Ducks Alight in Boston Today; Drills Slated in Fenway Park

BOSTON — University of Oregon's Webfoots, 37 strong, arrived here this morning at 8:45 EST after a trans-continental night flight from Eugene, Oregon.

The Ducks, who play the University of Boston Terriers Saturday afternoon at Fenway Park, left Eugene Wednesday evening after a short, no contact workout on the practice field. Coach Len Casanova has scheduled two light drills, this afternoon and Friday on the turf of the home grounds of baseball's American League Red Sox.

Before departing, Casanova commented that "the players have shown a lot of fire in the three workouts since the victory over Idaho." George Shaw, Hal Dunham, and Barney Holland alternated in quarterbacking the offense against Boston defenses in dummy sessions.

The Oregon Jayvees, in turn, tested the Duck's defensive unit against Terrier-styled plays. Casanova would make no prediction as to the success the westerners would have against the southpaw slinging of Boston quarterback Harry Agannis.

Assistant Coach Jack Roche revealed that four ailing players, Dunham, Monte Brethauer, LeRoy Campbell, and Don McCauley will be available for limited service, at least. Fullback Tom Novikoff, who injured his back against Washington State College nearly two weeks ago, did not make the trip and is out of action for the season.

Harlow to Scout

With the exception of Line Coach Gene Harlow, who will scout the University of California Bears in their Saturday game with the University of Washington in Berkeley, the entire coaching staff, three managers and the team left Eugene Wednesday night at 6:30.

The flight was interrupted by two, on schedule stop-overs at Denver and Chicago. Other than today's workout, the itinerary calls for a four hour tour of the Hub City. The team is scheduled to return Sunday.

Art Litchman, Athletic News

Service chief, reported the weather in Boston as clear, but cold. Temperatures have ranged from the mid forties to the high twenties. A mixture of snow and rain fell during the Terriers' 52-6 slaughter of New York University last Saturday.

Ducks Lead Conference In Passing

The one-two punch of the Oregon aerial attack, Hal Dunham and George Shaw, have pitched the Webfoots to first place in this department in the PCC and sixth place in the nation. The combined efforts of these two have resulted in 92 completions out of 210 passes, for 43.8 per cent and 1,171 yards gained in seven games, with an average of 167.3 per game.

Dunham and Shaw are both among the top ten in passing in the PCC, according to statistics released by the conference. Dunham is fifth with 45 completions out of 103 attempts for 554 yards and Shaw is eighth, having completed 30 out of 69 passes for 361 yards. Each has tossed three touchdown passes.

Dunham Tenth

Dunham is tenth in the conference in total offense. His total yardage gained is 519, having lost 35 yards rushing.

In the pass receiving department, now led by Ed Barker of WSC, Ducks Monte Brethauer and Dick Davenport are ninth and tenth respectively. Brethauer has caught 16 passes and gained 132 yards while Davenport has collected 283 yards on 15 catches.

Shaw Ties Mark

George Shaw, leading the conference in interceptions with 10, has tied the PCC season record set in 1945 by Webfoot Jake Leicht. Shaw brought his record to 10 by snagging three Idaho passes last Saturday.

Duck fullback Tom Novikoff currently holds second place in the coast conference in kickoff returns. Novikoff has raced 208 yards in returning nine kickoffs. Ted Anderson, Oregon halfback, is seventh in this section with 10 kickoff returns for 151 yards gained.

Gifford Leads

The big men in the Pacific Coast Conference this week are Frank Gifford of Southern Cal and UCLA's sophomore sensation, Paul Cameron. Gifford leads the conference in rushing with a net gain of 658 yards and an average of 4.8 yards per carry. Uclan, Cameron is the first man in the conference to crack the 1000 yard mark in total offense. The young man has gained 412 yards rushing and 668 passing, a grand total of 1080 yards gained.

Trojans Pass

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — The Southern California Trojans worked behind closed doors yesterday to cook up some new maneuvers to throw at the Stanford Indians in their crucial conference game Saturday.

Indications were, however, that coach Jess Hill was bearing down on the Trojan's aerial game, both offensively and defensively, with particular emphasis on breaking up the Indian passing combination of Gary Kerkorian and end Bill McColl.

Sanders: Pep Talk

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Coach Henry (Red) Sanders ordered his UCLA Bruins today to "play them, forget them and look forward" to their Saturday game with the Oregon State Beavers.

The Bruins, whose football fortunes turned when they downed California last week, may be forced to go up against the Beavers without the services of their big defensive guard, George Kroeber, who injured his back in the Bear game.

Parsons Survives Cut

SEATTLE — (U.P.) — Tippy Dye, coach of Washington's defending Pacific Coast Conference Basketball champions, cut his squad to a "working contingent" of 13 players today.

"And the squad will be down to 12 by the time we play our first conference game," Dye said as he ran his squad through daily scrimmage sessions.

One of the survivors after the cut to 13 was freshman Dean Parsons, an ex-three sport star at Eugene, Ore., high school.

Pappy Drives Bears

BERKELEY — (U.P.) — Lynn Waldorf, coach of the California Golden Bears, says he will drill his team on blocking and tackling right up to the Washington Huskies game Saturday.

Waldorf said sophomore guard Charley Martucci "shows continual improvement." The portland coach also said he liked the running of fullback Johnny Olszewski, who is slated to operate against the Huskies.
