor of anthropology, will present a paper on "Klamath Indian Pre-history" at a meeting of the American Anthropological association Nov. 15-17 in Chicago. The paper is based upon four years of fieldwork in the Klamath area.
